JEWISH SLAIN IN PALESTINE NOW NEAR 150

Uncensored Reports Call Holy Land Situation Very Grave.

ARABS CONTINUING JERUSALEM FIGHTS

Troop Action in Tel Aviv Claimed to Be Weak by Hebrews.

ARMS TAKEN AWAY, CHARGED BY JEWS

Attacks of Moslems Assume Racial War Proportions as Troops Land.

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 26 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Uncensored reports from Jerusalem describe the situation this evening as extremely grave notwithstand the presence of a larger number of British troops and marines in the country.

Isaac Ben-Zvi, Jewish labor leader, at 9 o'clock tonight telephoned here and said the attacks spread today all over the country, in the north and in the south, in the Valley of Jezreel and in Haifa, in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem. Many are reported killed and wounded in all places.

"Many from among us have been killed. Our arms have been taken away by the authorities but not from the Arabs," Ben-Zvi stated. "The riots continued in Haifa."

Advices received from the Vaad Hair, the Jewish community board of Jerusalem, were that Arab attacks on the Jerusalem Jewish quarters, Machneh Yehudah and Sparei Chessed, were in progress. The board said the number of Jewish dead ranges between 120 and 150.

Fights in Tel Aviv.

In Tel Aviv, fights continued today. British troops arrived, but the Jewish population complained their action was weak and that they have ordered the Jewish self-defense corps of the city to abstain from action. Five Jews were killed there today.

At 7 p. m. a member of the Jerusalem Vaad Ha'ir telephoned a message that the Arab attacks on Jerusalem come continuously from different positions.

It was charged in the reports that the government's protective action was weak and that the officials are obstructing the work of the Jewish self-defense corps. An attack on the Jerusalem suburb of Beth Alpha was repelled.

Jerusalem, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The first official communique of the Palestine government, issued at 11 last night, placed the Jewish dead in the religious riots at more than 50, the Moslem dead at 18, the Christian at three, with five others not identified racially. The wounded of all creeds totaled about 300.

The communique said that Jerusalem was then quiet with British infantry, air force and armored cars keeping order. British police and special constables had been established in all parts of the suburbs of Jerusalem.

The official casualty list for Jerusalem was 14 Jewish dead, 10 Arabian dead with five other persons dead from wounds. The list of seriously wounded included 37 Jews, 20 Moslems and one Christian. Those slightly wounded included 66 Jews, 32 Moslems and 15 Christians.

In Hebron it was said that "over 45 Jews and 8 Moslems were killed and over 59 Jews and 10 Moslems wounded." Order had been reestablished there. The district of Gaza and Beersheba were quiet. Demonstrations without incident had been held in Ramleh and Lud.

Arabs Driven Back.

Arabs who attacked the suburb of Hadar Ha'Carmel were driven back. Ten Arabs were wounded when they attempted to rush the police barracks at Nablus. In a clash at Beisan two Jews were seriously hurt and eight slightly injured. There was high tension in the town of Safed but the situation improved upon the arrival of British police and members of the transjordan frontier force.

Aircraft and armored cars from Amman have been operating in various parts of the country. Fifty soldiers arrived on Saturday, 600 arrived on Sunday and 450 more are expected. A cruiser is arriving in Palestine on Tuesday.

Jerusalem, Aug. 26 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—British troops and marines have been landed in Palestine, but the attacks of the Moslem Arabs against the Jewish population of Palestine have assumed the character of a racial war.

Toll Mounts Hourly.

The numbers of the dead and injured mount hourly. More than 100 Jews have been killed. The number of the Arab dead could not be ascertained, as the Moslem Arabs, following their custom, clear away the fall-

Victim's Pride Often Serves as Guard for Illegitimate Brokers

Swindled Patrons Avoid Publicity Which Might Prove Them "Suckers," and Those Who Venture Complaints Direct to Bucket Shops Are Put Off.

This is the third in a series of articles dealing with bucket shop and stock swindling operations in Washington. Another article will be published tomorrow.—Editor's note.

By REGINALD P. MITCHELL.

Gloating over his ill-gotten gain, the operator of the financial speak-easy persistently broadens the scope of his activities with an exhibition of daring and sheer bravado born of experiences in which the victims of his nefarious schemes, in a preponderately large number of cases, have refrained from public complaint.

The bogus stock brokerage operator is a master student of human nature and he is keenly aware that the average man or woman is supersensitive in revealing himself as having been duped or made the butt even of a practical joke. He is alive to the ideal of the average individual to maintain a stolid respectability, and the exposure of any shady transaction involving himself most assuredly would not add to his community's evaluation of himself, especially if he lived in the average small town.

The pseudo broker knows full well that the fleeced client usually abandons any thoughts of airing his troubles in his obviously well-founded conviction that his own credit and his own chances for success would be dangerously impaired, especially if he is in the role of an employe rather than that of an employer.

Thus it is the average man in the average community who provides the choice prey for the vultures of the financial speakeasies. The procession is a lengthy one and in it almost every walk of life is represented. For the most part they are the small-town business man, the salaried man, the woman in the home, the man in the pulpit occasionally, the laborer, the teacher, the farmer, the populace of average people with a few hundred or a few thousand dollars treasured away for the rainy days that come all too often.

Wall street and stock market operations have captured the imagination of a nation. A public consciousness for stock investments has been developed to the astonishing point where the average man, imbued with the knowledge of almost overnight successes in the market by others, has been strengthened in the latent belief of his own powers to achieve what others before him have achieved.

Mr. Average Investor, with his small idle bank roll thereupon quite

Reporter Is Subpenaed In Bucket Shop Expose

District Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday had a subpena issued for Reginald P. Mitchell, Post reporter whose articles on Washington's bucket shops and shady financial transactions are appearing daily in The Post, ordering his appearance before the Federal grand jury this morning at 11 o'clock.

A United States deputy marshal, armed with the subpena, visited Mr. Mitchell's home and the offices of The Post several times yesterday, but were unable to obtain service of the subpena as Mr. Mitchell was not at either place. The Post, however, communicated with Mr. Mitchell later and he will be ready to appear before the grand jury at 11 o'clock this morning.

HEBRON MASSACRE HORRORS REVEALED

Dispatch Tells of Slaughter of 73 Men, Women and Children in Town.

18 KILLED IN ONE HOME

London, Aug. 27 (Tuesday) (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Dispatches to the London papers of this morning give harrowing details of the clashes and massacres resulting from the dispute between Jews and Arabs over the wailing wall. C. S. Ketchum, Daily Express staff correspondent, cables from Jerusalem describing the Hebron massacre.

"The bloodiest tragedy of all," he narrates, "was enacted in the little Jewish quarter of Hebron, a town famous as the Biblical capital of Judea, where 73 Jews were slaughtered in their homes. Thirty were young Jewish students and twelve Americans qualifying for their rabbinate at Slobodka Rabinacal seminary.

"It was the Jewish Sabbath and the Jewish populace were quietly enjoying their Sabbath meals when a murderous mob of Arab tribesment suddenly descended on the little village.

"Men, women and children were cut

LAND POLICY CHANGE URGED BY PRESIDENT

Hoover Advocates Shake-Up in Federal and State Relations.

BOARD WILL BE NAMED

Salt Lake City, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Drastic changes in the relations between the Federal and State governments in respect to the public lands and reclamation service were suggested by President Hoover in a letter to Joseph M. Dixon, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, which was read here today by that official at a meeting of the governors of the public land States.

The President disclosed that he proposes to appoint a commission of nine or ten members, at least five of whom will be of the public land States, to study the policies now being pursued and the changes in existing laws which he might recommend to Congress. His idea is to bring about a greater measure of control by the State governments themselves.

"Generally I may state," the chief executive wrote, "that it is my desire to work out more constructive

Former Byrd Aid Missing; Clothes Found in Locker

Erstwhile Antarctic Expedition Member Disappears From Hotel.

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Clothes containing cablegrams from Commander Richard E. Byrd and business cards bearing the name of Richard Gale Brophy, former second in command to Byrd on the latter's expedition to the Antarctic, were found in a locker room at the Washington baths in Coney Island today. The clothes had been checked there yesterday.

Police learned that Brophy had been living at the Hotel Belvidere but had been missing for two weeks. His wife and child were said to be visiting friends at Toronto.

One of the cables signed by Byrd in Little America and dated April 2, read: "Much obliged for your message. There was some delay in reaching me. Remember that no matter what hard luck you may have had we can work things out if you will continue to have faith in me. Best of good wishes. Your friend, Byrd."

The second message, dated April 22, read: "How are you feeling? Please let me know if there is anything I can do for you. Cheerio, old fellow Byrd."

Brophy was active at Byrd head-

U. S. TO INSURE ITS WORKERS IF THEY AGREE

Low Rate Group Policies Soon to Be Discussed by Chief Clerks.

FEDERAL EXECUTIVES PROPOSE NEW PLAN

Employes Themselves to Be Asked to Voice Their Attitude.

SUCCESS TO DEPEND ON NUMBER ENLISTED

Question of Making System Mandatory Arises; Physical Tests Needless.

A proposal that the Federal Government establish and administer a plan of low-rate group or blanket insurance for its employes will be discussed at an official conference here September 6. The proposal is one of the most important ever advanced in connection with the Government personnel, affecting as it does every member of Uncle Sam's great army of workers, now numbering more than a half million.

The idea evidently was born at a meeting of the New York Federal Business Association, an organization composed of the executives in charge of the various Federal offices in and near New York, and was suggested to Rear Admiral Rosseau the chief coordinator of the United States.

Admiral Rosseau turned the suggestion over to Maj. Alfred H. Erck, chairman of the interdepartmental board on simplified office procedure. This board, which was created by the Bureau of the Budget and which functions under Admiral Rosseau is composed of 17 of the Government's chief clerks located in Washington. In addition to simplified office procedure, the board also has under consideration a number of personnel problems such as liberalizing annual and sick leave.

Next Meeting September 6.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for September 6, and it is at this time that the question of a Federal plan of group insurance will come up. Maj. Erck already has written to the chief clerks asking them what they think of the proposal and whether they believe it would prove popular with the employes, so that by the time the meeting is called all of them should be ready with some fairly definite ideas and conclusions.

Maj. Erck himself has taken no definite stand with regard to the proposal, and he is careful to make it clear that there is no intention of trying to impose anything upon the employes against their wishes.

So far, he says, no concrete plan has been drawn up.

That Uncle Sam could sell group insurance at a lower rate than any private insurance firm seems to be conceded. In the first place, it is pointed out, there would be no agent's commission to pay, and in the second place there would be no great overhead expense.

Depends on Subscription List.

The question arises, however, as to whether the plan could be successful if any appreciable number of employes refused to subscribe to it. And this leads to another question: Should the plan be made mandatory? Obviously, if the younger employes refused to join and left only the older employes to pay the premiums, the undertaking could hardly be successful from an economic standpoint.

These and other questions in connection with the proposal will be discussed when the chief clerks get together on September 6. If they should approve the idea it then will be submitted to the heads of the various departments for approval or disapproval.

In the meantime, it is expected that sentiment among the employes will be manifested in one way or another. If this sentiment should be favorable, it then will be time to draft the necessary legislation and introduce it in Congress. If it should be unfavorable, the plan probably will never reach the legislative stage.

Group insurance is given a prominent place in the preliminary report of William H. McReynolds, who is directing the field survey for the personnel classification board to determine how conditions in private business compare with those in the Government service.

Group Insurance Explained.

"Group insurance," he says in his report, "is a form of term insurance whereby a large number of persons are insured by a 'blanket policy.' Under present legal restrictions the group must be composed of employes of a common employer. The principles underlying group insurance are the same as those underlying ordinary life insurance. Medical examination, however, can be dispensed with except in those States where the law requires it.

"Policies are not written on a group of less than 50 persons. Where employes contribute to the premium costs, the rule is that at least 75 per cent of the total group must be insured. The insurance must be for the benefit of persons other than the employer. The cost is low, due

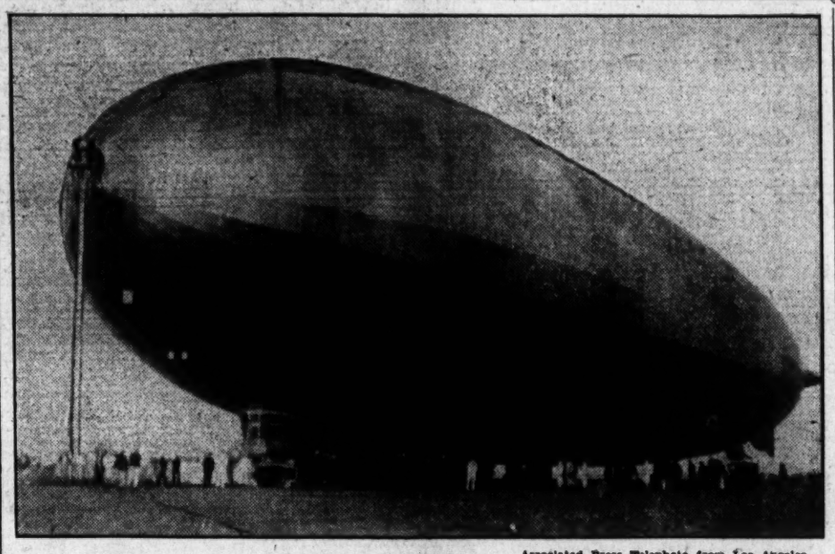
PASSENGERS BOARD ZEPPELIN TO START TRANSCONTINENTAL FLIGHT TO LAKEHURST HAVEN



Associated Press Telephoto from Los Angeles.

Graf Zeppelin being moored to the stub mast at Mines Field, Los Angeles, Calif., shortly after sunrise yesterday, after its great flight from Tokyo. It accomplished its trip in 74 hours, 3 minutes, faster time by far than any heretofore made, even by the transpacific fliers. Thousands gathered near the closely guarded field to watch the giant dirigible made fast.

Dr. Eckener Finds All in Readiness as He Takes Last Look.

17 DECIDE TO CROSS NATION BY DIRIGIBLE

Craft Had Enough Fuel on Landing to Continue to Atlantic.

WORLD TOUR TO END IN NEXT 48 HOURS

Skipper Intends to Follow Southern Route Across Rocky Mountains.

Municipal Airport, Los Angeles, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Passengers of the Graf Zeppelin were ordered aboard at 10:30 o'clock tonight and the ship will get under way as quickly as possible after that hour, it was officially announced.

The passenger list of the flight to Lakehurst, N. J., will number seventeen, it was announced tonight. Three Japanese, who came in from Kasumigaura, Dr. Yoshimatsu Enti, Osaka; Commander Nashiro Fumyoshi, Japanese navy, and Lieut. Comdr. Runosuke Kusaka, Japanese navy, leave the air liner here. This leaves sixteen of the original passengers. Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, U. S. N., planned to embark here, making the list 17.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the awy cruiser, boarded the craft and made inspection at 6:30 o'clock. He found refueling completed and the ship ready to take off. It was indicated departure would be between 11 p. m., and midnight. Announcement was made that upon arrival here the Zeppelin had sufficient fuel to continue on to Lakehurst.

Preparations Feverishly Made.

Like some sleeping Leviathan of the air, the Graf Zeppelin swung idly at its mooring mast here today after triumphantly completing the third lap of its earth-circling flight while preparations went feverishly ahead for the craft to soar gracefully away before midnight for Lakehurst, N. J., on the final swing around the globe.

In the golden shimmer of sunrise the mighty ship of the air moored today after conquering the stormy Pacific on the flight from Tokyo, reaching the coastline at San Francisco amid the rays of the setting sun yesterday, Dr. Hugo Eckener, its commander, circled the bay region and then headed for Los Angeles, hovered near the city through the hours before dawn, and headed for the mooring mast as the new day broke.

By 5:35 a. m., the aerial visitor had been made fast and the happy passengers descended from the cabin. And what a happy lot they were—representing several nations—for they were the first to span the Pacific, greatest of oceans, in a nonstop flight. There was Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer of many strange lands, who said the trip had been 'marvelous" and a "wonderful experience." Equally as enthusiastic was Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, hero of the Shenandoah disaster, who characterized the ocean crossing as the "finest flight" he had ever had. The other passengers expressed their enthusiasm in the superlative.

To Cross Nation in Two Days.

A 48-hour hop to Lakehurst is expected to complete the around-the-world cruise. Twelve days of actual flying, the shortest time in which man has girdled the globe, is believed by the Zeppelin officials an achievement almost within sight.

Dr. Hugo Eckener plans to take his 771-foot dirigible with 52 persons aboard along the Southern route across the Rockies, and then move into the Middle West to pass through Cleveland Wednesday morning and land at Lakehurst Wednesday night. The decision to cross the Rockies at night by moonlight was understood

WATCHERS KEEP EYE ON OUSTED LEADERS

Possible Activity of Tolbert and Howard at Meeting Subject of Talk.

POSITIONS ARE PECULIAR

(Associated Press.)

Political observers are watching to ascertain the extent to which Joseph Tolbert, of South Carolina, and Perry W. Howard, of Mississippi, will participate in the deliberations here of the Republican national committee, which, in September, is to elect a chairman, a woman vice chairman and a national committeeman for Georgia.

Tolbert and Howard, the latter a Negro, occupy peculiar positions. Both are regular members of the committee, entitled to vote, and yet have been removed from any control of party affairs in their States by edict of President Hoover. He held that charges in connection with Federal patronage in those States made it impossible for the administration to receive recommendations for appointment to public office coming from the old organizations.

Committees on patronage have been set up in the States as well as a number of others in the South and while Tolbert and Howard have the privilege of submitting recommendations it is made clear at the White House that these receive scant consideration.

Under Republican party rules Tolbert and Howard can continue to hold their places on the national committee until the next national convention and might be reelected then by the delegations to the convention from those States. A contest came up from Georgia at the last convention and with the Georgians unable to agree upon either of two candidates the task of selecting a national committeeman for the State now falls to the national committee.

The patronage committee in Georgia is composed jointly of outstanding Republican leaders as well as some Democrats who led the revolt within the Democratic ranks against the election of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York.

This combination line-up of Republicans and anti-Smith Democrats also obtains in most of the other Southern States, although the party organization in Virginia, North Carolina and Alabama were found satisfactory to the President, at least in patronage affairs. However, the Democratic leaders who supported Hoover are obtaining recognition in most of them.

The committee in Florida has given administration leaders more difficulty than those in any other Southern State, due largely to the differences between Glenn B. Skipper, national committeeman, and A. F. Knotts, former chairman of the State central committee.

A new committee has been named with Skipper and Knotts both eliminated, but Skipper is recognized in appointment and other party matters, and is credited with recommending most of the committeemen. Some criticism has been raised in Florida because of the failure to recognize women on the committee, but it is explained in some administration quarters here that this is only a temporary situation and that one or more women will be named to the patronage organization, as has been done in other States in the South.

Tons of Beauty Bought By American Women

Chicago, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—American women went in heavy for beauty aids last year; 4,000 tons of powder alone and enough lipsticks to reach from Chicago to Los Angeles by way of San Francisco.

Figures represented today at the tenth annual convention of cosmeticians and hair artists went further. There were also used 52,500 tons of cleansing cream, 26,250 tons of skin lotion, 19,109 tons of complexion soap, 17,500 tons of nourishing cream, 8,750 tons of foundation cream, 6,562 tons of bath powder and 2,375 tons of rouge.

"Women are 5 to 10 pounds lighter than they were a year ago, because of diet and exercise," said Mrs. M. B. McGavran, president.

Ruth Nichols Is Injured When Plane Crashes at Columbus.

SPEER OHIO RACE VICTOR

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The curly-haired and bronzed head of Mrs. Louise McPhetridge Thaden, smiling Pittsburgh air pilot, was the first to nod before the cheering throng at the National Air Races today as the women's transcontinental air derby raced to a thrilling close at the Cleveland Municipal Airport.

Mrs. Thaden, holder of the women's air speed record, added to her pilot's laurels in distinguished fashion by winning the Santa Monica, Calif., to Cleveland speed test with more than an hour to spare. When she brought her plane down across the finish line at 2:14 this afternoon, only 20 hours, 19 minutes and four seconds of flying time had elapsed since she

GALLINGER INQUIRY TO BE PUBLIC TODAY

All Interested Will Have Access as Inquisition Series Opens.

BOCOCK TO GO ON STAND

Insistent public demand for a complete knowledge of conditions at Gallinger Municipal Hospital bore fruit yesterday when the committee on medical surveys of the Board of Public Welfare voted to bring its probe of the institution out into the open with a series of public hearings, the first of which will be held today.

Although the investigating committee is entering into these public hearings in the belief that conditions at Gallinger Hospital are "satisfactory," it is apparent from the plans of the body as outlined by its chairman, W. W. Millan, that the investigation will be most thorough and comprehensive and that decisive action will be taken to remedy conditions wherever indicated.

As a matter of fact, even in the two brief weeks since Duncan Price, Post reporter, started his series of articles relating the situation at Gallinger, the physical aspects of Gallinger have been improved very materially.

Under the program of renovation and reconstruction of all of the hospital properties being carried out by Dr. Bocock, practically the entire psychopathic group of buildings has been completely renovated, this being the first time any attempt has been made to clean or otherwise repair these three structures since they were erected in 1923, and a similar process of overhauling is now nearing completion in all of the buildings at Gallinger, with the exception of the new main building, which was first put into service on June 22 of this year.

Funds for this purpose first became available on July 1, when the current fiscal year began. The work was started as promptly thereafter

Police Recover $100,000 Of Hutchinson's Jewels

Four Are Arrested in $250,000 Gem Theft Following Tip From New York Undercover Squad; Rest of Stolen Property Being Traced.

New York, Aug. 26 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Police Commissioner Grover Whalen's new secret service department accomplished its first big "scoop" today when the $250,000 jewel robbery at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney E. Hutchinson at Beverly Farms, Mass., was solved fifteen days after the crime by the arrest of four negroes in a Harlem barber shop with more than $100,000 worth of the Hutchinson jewels in their possession.

Following a direct tip of the undercover squad, who are unknown even to members of the police department and who mingle with gangsters and crooks on seeming terms of paldom, three detectives went to the barber shop on Seventh avenue this afternoon and there spotted the two negroes they were seeking. One was as keen-eyed as the detectives and attempted to slip a pearl necklace containing 138 matchd pearls valued at $1,000 a pearl into the leaves of a telephone book when he saw the officers. The other drew a loaded .38 caliber revolver and tried to hold the detectives at bay while he retreated toward a rear window. One blow of a blackjack felled him.

This Negro gave his name as Byron Beaucaire, 28, a musician, living in Boston; while the other told the police that he was James Salley, 25, a barber, of this city. Two other Negroes found in the barber shop were also taken into custody as witnesses, although they will probably be released shortly, officers said.

When searched, the Negroes were found to have on their persons four diamond bracelets, one diamond wrist watch, two diamond clasps, two pearl studs, the rope of pearls, another small strand of pearls, one blue enameled watch, one square cut diamond hatpin, one diamond bar pin and two diamond pins. Each piece corresponds identically with descriptions of the stolen Hutchinson jew-to have been made to take utmost advantage of climatic conditions.

The exact route of the Graf Zeppelin will be determined largely by weather conditions, favorable winds being the deciding factor. However, if conditions are favorable the following cities and communities on the air lanes between them may expect to see the great silver cruiser of the skies:

San Bernardino, Calif.; Phoenix or Tucson, Ariz.; Lordsburg, N. Mex.; El Paso, Tex.; Midland, Tex.; Oklahoma City, Muskogee, Tulsa, Okla.; Kansas City, Jefferson City, St. Louis, Mo.; Springfield, Chicago, Ill.; Toledo, Ohio; Cleveland, thence on through the Mohawk Valley through Syracuse, Buffalo, Albany, N. Y., and Lakehurst, N. J.

Change in Course Indicated.

Weather conditions reported to Graf Zeppelin navigators later indicated a change in the proposed course to El Paso. It was then planned to fly through San Gorgonia pass into the Imperial Valley, California, then to Yuma and along the Mexican border of Arizona and New Mexico to El Paso. It is estimated with favorable conditions the Zeppelin should reach El Paso in nine hours after departure from Los Angeles.

While the great silver ship swung idly at the mooring mast, ground crews poured the fuel and replenished supplies aboard. It was none the worse from the record-shattering 16,880 miles which it has left behind on its ten days of actual flying since it left Lakehurst, N. J., on August 7.

It was the third lap, just completed, which added new laurels to achievements of Dr. Hugo Eckener, and in the opinion of many had marked a new epoch in lighter-than-air commerce. This was the first nonstop air flight ever made across the broad Pacific Ocean, a hop of 5,800 miles from Kasumigaura, Japan, near Tokyo, to Los Angeles.

The long Pacific flight was fraught with considerable peril, as storms at sea beset the craft at times, requiring all the skill of Commander Eckener to bring it through unscathed.

Fair weather and a pleasant scene greeted the Zeppelin when it nosed through the Golden Gate at San Francisco at sunset last night. Roofs were covered with eager witnesses of the aerial triumph and the radio man on the ship described the picture as "grossartig" (magnificent).

6,880 Miles Over Steppes.

The longest portion of the journey was from Friedrichshafen to Kasumigaura, 6,880 miles, mostly over Siberian steppes. This partion of the trip was reported as uneventful. The only mishap so far was slight damage to a rear motor at Kasumigaura, which was repaired without difficulty.

When the sky monarch arrived here, Dr. Eckener was taken ill to a hotel. He was reported later to be improved and in no danger. The other notables aboard were anxious to get their land legs again, and made no lengthy statements.

"Four nationalities spent four days in the heavens together on the way from Japan to America," said Commander R. Kusaka, of the Japanese navy, one of the passengers. "This remarkable flight made possible by German genius, we feel, changes the map of the world and makes Japan truly a neighbor of the United States."

Of the 52 persons here from Japan by the dirigible 19 were passengers. Several of the passengers will go East by train to lighten the ship's burden across the continent.

West Virginia Firm Gives Gas.

Six hundred thousand cubic feet of gas, a mixture of natural gas and a chemical gas, donated by a Charleston (W. Va.) chemical company, were used in refueling the Zeppelin today.

Liquors, consisting entirely of wines, taken aboard the craft in Japan, partly were unused. They were placed under customs bond and sealed, not to be opened until after the Graf has cleared United States territory.

Food supplies were furnished by a Los Angeles hotel. Most of the food was ready to serve, but some of it is to be prepared by the Graf chef en route. A train consisting of a kitchen and a dining car was brought to a siding bordering the airport for the use of the crew.

Berlin, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—German newspapers were jubilant today over the swift transpacific flight of the Graf Zeppelin from Tokyo to San Francisco. Many of them compared the time, 68 hours, with the fortnight required by the fastest steamers for the same distance.

Weather Reports Praised.

Tageblatt said: "The passage of the Zeppelin from Tokyo to Los Angeles represents a long-distance speed record never yet attained by any airplane, and it is noteworthy that for more than half of this distance the Graf was obliged to plough through a vast sea of fog. Notwithstanding it reached its goal in this record time, thanks to the excellent weather transmission by American meteorological stations and the admirable navigation by its officers and crew."

Germania called attention to the fact that the Zeppelin covered the greatest distance over open sea ever accomplished by any air conveyance.

Deutsche Zeitung compared the accomplishment of the Graf as the first airship to cross the Atlantic and Pacific with the exploratory voyages of Drake and Magellan. "It is hoped," it continued, "that Germany soon will be able to construct Zeppelins meeting all requirements for transoceanic service without American financial backing. Not until a superairship world service under the German flag is consummated will the dream of old Count Zeppelin be realized."

Minister of Transportation Stegerwald telegraphed Dr. Hugo Eckener and his crew on behalf of the government sincere congratulations on "the completion by the Zeppelin of the most difficult stretch in the world flight, which is highly significant for the entire fatherland that is proud of your work and confident of the successful issue of your flight."

COURTHOUSE GROUP TO CONSIDER PLANS

Montgomery County Body to Examine Drawings This Afternoon.

FIREMEN ARRANGE FETE

The Montgomery County courthouse building committee will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon to consider plans for the proposed new courthouse and jail at Rockville, which have been prepared by Rossel Mitchell and Delos Smith, the architects.

If the plans prove satisfactory, it is expected construction work can be started within a short time, waiting only the settlement of the purchase of land in the block west of the present courthouse which is necessary for the erection of the proposed building. It is hoped to have at least enough of the new building constructed by the fall of 1930 to house the important branches of the county government which now must keep their valuable records in a building which is not fireproof

The Montgomery County Association of Volunteer Firemen will meet Thursday night at 8:15 o'clock at the Bethesda School for its regular quarterly meeting. The association will be the guests of the Bethesda Fire Department. The latter organization met last night to prepare plans for the entertainment of the county association.

It is expected that the major portion of the meeting will be devoted to discussion of plans for insurance of county firemen and also for the Labor Day fire parade in Washington. Francis Thomas, of Sandy Spring, is president and Norris Fussell is secretary-treasurer.

Commonwealth Counsel Is Meader Flynn's Aim

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 26.—Meader Flynn, Danville attorney and lifelong Republican, will tomorrow morning announce his candidacy for the position of Commonwealth's attorney of Danville. John W. Carter was unopposed in the recent Democratic primary. Flynn said this evening he had not been indorsed by any faction, but was running because he was urged to by friends.

Prior to practicing law Flynn was supervisor of mails at the Danville post office and for some years was deputy clerk of the United States Court.

J. W. Wilt, of Manassas, is in a critical condition at the Alexandria Hospital as the result of being struck by a train at Manassas Sunday night. He was given first-aid treatment there by Dr. S. McBride, and brought to the local hospital on a Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train, where he is being treated by Dr. C. A. Amos. He is suffering from a fractured skull, broken jaw, compound fracture of the arm, and other injuries which are considered likely to prove fatal.

According to reports, Wilt boarded a freight train at Manassas to ride in the direction of his home, and when the train passed Main street he jumped off directly in the path of a freight train going in the opposite direction, which struck him.

Wilt has a wife and three children living in Manassas.

A meeting of the style show committee of the local American Legion Post was held last night in the George Mason Hotel for the purpose of receiving the report of the entertainment committee. The show will be held in the Armory the week beginning September 16, and the entertainment committee has prepared a different program for each evening.

Placards and posters advertising the show have been received and will be distributed in Alexandria and vicinity shortly after Labor Day. The local World War veterans who will attend the State convention in Petersburg next week will also extend an invitation to veterans throughout the State to attend the local show.

The Legion Post proposes to devote the profits of the style show to the fund for the restoration of Gadsby's Tavern, which work is being undertaken by a citizens' committee, which has raised funds for the purchase of the property, which will be restored and presented to the Legion as a permanent memorial to the World War dead.

The work of restoring the historic old tavern is progressing rapidly, practically all the interior and exterior work, with the exception of painting, having been completed. The painting, which will require the services of an expert, will be a duplicate of the work done when the building was erected in 1752, samples of the original paint having been procured from the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, where many of the original interior fittings are now installed.

The old City Hotel Building, which adjoins Gadsby's Tavern, and is a part of the original property, will be restored as soon as funds for the purpose can be raised by the post. A part of this building will be converted into a museum, and the rear wing, on Cameron street, will be used as meeting rooms for the Legion Post and club rooms. A memorial room to the World War dead will be fitted up in the original building.

A majority of the 75 Alexandria firemen who will attend the State Firemen's convention in Lexington, the sessions of which open Wednesday morning, will leave this morning by train. The local firemen, headed by the Citizens' Band of 32 pieces, and accompanied by the Ladies' Auxiliary, of approximately 50 members, will march in the parade Thursday, which will be the big feature of the convention. Approximately 150 persons from Alexandria are expected to attend the convention, many of them going by automobile.

The representation of the three local companies in the parade will be: No. 1 Company, 12 men; No. 4, 35 men, and No. 5, 30 men. One member of No. 5 Company who expected to attend, Leon Cornell, is in the Alexandria Hospital, having been seriously injured in an automobile accident Sunday night. His condition was reported last night as being favorable.

The Alexandria Rotary Club, at its luncheon today in the George Mason Hotel, will consider an official invitation extended to it to participate in the Chamber of Commerce day at the Fairfax County Fair. Edmund H. Allen, president of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, will appear at the luncheon to extend the invitation.

The club will also have up for discussion today some of the tangible suggestions made at the last meeting by District Governor Julius Burrus, who addressed the club then.

VIRGINIA TEACHES CARE OF INFANTS

7,600 Women Are Enrolled in Instruction Course Given by Mail.

IN PROGRESS SIX YEARS

Richmond, Va., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Thirteen-year-old school girls, great-grandmothers and women whose ages range all the way in between, and even a few men, are taking advantage of the State health department's "Healthy Baby" correspondence course.

According to Mrs. Jessie Wetzel Farris, R. N., director of the course, approximately 7,600 women, girls and men have enrolled since the correspondence bureau was organized in the health department July, 1923.

The course is divided into two parts of six lessons each, the first part dealing with maternity and the second with infant welfare. In the series, the students are taught vital lessons of health, affecting not only the lives of babies, but also of adults.

Sees Great Improvement.

No statistics have been correlated for the purpose of determining what effect the introduction of the course has had on infant mortality, Mrs. Faris says, but from the numerous letters received from mothers, in which the course is praised, she is of the opinion that a great improvement has been wrought in the conditions surrounding the infants whose parents have taken advantage of the course.

Only a small portion of Virginia mothers have been reached so far by the course, she states, since there are approximately 55,000 births in the State each year, and the average number of students a year has been less than 1,300.

Starts New Team Daily.

The correspondence school starts a new team every day of the year, says Mrs. Faris, and is free to every citizen of Virginia. On competion of the course the student receives a certificate attested by the director and Dr. Ennion G. Williams, State health commissioner.

The course was made available to Virginians six years ago, when students of public health sought new means of curbing an astoundingly high infant mortality rate.

Boy Is Killed by Auto As His Father Watches

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 26.—Waiting for his father's car to draw up by the sidewalk at Gretna near here, Eugene Fitzgerald, 7, son of E. G. Fitzgerald, of Altavista, was almost instantly killed yesterday evening. Ollie T. Ramsey, 18, driving a car immediately behind the Fitzgerald machine, claims that he was given no warning and to avoid a rear-end collision swerved his car to the sidewalk where it overturned, crushing the small boy to death before his father's eyes.

Ramsey is charged with involuntary manslaughter and has given bond of $1,000. The victim's mother was seized with a heart attack on hearing the news and was today still under care of a physician.

Man, Shot in Back, Says He Fired Pistol

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 26.—James G. Schultz, 32 years old, an automobile mechanic of Richmond, who formerly lived here, was critically wounded when shot in the back this morning at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Cora Pettygrew.

Schultz and his wife were in the back yard of the home when Mrs. Pettygrew heard the report of a revolver, it is reported. Schultz walked back in the house and said he had accidentally shot himself. He was moved to Lynchburg Hospital, where he underwent an operation. Later he became unconscious.

VIRGINIA DOCTORS PLAN CONVENTION

Infantile Paralysis Talk Will Occupy Members at Conference.

DISCUSSION FOLLOWS

Richmond, Va., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Two papers and a thorough discussion of infantile paralysis will occupy the entire first afternoon at the annual meeting of the Virginia Public Health Association September 6-7, at the new Waverly Hotel, Virginia Beach, Va.

Business matters to be considered at the convention include some proposed changes in the constitution of the association and a discussion of relations between the American Public Health Association and affiliated organizations. Homer N. Calver, general secretary of the American Association, New York, is expected to be present for this portion of the program, according to Dr. Fred J. Wampler, of Richmond, secretary of the State society.

More than 25 city and county health officers and directors are expected at the meeting, Dr. Wampler said.

The program opens at 2 p. m. Friday, September 6 with two papers on poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) by Dr. C. B. Ransone, health officer at Roanoke, and Dr. J. P. Leake, United States Public Health Service, Washington. Dr. H. G. Grant, epidemiologist of the State health department, Richmond, will discuss the papers.

Saturday morning, September 7, Dr. H. E. Haffeltine, of the United States Public Health Service, Washington, will read a paper on undulant fever, followed by a discussion by Dr. W. Brownley Foster Richmond city health officer. Dr. B. B. Bagby, of Courtland, will discuss daily and monthly records, and the program will be concluded by the presentation of a State tuberculosis program by Dr. Ennion G. Williams, State health commissioner, Richmond.

Dr. W. Brownley Foster, of Richmond, is president of the State Association.

Tobacco Crop Large Southside Virginia

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 26.—Reports received today from various counties in Southside, Va., are that the tobacco crop is the largest that has been raised in a number of years and the tobacco growers in this section have experienced unusually good weather condition for the growing of the "golden leaf."

Although the most of the crop is not ready for cutting, bright tobacco growers have been kept busy pulling and cutting bottom leaves. Good prices are expected. The bright tobacco market will open in Petersburg October 1, and other markets about the same time.

Firemen Rescue Woman In Winchester Blaze

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 26.—Fire starting today in a storage house adjoining A. R. Patton's general store, near the Winchester Fair Grounds, trapped for a times Mrs. Millard Keckley, occupying a second story apartment, resulted in W. M. Patton being severely burned on the hands and arms while rolling a blazing barrel of oil into a nearby yard, and caused families of the neighborhood hastily to pack up their belongings ready to vacate as the blaze threatened to engulf them.

Mrs. Keckley was rescued by firemen. Patton was burned by blazing tar dropping from the roof as he rolled the flaming barrel of oil out of the building.

HUSBAND IS KILLED IN AUTO COLLISION

Young Wife, Critically Hurt, Is Taken to Hospital in Baltimore.

BIG BUS STRUCK CAR

A young husband was killed almost instantly and his wife critically injured yesterday when their automobile was in a head-on collision with a New York-bound bus of the People's Rapid Transit Co. of Philadelphia on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard five miles east of Laurel. Their car was reduced to wreckage.

The dead man is Herman Weigold, 29 years old, 141 Riverside avenue, Torrington, Conn., who was driving. The wife, Mrs. Elsa T. Weigold, 29, of the same address, is in the University of Maryland Hospital in Baltimore with very little chance for recovery, physicians say.

The accident occurred on a stretch of the pike on which shoulders have been built in a widening program. The main stretch of road is from one to two inches lower than the shoulders which are wide enough for one car.

According to the story told to Corpl. J. B. Deutsch, of the Laurel substation, Maryland State police, by Policeman B. Sheldon, of the First Precinct, Washington, who was riding in the front seat of the bus, the bus driver attempted to pass another car at the brow of a hill and could not see the approaching Connecticut car.

Bus Swung to Left.

According to Sheldon's story, the bus driver, Earl Reed, 2043 South Norwood street, Philadelphia, whose Washington address is the Oxford Hotel, attempted to run the bus to the left and onto the shoulder at the same time that Weigold, who was traveling in the main portion of the road, attempted to do the same thing. The Weigold car, a new Ford coupe, was tossed against a bank and the body broken into small pieces.

The accident took place at Deep Run, near Waterloo, Md. An Army ambulance from Fort Meade, which was passing, took the Weigolds to the Baltimore hospital, where the husband was declared dead upon arrival. The wife was found to have compound fractures of both arms, a fractured right leg, a fractured skull, several rib fractures and internal injuries.

The bus had a broken wheel, a bent axle and radius rod and damages to the body. None of the sixteen passengers on the bus was injured with the exception of bruises and shock.

Driver Is Arrested.

Reed was arrested by Corpl. Deutsch and taken before Justice of the Peace Howard U. Gosnell at Savage, Md. He was released on $3,000 bond to appear at an inquest, which will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Central Police Station, Baltimore.

Bus authorities nearly came to blows with newspaper photographers, who attempted to photograph the damaged bus. When the photographers attempted to take pictures the bus representatives hurriedly threw a tarpaulin over the damaged portions and threatened to punch any of the newspaper men in the nose who attempted to take pictures.

The passengers were transferred to another bus and taken to Baltimore. The bus left Washington yesterday morning at 6:45 o'clock, bound for New York.

The Weigolds were married around October, 1928, according to the driver's permit, issued to the wife, which shows a change of name because of marriage October 26, 1928.

On Vacation Tour.

The young couple evidently had been traveling on a vacation tour. A blood-soaked postcard found in the wrecked car bore a message which said that they were about 30 miles from Washington and would sleep in Baltimore that night. The card was addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Opperman or Upperman, 264 South Main street, Torrington. Blood has stained the card so that most of the message and part of the address were illegible. The picture showed a view of the Lincoln Memorial.

Among the passengers were several from Washington, who gave their names and addresses as follows: Harry Williams, 505 Fourteenth street northeast; Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Dent, 1013 North Capitol street; Edna Wasley, 3023 Fourteenth street northwest, and Policeman Sheldon. Mrs. Dent was bruised and severely shocked but was not given hospital treatment.

Former City Dog Catcher Is Jailed

Cumberland Man Accused of Entering Pound and Freeing Hounds.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 26.—Robert Earsom, one time city dog catcher, was arrested and jailed today by Officer William M. McCoy, charged with breaking and entering the city dog pound and liberating twelve dogs, and with breaking it again and taking two hound dogs held for disposition, and selling them.

Earsom was let out of the service some months ago after presiding over that department of the city for some years. McCoy was named a special policeman and has been handling the animal and humane work for the police department under Chief Oscar A. Eyerman.

According to Chief Eyerman, McCoy has been taking up an average of 100 stray dogs a month. Unclaimed dogs, except dogs of well bred species or children's pets, are killed by a veterinarian, and the streets are gradually being cleared of stray animals.

'Dry' Prosecutions Greater in Virginia

Percentage of Convictions Also Mounts, Attorney General Reports.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Prosecutions under the Virginia State prohibition laws increased from 6,757 in 1927-28 to 7,354 for the year ended June 30, 1929, it was reported today by Attorney General John R. Saunders, chief of the State Department of Prohibition.

The percentage of convictions also increased, said Attorney General Saunders, who added that "the letter and the intent of the prohibition law is being observed better in Virginia than ever before." He said there was now a greater tendency on the part of juries to convict offenders.

Georgia's Tobacco Prices Set Record

This Year's Returns Exceed by $5,000,000 Previous High Mark.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Georgia's bright leaf tobacco growers have collected $16,662,822 this season for their crop of 90,684,248 pounds of the weed, averaging $18.38 per hundred pounds for the greatest crop on record in the State.

Figures released by the State Department of Agriculture today for last week's sales show a total of 3,721,780 pounds sold at an average of $9.93 per hundred pounds, bringing a gross return of $369,549.73.

The past week included sales on 29 floors in 11 towns, with one warehouse not reporting. All warehouses in the State, with the exception of three at Metter, have closed and the three remaining in operation will close Wednesday.

The money return exceeds by more than $5,000,000 the mark established in 1927, the greatest previous return on record, and the poundage exceeds by more than 4,000,000 the yield last year.

Lake Jackson Swimming Club Pool Is Opened

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., Aug. 26.—The swimming pool of the Lake Jackson Swimming Club was opened yesterday with appropriate ceremonies and with a large group of the membership in attendance.

The pool, which was constructed by Charles W. Alpaugh, is located at Bland's Ford, on Occoquan Run, about 4 miles south of Manassas. It is 100 feet long and 40 feet wide and is specially arranged to care for the aquatic reqirements of each member.

The club membership committee consists of Mrs. G. Raymond Ratcliffe, Mrs. A. Stuart Gibson, Mrs. M Bruce Whitmore, Mrs. F. W. Patterson, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. George Hasel, Mrs. Stewart McBryde, Mrs. M. M. Ellis and Misses Elvere Conner, Anne Bruce Whitmore and Virginia Conner.

Shortage Causes Closing of Bank

Highland County Institution Cashier Is Freed Under $10,000 Bond.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Aug. 26.—M. J. Woodward, State bank examiner, has ordered closing of the doors of the Farmers Bank of Highland, located at Doe Hill, Highland County, and the institution is in the hands of the State banking department until a receiver can be appointed by the court.

Alleged to be responsible for a reported shortage of about $18,000, John E. Slaven, cashier, is at liberty under bond of $10,000. Slaven is about 30 years old and is married. The bank was one of the most prosperous in Highland County, its capital stock is $10,000, its surplus $3,500 and deposits approximately $100,000. Doe Hill is the center of a prosperous farming and cattle-raising section. Dr. J. F. Stover, president of the bank, today declined to discuss the institution's financial difficulties, other than to state that the shortage is about $18,000. Slaven's bond and other available securities, it is unofficially reported, are expected to protect depositors and stockholders from loss. Reopening of the bank is expected in a short time.

Contract for Hospital At Reidsville Awarded

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 26.—Contract was awarded here today by Dr. T. W. Edmunds, of this city, to P. L. Anderson, local builder, to construct the Annie Penn Memorial Hospital, at Reidsville. It will represent an investment of $125,000 and will be ready for occupancy in seven months.

The 50-bed hospital is to stand on the site of the old Johnson home, on Main street, Reidsville, and will be a three-story structure of fire resisting material. It will be owned by Dr. Edmunds.

BESIEGERS' VOLLEY KILLS WANTED MAN

WAS DEMENTED, CLAIM

Biddeford, Me., Aug. 26 (A.P.)—After having held a score of peace officers and National Guardsmen at bay for more than two hours, Harry Hussey, 24, said to have been demented, was killed today as he emerged from his farmhouse blockade to hunt one of the officers who had shot him in the hand. The officers had laid siege to Hussey's quarters after he had shot and wounded his father, 68 years of age.

The Younger Hussey, who police said, had formerly been an inmate of the insane asylum at Augusta, recently returned to reside with his family. This morning, following breakfast, he went to another room, turned on a phonograph, and later two shots were heard.

The father went to remonstrate with his boy for firing the pistol, and, in anger, the younger Hussey fired at his parent, inflicting wounds in both cheeks. Police were notified, and the family took refuge in outbuildings.

After more than an hour's siege Young Hussey was struck by a guardsman's bullet. He emerged to find the man responsible, a volley rang out, and Hussey tumbled over dead.

The father will recover, as will two peace officers who were slightly wounded during the siege.

Rotarians Addressed By District Governor

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Aug. 26.—The ninth consecutive 100 per cent meeting of the Leesburg Rotary Club was held at the inn today. Julian A. Burruss, district governor, Fifty-sixth District of Rotary International, addressed the club on his annual visit here. He was introduced by Edwin E. Garrett, president of the local club. Mr. Burruss spoke on Rotary and what the Rotarians were doing to bring about peace and good-will throughout the country.

Plans were made by the Leesburg Club for a big celebration on the 100th consecutive 100 per cent meeting, which will be held some time in October. Prominent Rotarians will speak at that time.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

As an unofficial spokesman Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, of Iowa, takes the cake. He is just back in town after a most successful tour through the East lining up new clients.

It will be recalled that the senator got his start, not at the bottom as most men do, but as the unofficial spokesman in the last campaign and for some time afterward, for Mr. Hoover. Shortly after the Senate convened for the extra session the senator threw up this connection, not because he was asked to, but simply because his predictions as a spokesman did not bear out.

But the unhappy outcome of this venture has apparently not dissuaded him from continuing in the business. On the Eastern trip he lined up and spoke for none other than former Mayor Hylan and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

* * * *

His spokesman's utterance for Mr. Roosevelt was the most important. It may, in fact, have a bearing on the next Democratic presidential campaign. This shows that the Iowa senator is nonpartisan when it comes to the spokesmanship business.

He came out of the capitol at Albany one day, breathed deeply of the bracing atmosphere and observed:

"No wet will ever be President of the United States." Gov. Roosevelt just told me that he was convinced that if a referendum were taken tomorrow the drys would win. And Mr. Hylan told me the same thing in a conversation I had with him a few days ago."

Thus it will be seen that the senator spoke for two men at once, an enlargement of the job when he spoke for Mr. Hoover alone.

It has never been developed whether the senator and Gov. Roosevelt were discussing a national referendum or a State one when the latter opined that the drys would win. The point is, and the political dynamite for the New York Governor is, that he said the drys would win. There is dynamite in that statement because before the governor can ever be a serious Democratic presidential possibility he must be elected Governor of New York again.

There is a serious question as to whether the senator's statement of what he had told him gave the New York Governor any appetite. It must, instead, cause him all sorts of embarrassment.

It would not ordinarily be so important perhaps, were there not a decided feeling that the New York governor is turning dry, so to speak.

* * * *

The outcome of the 1928 campaign was enough, of course, to dishearten any wet, or rather one who has national aspirations. There are many who believe that before 1932 comes around the New York governor will have wrung himself out. If this can be done successfully, viewed from the way the situation is now, it would seem that this would be the political thing to do.

But the governor should go easy in this transformation, it would seem, until after his reelection next year.

Therefore, it can be understood that Senator Brookhart's disclosure of the conversation might be very embarrassing. In fact, if the senator does not use more judgment in his unofficial spokesmanship business he is going to find many doors closed to him.

And the senator is so naive and so honest that he will not understand the reason why.

JEWISH DEAD IN PALESTINE RIOTS IS PUT AT NEAR 150

en. It is assumed they at least equal those of the Jews.

New attacks were made here today, where the British military reinforcements were rushed in largest numbers, and in other Palestine centers. This morning three more Jews were injured when Arabs exploded a bomb in the old city. The dispensary of the Hadassah Hospital at Hebron, maintained by the American Women's Zionist organization, was burned.

The Jewish quarter, Nachlath Zion, near Jerusalem, was attacked by Arabs. Armored cars have been rushed to the spot.

The city is full of refugee from the suburbs and the colonies. There is a scarcity of medical supplies and of food. The Jerusalem Jewish communal board has started a fund to maintain the refugees. Looting was going on. The houses of Dr. A. Levin-Epstein, an American, and a Mr. Gordon, director of the Anglo-Palestine Bank here, were ransacked during the attack on the suburb Talpioth.

25 Jewish Workers Saved.

Twenty-five Jewish workers in the Novomejski Dead Sea project were brought safely to Palestine under a military convoy. Four Jewish workers employed in the construction of the Rockefeller Archeological Museum in Jerusalem were saved from a Moslem mob.

A group of American Jews, residents and visitors here, took refuge in the house of the American consulate and in the building of the French Catholic convent.

Hospital records here showed 80 dead of whom 59 are Jews. Two hundred and thirty-three injured persons were recorded.

Reports reaching here this morning show that the warfare is extending throughout the country. The Jewish population of Haifa, the Palestine port city, was attacked. Three persons were killed and many were wounded. An attack on the suburb, Hadar Ha'Carmel, was repulsed. An appeal for help was received from the Jewish pioneer settlements in the neighborhood, situated in the Valley of Jezreel. Reports were also received that new Arab demonstrations were held in Ramleh.

Martial law was proclaimed in Tel Aviv, the all-Jewish city, and in Jaffa, the neighboring city. A troop of 200 British soldiers was stationed at Tel Aviv and 70 civilians were drafted into the Tel Aviv police service. The Jewish population was moved from the outskirts to the center of the city.

Armored Cars Ordered.

Six armored cars were ordered from Bagdad and more cavalry and infantry were asked from Cairo.

It was impossible to ascertain the number of those killed and injured in Tel Aviv during the assaults. The trouble started Sunday when the Moslem Arabs sought to march through Tel Aviv to bury an Arab who was killed in the fighting. A number of the Arabs attempted to break into the city proper. The British police fired. Six Arabs were killed.

Fighting also took place in several quarters of Jaffa. Saturday night, a mob of Moslem Arabs attacked the government offices at Jaffa. The British police opened fire, repelling the attack. Five Arabs were killed and more than 30 wounded.

Among the American students killed when Arabs attacked the Hebron Talmudic Academy Sunday were:

William Berman, 24, of Philadelphia, graduate of the College of the City of New York.

Jacob Wexler, 17, of Chicago.

David Scheinberg, 22, of somewhere in Pennsylvania.

Wolf Greenberg, 17, of New York.

Benjamin Horwitz, 17, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Henry David Epstein, residence not known.

Harry Prunen, residence not known.

Krasner, residence not known.

Among the Wounded.

Among the wounded were:

Raklin Winchester, of Springfield, Ill.; Samuel Sanders, of Brooklyn; Lester (16) and Max (18) Harbalter, of Brooklyn, and Raul de Koven, son of a Chicago physician.

Chicago, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Two of the three Chicago students listed among the dead in clashes between Arabs and Jews in Jerusalem have been identified as:

Jacob Wexler, 17, son of Richard Wexler, retired radio dealer.

David Epstein, 17, son of Rabbi Ephraim Epstein.

Greenberg, not yet fully identified.

Young Wexler, was a student in the Yeshiva Hebron, rabbinical preparatory school.

Epstein, was also a student in the Yeshiva Hebron. He was a nephew of Rabbi Moshe Mordecai Epstein, dean of the school.

Quieter, London Hears.

London, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The situation in Palestine where Arabs and Jews have engaged in serious religious warfare for several days had become somewhat more quiet according to the sparse reports reaching here today. Official quarters believed now that British land and sea forces had arrived, the authorities would speedily have the situation under control.

The colonial office tonight issued a statement admitting the extreme gravity of events and confirming the killing of 45 Jews and seriously wounding of 59 at Hebron. Their statement was based on a report from the acting high commissioner of Palestine which, however, did not extend beyond the occurrences of early Sunday morning.

Looting and fighting still went on in the suburbs of Jerusalem although the city itself was comparatively quiet. The contagion of violence had spread to other cities.

MacDonald Seeks Advice.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald continued to consult those competent to advise the government on its difficult position. Today it was the turn of Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, the British statesman perhaps best versed in League of Nations affairs and who will be a delegate to the assembly next week. The premier also had another long talk with First Lord of Admiralty this afternoon.

As yet there has been no official confirmation of the report that Lord Reading, a distinguished Jew who has filled important government posts, would shortly lead a special mission to Palestine to seek solution of the age-old race problem.

The British public was more than surprised at the suddenness of developments Saturday requiring such striking display of British military and naval power. Up to that time reports from Palestine had told only of minor rioting growing out of the perrennial disputes connected with the Wailing Wall. This wall has been the symbol of deep religious and racial antagonisms in the struggle between Islamism and Judaism, whose echoes have been reverberated throughout the vast Moslem dominions of Great Britain.

Conflict of Long Standing.

The conflicting claims by Moslems and Jews devolving on the Wailing Wall are of long standing and have been brought to the League of Nations, but have never been settled. The wall itself belongs to the Jews and has been used as a place of worship for centuries, but the pavement fronting the wall and the ground on which it stands are Arab property. The Arabs have refused to sell the pavement and site.

Complaints have been made here that the late Conservative government, through neglect to take the situation smartly in hand, planted the seeds of the present trouble. The general explanation of the dispatch of a fleet of warships and troops in such apparently excessive strength is that this action was necessary to maintain British prestige not only in Palestine, but throughout the Moslem dominions of Britain.

The attitude of the British government has been that the site of the Wailing Wall is undoubtedly Moslem property and that Jews have only a proscriptive right of access.

Official Statement.

The British colonial office today issued the following communique relating to the situation in Palestine.

"Summarizing the position, on information available Sunday morning, the acting high commissioner states the old city of Jerusalem was then quiet but there still was some desultory firing and incendiarism in the new quarter.

"The situation in the Jewish outlying quarters and suburbs of Jerusalem was not yet under control and there was still some looting with casualties.

"The Jewish garden city of Talpioth has been temporarily evacuated by the inhabitants.

"In the Hebron Saturday there was an attack by an Arab mob on the small Jewish quarter. Up to the present the known casualties include 45 Jews killed while 59 Jews were seriously wounded. Moslem casualties were eight killed and ten wounded.

"The town is now reported quiet, but 450 Jews have been temporarily accommodated in police barracks.

Trouble Averted.

"In Jaffa the situation at 8 o'clock Sunday morning caused some alarm in view of possible demonstrations carrying with them the risk of clashes. The district authorities, however, succeeded in averting the demonstration for the moment, and the acting high commissioner felt no doubt that the arrival of the battleship Sussex at Jaffa early Monday morning would ease the situation.

"Nablus remained uneasy, but outbreaks there so far have been averted. Safad is very uneasy. There are no reports of attacks in Jewish colonies to the north. Gaza and Beersheba are quiet but restive."

The acting high commissioner issued the following proclamation Sunday:

"I give notice to the public of Palestine that his majesty's forces are operating in the country with the sole object of quelling the present disturbances promptly and restoring order. Exceptional measures of repression will be avoided as far as possible, but troops will not hesitate to use force against all disturbers of the peace without distinction."

MRS. THADEN WINS WOMEN'S AIR RACE

Maintains Lead to National Meet at Cleveland in Derby From Coast.

OTHER GROUPS EN ROUTE

soared from the Pacific Coast on Sunday, August 18.

Negotiating the final 120 miles from Columbus, Ohio, in only 44 minutes, the smiling Pittsburgh aviatrix maintained her lead over Gladys O'Donnel, of Long Beach, Calif., who won second place with an elapsed time of 21 hours and 30 minutes.

Ruth Nichols, of Rye, N. Y., who had been in third place when the women's air caravan reached Columbus, crashed while making a landing there and was forced out of the race. She was injured and her plane was wrecked. Miss Nichol's misfortune moved Amelia Earhart, the transatlantic flier, into third position with an elapsed time of 22:08:37.

Aside from the tragic death of Marvel Crossen, of Los Angeles, who fell to her death in a parachute leap while flying over Arizona on the second day of the derby, and the injuries to Miss Nichols, the transcontinental race ended successfully.

H. A. Speer, of Marshall, Mo., flying a Barling, was winner of the all-Ohio derby for civilian pilots, with an elapsed time of 4h. 22m. 59s. Lewis Love, of Richmond, Ind., was second in a Davis B-3, with elapsed time of 4h. 43m. 15s. Varne L. Roberts, of Moline, was third in 5h. 4m. 25s., flying a Parasol monocoupe.

Meanwhile, four other air derbies were headed toward the national air races.

At Milwaukee, Wis., pilots in the Portland-to-Cleveland air derby were holding over for the night, prepared to finish their race at the Cleveland airport tomorrow. Racers in the Miami Beach to Cleveland event were to spend the night in Louisville and finish tomorrow. The Oakland, Calif., to Cleveland racers were headed for Omaha, Nebr., stopover point for them tonight en route to the national races.

Schoenhair Flies From Coast.

Lee Schoenhair, of Los Angeles, roared across the finish line at 5:25 p. m., completing in 13 hours and 50 minutes a nonstop flight from Los Angeles, where he took off this morning as the first entry in the Los Angeles-to-Cleveland nonstop air derby. His average speed was calculated at 160 miles an hour.

While the crowds waited the arrivals of the various racers, they were kept thrilled by stunts and maneuvers of other pilots. The piercing whine of diving planes and the deafening roar of squadrons in battle trials made the airport a din throughout the day.

Maj. Owens Military Winner.

There was some anxiety felt when Ruth Elder failed to finish the women's air derby on scheduled time. She finally landed several hours late, reporting she had lost her way and gone to Akron, where she obtained fuel and her bearings.

Maj. John S. Owens, of Philadelphia, flying with the Pennsylvania National Guard, provided an additional thrill by winning the 80-mile race for military planes. He maintained an average speed of 149.07 miles an hour to cover the course in 30 minutes 43.9 seconds. Maj. Owens also won the regular National Guard air race Sunday.

Police were unable to hold back the crowds when the women's derby ended. Thousands swarmed on the field to acclaim the pilots as they landed.

Among the distinguished visitors were Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who flew in last night for the remainder of the races. They are guests of Parmalee Herrick, son of the late Ambassador to France. The flying colonel evidenced keen pleasure throughout the program, especially when the Army and Navy air squadron were executing their maneuvers.

Two Dirigibles Take Part.

Two dirigibles from the Goodyear Rubber Co. took part in the program.

Victory in the women's air derby carried with a grand prize of $8,000 and other prizes for winning the various laps, which will make the total to be distributed about $25,000. Mrs. Thaden will receive the major share.

A first prize of $1,000 went to Pilot Speer for his victory in the all-Ohio race. Second prize was $500 and third prize $375.

Omaha, Nebr., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Robert C. Nagel, of Oakland, Calif., led the six Oakland-to-Cleveland air derby fliers into Omaha, landing his monoplane at Municipal Airport at 6:21:47 p. m. He was trailed closely by Loren W. Mendell, of Los Angeles, piloting the endurance plane Angeleno.

Mendell checked in at 6:22:40. Third to arrive was Joe Barrows, of Oakland. He checked in at 6:26.

Under-Fuselage Ripped.

Mendell made the flight from Cheyenne, Wyo., with a badly ripped under-fuselage. He was unable to explain how the fabric was torn off, but said he was flying low and that the wind might have caused the damage.

Jo Donaldson, of Newark, N. J., the fourth to arrive, came to a landing at 6:29:32. D. C. Warren, of Oakland, was delayed by engine trouble at Laramie, Wyo.

Mechanics immediately started to work on Mendell's damaged ship in an effort to have it in readiness for the take-off tomorrow morning.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Earl Rowland, Jacksonville, Ill., led the Miami-Cleveland air derby contestants to Louisville from Nashville this afternoon, although he broke the tail skid of his ship in landing at the Tennessee city. He took the lead from C. D. Bowyer, Westfield, N. J., who made a spectacular forced landing at Nashville, but was able to resume the flight and arrived here after the others. The fourteen pilots planned to pass the night here and resume the flight in the morning for Cleveland.

Some months ago Brophy returned from the Antarctic, saying that he was going into private business.

Boy, 10, May Die Of Crash Hurts

Another Also Injured as Toy Wagon Hits Danville Truck.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Aug. 26.—A runaway toy wagon bearing Roy Motley, 10, son of Grove Motley, and C. S. Taylor, jr., 6, crashed into a tank truck of the Texas Oil Co. in North Danville today. The Motley boy, it was said at the hospital, probably will die from a skull fracture. The other boy was bruised only.

The runaway shot out from a steep road intersection and Eugene Fowler, driver of the truck, was unaware of the accident until cries of spectators arrested his attention.

One of the boys was straddled by the ponderous rear wheels, the other being hurled clear.

Hundreds Pay Tribute At J. M. Watkins Rites

Special to The Washington Post.

Gordonsville, Va., Aug. 26.—Funeral services for James Miller Watkins, 24 years old, Chesapeake & Ohio brakeman, who was fatally injured at Keswick last Thursday, were held at his home here Saturday, the Rev. E. T. Cox, of the Baptist Church officiating, assisted by the former pastor, the Rev. J. L. Wiley, of Crozet, and the Rev. Harry Goodwin, of Norfolk. Several hundred persons attended. Members of the Sunday School Baseball League, of which Mr. Watkins was a member, were pallbearers. Interment was in Maplewood Cemetery.

Mr. Watkins is survived by his mother, Mrs. Annie Michie Watkins; a brother, R. C. Watkins, of Clifton Forge; his widow, formerly Miss Fannie Barbee, of Orange, and one son, Robert Mortimer Barbee.

Infantile Paralysis Victims Are Banned

Special to The Washington Post.

Gordonsville, Va., Aug. 26.—At a meeting of the town council of Gordonsville Saturday, an ordinance was passed restricting residents from Roanoke, Roanoke County and other districts afflicted with infantile paralysis, who are 16 years of age or less, from entering the town. All persons within this age limit coming from a district in which the disease is prevalent will be placed under quarantine for two weeks.

Gordonsville is the first town in this district to act in this emergency. It is expected that others will do so. Dr. Ennion Williams, of the State Health Department, it is understood, has commended officials of the town on the step taken. Few cases of the disease have been reported in the State other than in Roanoke and Roanoke County.

to pieces, and in one home alone, that of A. D. Slonim, manager of the Anglo Palestine Bank, 18 persons were murdered, including himself, his wife, two children and his parents-in-law.

"In Jaffa, where British official headquarters were attacked armored cars from Amman in Transjordania are operating in Jerusalem while the Cruiser Sussex which is to be followed by the battleship Barham from Malta anchored off Jaffa this morning and landed a party of bluejackets.

"With the appearance of British bayonet and khaki the situation has become easier, although sporadic outbreaks continue over wide areas of country. The Jews here in Jerusalem are afraid to appear in the open. Hundreds of them are hiding in fear of their lives. Hotels and other public institutions are packed with refugees who have been driven from their ransacked homes in the suburbs.

"Harrowing stories of the murder of relatives have been related to me by bereaved fathers, mothers and children.

Villages Pillaged.

"Whole villages have been pillaged, and contents, dwelling after dwelling, have either been dumped into the streets or destroyed by the burning of the homes themselves.

"A poignant story was told by a 13-year-old Jewish girl of Motza, who was seized by a band of frenzied Arbs, but rescued after a desperate struggle by her father. She had no sooner been released than they turned on her father and she was compelled helplessly to stand by as he was stabbed to death.

"A grim aftermath of the rioting came as the sun went down this evening, when 27 more Jewish dead and a number of Arab dead were carried to secret places of burial. The bodies of the Jewish victims had been recovered before dawn this morning, and this evening they were lowered into a common tomb in the outskirts of the city. Jerusalem remains quit as a city of the dead tonight.

"The British troops seem to have taken effective hold of the situation. The arrival of further detachments, together with the assurance given by the acting high commissioner to the Consular Corps that all necessary measures are being take nto restore order have done much to allay the anxiety of foreigners and natives alike."

AVENUE EXTENSION AGREEMENT MADE

Rhode Island to Be Paved Into Prince Georges This Year.

ZONING HEARINGS SET

As the result of conferences between attorneys for the Maryland State Roads Commission and the defendants in the condemnation suits recently filed by the commission an agreement has been reached which will permit the awarding of bids for the construction of the proposed extension of Rhode Island avenue from the District line to Hyattsville, it was announced yesterday.

Although the condemnation suits can not be reported officially settled until the agreements are signed and the price of the land paid the attorneys reached a definite agreement at the conference.

The roads commission officials declared yesterday that the delay in awarding bids will not result in delaying the construction of the extension beyond this year. It had been feared that by the time the suits were settled and contracts awarded it would be too late for the work to begin as the contractors can not begin pouring cement after the cold weather brings freezing conditions, or about November 15.

The officials set these fears at rest with their announcement that the road positively would be completed this year. Bids on the construction of the road have been in the office of the roads commission for some time, but could not be awarded until the land had been acquired.

Charles A. Marden, recently appointed a member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Commissioner T. B. Middleton, probably will sit for the first time today when the board of county commissioners of Prince Georges County holds its regular meeting at Upper Marlboro.

The board will sit as a board of zoning and will hear six applications for rezoning of property in the county. Five applications ask reclassification from residential to commercial and the sixth asks reclassification from residential to industrial.

The latter application was filed by Samuel Bass and involves an entire block in Beaver Heights.

The other applications are: J. M. Ernst, one lot in block 1, Mount Rainier; Morris Binswanger, acreage on Baltimore boulevard at Beltsville; Anna Lewis Rose et al., property on both sides of the Baltimore boulevard between Block street and Maple avenue, Hyattsville; John B. Cochran, four lots in Newman subdivision of College Park, and Emma Gregory, acreage in John W. Gregory estate, Seat Pleasant District, the latter reclassification being asked in order to establish a cemetery.

Richard Dustin, of Laurel, was fined $100 on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated yesterday in Laurel branch of county police court by Judge J. Chew Sheriff. He also was fined $1 and costs for reckless driving. Rufus Iager, Howard County, was fined $5 for disorderly conduct.

Both men were arrested by County Policeman Claude Reese, who said they were creating a disturbance while riding in Dustin's car at Laurel.

Sam Smith, colored, was fined $13.50 for assault and battery and $18.50 for carrying concealed weapons. He was alleged to have struck Constable Colbert Addison on the head with a pistol when the latter attempted to arrest him at a colored dance hall near Laurel.

Francis Allen, colored, Ritchie Station, was released on bond yesterday following an accident Sunday in which his car knocked down an electric light pole on the Marlboro pike. A power wire carrying a voltage of 13,000 volts, torn down by the falling pole, set fire to grass around the pole.

Aline held up traffic until linemen from the phone company arrived to remove the wire from the roda. He was arrested on a charge of reckless driving by Constable A. C. Thompson.

The telephone company has replaced the same pole so often that facetious suggestions that it be constructed of rubber or have hinges so that it can be raised again after accidents are going the rounds. The pole is situated at the end of a sharp curve. It was knocked down six times in one week several months ago.

JUDGE MULLOWNY'S ILLNESS IS FATAL

Former Police Judge Dies at Home as Operation Proves Futile.

LONG RESIDENT OF CITY

Former Judge Alexander R. Mullowny, 65 years old, of 6300 Connecticut avenue, Chevy Chase, Md., prominent attorney and former police judge, died at 6 p. m. yesterday, at his home, from complications following an operation he underwent last June.

After being in failing health for several months, Judge Mullowny entered Emergency Hospital in June for the operation. Although he rallied at times and seemed to be on the road to recovery, complications which followed sapped his strength and his death did not come as a surprise to his family.

Both his widow and daughter, Miss Kathryn Mullowny, were at his bedside when death came. Funeral arrangments have not yet been announced.

Judge Mullowny was born in Richmond, Va., in 1864, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzpatrick Mullowny. When he was very small his parents moved to Washington, where he was reared and lived practically all of his life. His father was in the consular service here.

After attending the public schools in Washington, Judge Mullowny entered Georgetown University, from which he was graduated with a bachelor of laws degree.

He was Assistant United States District Attorney here for several years and afterward was judge of the Police Court for 10 years. Since retiring from the Police Court bench about six years ago, he has been in the active practice of law. He had offices at 408 Fifth street northwest.

Mr. Lewis was a native of Culpeper, and was 70 years old. He is survived by two children, Mrs. Harry Sanford, of Orange, and E. B. Lewis, of Charlottesville. Burial was made in Graham Cemetery.

Boy, 13, Motorcycle Rider, Dies in Crash

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 26.—Frank Ray, 13 years old, son of D. P. Ray, died shortly after noon at a local hospital from injuries received when he was hurled from a motorcycle on which he was riding behind Harry Gibson, 17, a cousin, as it crashed into an abutment of the Charlottesville-Staunton highway, 1 mile west of Crozet. Gibson was only slightly injured.

Besides his parents, Ray is survived by three brothers and three sisters. One sister, Mrs. B. C. Davis, resides in Harrisonburg.

HOOVER ADVOCATES LAND POLICY CHANGE

policies for conservation in our grazing lands, our water storage and our mineral resources, at the same time check the growth of Federal bureaucracy, reduce Federal interference in affairs of essentially local interest and thereby increase the opportunity of the States to govern themselves, and in all obtain better government.

Suggestions Are Listed.

Tentative suggestions put forward by President Hoover for the consideration of the commission, the members of which from the public land States would be taken from lists to be supplied by the State governors, included:

Public lands—That the surface rights of the remaining unappropriated, unreserved public lands, subject to certain details for the protection of homesteaders and the smaller stockmen, be transferred to the State governments for public school purposes and thus be placed under State administration.

Reclamation service—That the direction of the reclamation service be reoriented primarily as to the storage of water and to simplify its administration.

That the reclamation service for all new projects be confined to the construction of permanent works, that is, dams and such construction as results in water storage, and at their completion the entire works be handed over to the States with no obligation for repayment to the reclamation fund except such revenues as might arise from electrical power and in some cases for the sale of water until the outlay has been repaid.

Water Storage Aid Urged.

That the reclamation service be authorized to join with States and local communities or private individuals for the creation of water storage for irrigation purposes.

Mineral resources—That abuse of permits for mineral development or unnecessary production or waste in the national resources must be vigorously prevented.

Reciting that as a result of his order suspending further issue of oil prospecting permits on public lands there will be a reduction of permits covering 40,000,000 acres of the public domain to those affecting only 10,000,000 acres, the President wrote that the public domain is being rapidly cleared of the abuses heretofore existing.

FEDERAL EMPLOYES' INSURANCE PLANNED to the elimination of the medical examination, the lower commissions on such business and the reduction in certain other expenses.

"Group insurance had its real beginning in the United States in 1911. Since that time it has had a rapid and widespread growth. Not only is it used by industrial concerns, but it is also used to cover university employes, militia units, trade union members and other groups.

"In the board's survey 828 firms, having 239,624 employes, are found to have group insurance plan. These figures represent 67 per cent of the total offices and 62 per cent of the employes covered by the general information schedules. A standard practice is clearly indicated. The extent to which group insurance obtains today, as revealed by the survey, is far in excess of the estimates which various students of insurance have made in recent years."

Miss Mary Sue Foster Wed.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 26 (Special).—Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Foster, of Charlotte Courthouse, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Sue Foster, to William Thomas Wilson, jr., of Chesterfield County. The ceremony was said last Thursday by Dr. J. N. Latham, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church, Richmond.

OPERATION FATAL TO DR. RICHARDSON

Body of Noted Capital Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist Due Today.

COLLEGES HONORED HIM

Dr. Charles W. Richardson, 68 years old, of 1337 Connecticut avenue northwest, eminent ear, nose and throat specialist, died Sunday night in a Boston hospital from complications, following an operation three weeks ago for an intestinal trouble.

With him at the time of his death was his widow, Mrs. Amy Richardson, who left Boston early yesterday for Washington. The body will arrive here this morning, but funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Besides his widow, Dr. Richardson is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Amy Chandler, and five grandchildren.

He had been ill for several months. He left Washington July 2 to attend the annual convention of the American Medical Association in Portland, Oreg., and after the convention he started for his summer home at Duxbury, Mass. En route he stopped at Boston for treatment and underwent the operation for intestinal trouble.

Two Operations Performed.

After rallying from the operation, another became necessary and was performed early this month. He was improving after the second operation when the complications set in. Pneumonia was a contributing factor in his death.

Dr. Richardson was ear, nose and throat specialist on the medical staff at the White House during both the Wilson and Coolidge administrations. During his career he treated many famous persons. He also was called in for consultations with many of the leading physicians and specialists in the country.

One of his most recent contributions to science was the completion of an extended national survey of institutions for the deaf, under auspices of the National Council, to determine the physical causes of deafness. He was chairman of a special committee, composed of leading specialists, named to direct the survey.

Dr. Richardson was born in Washington on August 22, 1861, the son of Charles F. E. and Charlotte Ann Williamson Richardson. He was a student at Columbian, now George Washington University, from 1878 to 1880. He received doctor of medicine degrees from both George Washington and the University of Pennsylvania in 1884.

Received Degree in Science.

He was professor of laryngology and otology at George Washington from 1891 to 1921, and was given the honorary degree of doctor of science by that institution at the conclusion of his long period of service. This same degree also was conferred upon him in 1927 by the University of Pennsylvania.

During his career Dr. Richardson was president of various medical organizations, among which were the American Laryngology, Rhinology and Otology Society, the American Otology Society and the District of Columbia Medical Society. At his death he was serving as a trustee of the American Medical Association, to which position he was first elected in 1921. He was a member of the Cosmos, Chevy Chase, Army and Navy and Duxbury Yacht Clubs.

During the World War he served in the Medical Corps, in which he rose to the rank of colonel. He was first commissioned a major in the Medical Reserve Corps.

Navy Speed Plane To Get New Motor

Craft That Failed in Test for Schneider Cup Sent to Philadelphia.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 26.—Lashed to her cradle on the deck of the municipal tug, City of Baltimore, the racing seaplane Mercury, which failed to qualify for entrance on behalf of the United States in the International Schneider Cup regatta at Cowes, England, September 6 and 7, left here late tonight for Philadelphia, whence it will be taken to the naval aircraft factory in that city, where it was built.

A lighter and more powerful engine is to be installed in the craft in line with the purpose of her pilot, Lieut. Alford J. Williams, jr., Navy's speed king, to conduct further tests in the hope of breaking the world's speed record of 318 miles per hour, established by the Italian, Bernhardi.

Much to the disappointment of Lieut. Williams, the stout Packard X 24-cylinder engine of more than 1,100 horsepower, failed to get the craft into the air in three tests conducted in the Chesapeake Bay under ideal conditions yesterday afternoon. It was the Navy Department's ultimatum that the plane should demonstrate her ability off the water before sponsoring the trip overseas.

TRADE PAPER PRODS HOSPITAL INQUIRERS

Full Gallinger Investigation, Without Whitewashing, Asked at Once.

PAST DELAY IS SCORED

Charging that the Welfare Board should have known of the conditions existing at Gallinger Municipal Hospital even before the investigation by The Post, an editorial, captioned "Introspection," in the current issue of the Trades Unionist, warns that the public will contenance no whitewashing.

The editorial follows:

INTROSPECTION.

It is an old and very true saying that it is never too late to mend.

The investigation of Gallinger Hospital, a city institution, will be conducted by the Welfare Board of the District.

The Welfare Board is composed of eminent citizens. The members are there because they are public spirited and minded along humanitarian lines. No better recommendation for the board could there be than that its chairman is John Joy Edson, that patriarch of all Washingtonians who love their fellowmen.

But how, let us ask with all due respect—how does it happen that the Welfare Board does not already know about conditions at Gallinger? The conditions were not made yesterday, nor a week nor a month ago. They have been developing over a long period of time.

Why should the Welfare Board wait for the situation to mount to the proportions of a public scandal?

Certainly the board had a duty, a very distinct duty, to perform in the premises.

That is what the board is for—to see to it that conditions such as those at Gallinger are not allowed to exist or even be created.

The Welfare Board can not be entirely blameless.

And the investigation which it will conduct into the affairs of Gallinger Hospital, an institution over which it has a supervisory interest and control, of necessity will be a good deal of the nature of a self-examination.

If the board finds the hospital guilty, then the board itself must share the guilt.

The public will countenance no whitewashing.

We have faith in the Welfare Board. We expect to see it make up for its past derelictions by giving a full measure of diligence to the job now at hand.

Good can come from introspection.

as preparations could be made, and is proceeding.

Dr. Edgar A. Bocock, superintendent of Gallinger, will be the first and only witness called to testify before the committee at its first hearing, which is scheduled to convene in the boardroom, on the top floor, of the District Building at 10 o'clock this morning.

The committee, which includes, in addition to W. W. Millan, Dr. George M. Kober, Dr. H. J. Crosson and Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming, wife of the surgeon general, devoted yesterday afternoon to its third and final inspection of the physical aspects of Gallinger. The buildings examined yesterday included the doctors' and nurses' homes and the morgue.

Following Dr. Bocock's appearance before the committee today, the hearings for the next few days will be moved out to the hospital, where nurses, physicians and other employes will be subjected to a thorough grilling as the committee seeks to uncover all defects in Gallinger or its operation, and to provide remedies. The reason for this transfer is that it would disrupt the operation of the hospital if its employes were to be called away to attend hearings elsewhere.

After all testimony has been taken at the hospital, the hearings will be returned to the District Building, where the public will be invited to present any evidence it may have to offer, with the full assurance of the committee that every charge will be investigated thoroughly. All of the hearings, both at the District Building and at the hospital, will be open to the press and the public.

Policeman Given Reward.

Policeman E. R. Shoemaker yesterday was given permission by the District Commissioners to accept the usual $50 reward for apprehension of a deserter from the United States Army.

MORRIS PLAN CHARACTER LOANS

are for those who need money—for those who can use money profitably

The Morris Plan character loan is used by many thousands each year who through sickness or some other unavoidable cause are faced with a financial emergency.

But more and more it is employed by people who see in the Morris Plan character loan an opportunity to profit.

Such people profit by the use of Morris Plan loans for educational purposes, to make a first payment on a home or income property, to start buying into a paying business, to consolidate debts and thus start to systematically wipe them out so that they can save money.

These people include many who enjoy bank credit but who prefer Morris Plan loans for special purposes because they need not be paid in a lump sum but may be paid by monthly deposits out of income.

We are always glad to receive applications for Morris Plan character loans from men and women who can and will use them for their permanent financial benefit.

Morris Plan character loans are made on a principal basis of character and earning capacity to people whose record shows that they can and will pay their obligations.

An Ancient Prejudice Has Been Removed

"Toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive acrids (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes.

That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

Toasting, the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive acrids (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

"It's toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

FAIRFAX TO STUDY AIRPORT QUESTION

Public Meeting Will Be Held Today at Hybla Valley Flying Field.

NINE IN RAID ARE FINED

FAIRFAX COUNTY BUREAU.
Telephone Clarendon 919-J-1.

E. C Gibbs, Chairman of the industrial committee of the Fairfax Chamber of Commerce, will preside at a public meeting today at the Hybla Valley Flying Field for the purpose of discussing advantages of a flying field in Fairfax County.

F. S. McCandlish and E. W. Robertson will address the gathering.

As the result of a raid Sunday night on former State Senator Bristo's farm, near Springfield, nine persons were given a hearing yesterday before Magistrate Dowden.

Alton Brown was fined $58 for operating a disorderly house and was bound over to the grand jury on a liquor possession charge. Raymond Brown, of Alexandria, was fined $28 for drunkenness and $18 for disorderly conduct.

Other sentences were: Raymond McCarthy, of Alexandria, $28 for drunkenness and $25 for disorderly conduct; Pat Magner, French Groves, Ernst Groves and Robert Green, all of Alexandria, $33 each for disorderly conduct; Oscar McCarthy, of Alexandria, $25 for disorderly conduct; Joe Horman, $10.50 for disorderly conduct.

E. S. Hull, of 3714 S street northwest, Washington, D. C., was fined $25 and costs by Magistrate Shepherd after Deputy Sheriff W. Mills testified that he was driving at the rate of 75 miles and hour on the Washington-Richmond highway near Accotuck.

Several poultry meetings are scheduled in the county the latter part of this week. Harry Moore will be the speaker Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the Fairfax Courthouse. The women's auxiliary to the county agricultural board will be organized at this meeting.

Young people and club leaders have been invited to attend the meeting Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the county agricultural school, at Floris. A gathering for adults will be held Friday night at 8 o'clock, at the Annandale School. Moore will speak.

The farmers of this community have been informed that the hearing on the ground limestone freight case before the Interstate Commerce Commission, in Washington, has been postponed from September 10 to September 13, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Preparations are going forward for Fairfax County's sixteenth annual fair on September 11-14, according to Robert D. Graham, secretary of the fair association. A large number of cash prizes and several beautiful silver cups have been offered.

The opening day will be for Boy Scouts and children especially. They will be admitted free. A pony show and race and a mule race are scheduled. September 12 is chamber of commerce day. The chambers of Washington Alexandria and Arlington have been invited to attend. A horseshoe pitching contest will be the feature of grange day, September 13.

A comedian flier and a free tent show will be daily attractions. There will be dancing every evening under the auspices of the Fairfax Firemen's Association. The exhibits will remain open until 10 o'clock each night.

Letter of Lee Precipitates Debate Over Captive's Fate

Did Virginia Private Die Before Federal Firing Squad as Spy or Did Confederate General's Missive to Burnside Save Him, Is Question.

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Did Pvt. John W. Irwin, Company A, Ninth Virginia Cavalry, die the death of a spy at the hands of a Union firing squad or did a letter written by Robert E. Lee allow him to be held as an honorable prisoner of war?

The question arises with the offer of E. T. Stuart, treasurer of the Girard Trust Co., of Philadelphia, to give to the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation, for use in Stratford Hall, two framed letters written by Gen. Lee to Gen. A. E. Burnside, "commanding United States forces opposite Fredericksburg." One of them tells of the dramatic incident in which Pvt. Irwin, 18-year-old blue-eyed native of Stafford County, figured.

The other is a request that Capt. E. P. Lawton's wife be allowed to visit her husband, who was wounded and a prisoner. Both dated, "Headquarters Army of Northern Virginia, Dec. 27, 1862," reflect Lee's disposition to stop, out of kindness, to attend to small details which might make others happy.

The letter concerning Irwin tells an entire story, save for the ending, which possibly is available in the musty files of the War Department or may be told by some individual who remembers or had heard of the incident.

The letter reads:

"General: I have been informed that Private John W. Irwin, Company A, Ninth Virginia Cavalry, has been captured by some of your troops, and is now being tried as a spy. Presuming, if this information is correct, that the object of the investigation is to ascertain the truth, I have thought proper to make known to you the facts connected with the absence of Private Irwin from his regiment, as reported to me by Col. Beale, commanding the Ninth Virginia Cavalry, and Brig. Gen. W. H. F. Lee, commanding the brigade.

"While the brigade was at Brandy Station, in Culpeper County, Private Irwin received permission from the brigade commander to visit his home in Stafford County, to procure a fresh horse.

"This is a permission commonly given in similar cases, and at the time it was not known that the place to which Private Irwin wished to proceed was within the lines of your army.

"Private Irwin is described to me as follows: 'Small figure, about 5 feet 9 inches high, complexion dark, hair mahogany, eyes blue, age about 18 years, and manner rather sprightly.' Y'r ob't serv't,

"R. E. LEE, General."

Textile Workers End Marion Strike

North Carolina Governor's Aid Brings Factions in Agreement.

Marion, N. C., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Agreement between the officials of the Clinchfield Cotton Mills and their striking workmen was reached here this afternoon, Nat A. Townsend, executive counsel to Gov. C. Max Gardner, announced. No details of the agreement were divulged.

The agreement is expected to bring to an end the four weeks' old walkout, which was precipitated when the company discharged several dozen men who had joined the United Textile Workers Union. Troops were called out a week ago today, when an effort to reopen the mill was frustrated by several hundred strikers and sympathizers.

A subcommittee, it was stated, was appointed to draw up formal papers. This committee is composed of Mr. Townsend, J. W. Winborne and D. J Roland.

$30,000 Lost When Mill Near Cumberland Burns

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 26.—The planing mill of the Pennsylvania Lumber & Post Co. at Hyndman, Pa., 14 miles north of Cumberland, with 200,000 feet of stored lumber, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin yesterday. Partially covered by insurance, the loss is estimated at $30,000

The piled lumber burned for several hours. Two loaded box cars on the Pennsylvania Railroad siding were destroyed. The firemen saved about 500,000 feet of lumber. George N. Philippi, this city, said the mill would be rebuilt.

Directors of the Loyal Temperance Legion are: Mrs. Florence Cauffman and Mrs. Mildred Conklin.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields and Policeman John R. Burke returned from Columbus, Ohio, yesterday with Joseph Parker, colored, who is charged with highway robbery in connection with the hold-up of W. H. Hampton, superintendent of the Washington Brick & Terra Cotta Co. of South Washington the afternoon of August 10, when $1,000 was taken.

Despite that Parker was identified by William A. Coates, postmaster at South Washington, Parker stoutly denies the charge against him.

According to Sheriff Fields, the man is also wanted in Richmond, it being claimed he is the man who escaped from the State penitentiary in 1928. He probably will be given a hearing today before Police Judge Harry R. Thomas.

According to an announcement from the County Water Department yesterday, water will be cut off in Rosslyn and Radnor Heights tonight from 7 to midnight.

Dr. Ray K. Flannagan, of Richmond, State health commissioner, will be the principal speaker at the opening of the new health center on Lorton avenue in Clarendon today.

The program, which will be under auspices of the Mothers Health League, will open at 10:30 o'clock. Mrs. Bertha Kelley, president of the league, will preside. Dr. Flannagan will be introduced by Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer.

A feature of the program will be the presence of 38 preschool children who have passed 100 per cent a health test and have received their five-point health certificates. The program includes recitations by Miss Marjorie Stockett and Miss Rose Maxine Cardwell. The building will be open to the public from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

The executive committee of the Arlington County Woman's Business and Professional Club, meeting yesterday at the courthouse, elected Mrs. Emma Weekley, secretary, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Hazel Vicroy. Miss Vicroy, who will be married the evening of September 3, is leaving the county.

Suits for divorce were filed in the county clerk's office yesterday by Ray R. Padgett, against Daisy Wilmer Padgett; James A. Lee, against Inez Seymour Lee; and by Guy Eversfield Jenkins, against Carrie Christall Jenkins.

Charged with reckless driving, George Genus was fined $19.25 including costs by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday.

Joseph B. Cross, who was charged with operating an automobile with improper license plates, was fined $14.25, including costs, by Judge Thomas.

Mrs. Ira P. Harbaugh, wife of the Rev. Ira P. Harbaugh, pastor of the Ballston Christian Church, was reported as seriously ill in Garfield Hospital in Washington last night.

The Ballston Citizens Association at its meeting to be held tonight in the Rogers Building will take up the question of asking the State Highway Department to place stop signs at the intersection of Garrison road and Clements avenue.

Garrison road now being a part of the State highway system, the stop signs placed at the intersection by the county have been removed.

The Potomac Volunteer Fire Department, 25 strong, will leave today for Lexington, Va., where they will attend the annual State firemen's convention.

The thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Fairfax County Sunday School Association will be held Friday in the Fairfax Presbyterian Church. The first session will open in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. From 5 to 7 there will be an intermission for a picnic dinner. The evening meeting will follow.

The Rev. Minor C. Miller, State secretary of the Virginia Council of Religious Education, will speak in the evening. Following the reading of reports officers will be elected. M. E. Church, of Falls Church, is the county president, while Miss Josephine Howard, also of Falls Church, is secretary.

With colored electric lights burning, the Ballston Volunteer Fire Department opened its annual carnival last night on the field opposite the Ballston Christian Church. The affair will continue through the week. One of the features will be dancing each night.

Girl Auto Crash Victim Identified

Bertie Atkins, 19, Dead in Wreck That Injured Two Others.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 26.—A young woman injured last evening in an automobile accident near Double Toll Gate, Clarke County, who died in a Winchester Hospital, was identified today as Miss Bertie Atkins, 19, of Sperryville, Rappahannock County. Several bones were broken and she was internally injured.

Ernest Jenkins, of the same county, driver of the car, was also treated at the hospital for injuries, and then taken to police headquarters and held for questioning. Samuel Pincham, of Sperryville, third member of the party, sustained cuts and bruises. He was being sought today for questioning.

Jenkins said he met the girl at a church meeting, when he remarked he was coming to Winchester to work in an apple orchard, she expressed a desire to come also to seek employment in an apple by-product factory. Authorities were told the automobile struck a telephone pole at high speed, and quoted Jenkins as mumbling, "I'm not drunk," when picked up by filling station attendants.

TRIAL OF 16 OPENS IN DEATH OF CHIEF

Venire of 200 Is Summoned as Workers Defend Lives in Police Slaying.

YOUNG JURIST PRESIDES

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—After preliminary legal skirmishes this morning an enforced lull in the court battle for the lives and freedom of the sixteen charged with the murder of the Gastonia police chief followed, while the venire of 200 prospective jurymen was summoned.

Changed from Gastonia, where the defense feared it would not be able to secure a fair trial, the case opened in the Mecklenburg County Superior Court before Judge M. V. Barnhill, North Carolina's youngest jurist.

The selection of the jury to try the labor leaders and strikers accused by the State of murdering O. F. Aderholt on the night of June 7, is to begin Wednesday.

Died Day After Shooting.

The police chief was shot as he and four other policemen entered the tent colony near the Loray mill in Gastonia to investigate reports of fighting there. He died the next day.

This morning's session was taken up largely with the presentation of motions by the defense and arguments before Judge Barnhill in support of them. Arthur Garfield Hayes, of New York, chief counsel of the American Civil Liberties Union, made most of the arguments, taking the lead for the defense.

Judge Barnhill, however, ruled decisively against two of the motions, refusing to quash the bills of indictment and also refusing to strike from the bills certain phrases which, to the defense, were objectionable.

State Told to Revise Data.

He heard them on the bill of particulars and ordered Solicitor John G. Carpenter to make the bill more specific, as requested. On this he will hear further argument tomorrow morning.

It was generally predicted today that a week would be consumed in selection of the jury. The State will have 48 peremptory challenges and the defense 192. The State has four challenges for each defendant and the defense twelve each. It is considered possible another venire will have to be summoned.

The State added another attorney today, Jake F. Newell, of Charlotte, bringing the total to ten. The defense has nine attorneys.

What's on your desk this morning? asks Mr. Spitzer

ARE you faced each morning by details of yesterday's work which you weren't able to dispose of as they came up?

Were all the letters, memos, instructions and plans lifted from your mind and formulated while they were HOT, or will they confront you again this morning?

You don't like to have "warmed over" things to do. Nor need you ever, when you use The Dictaphone. Everything goes off your mind into The Dictaphone the instant you think of it. And your secretary needn't stop her work each time you get an idea.

Now phone Mr. Spitzer at National 4909 & 4910 and ask him some questions. He will show you how to get things done in your office.

Nurses' Home Contract At Cumberland Is Let

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 26.—The board of governors of the new Memorial Hospital awarded the contract for the erection of the nurses' home at the hospital to John I. Vandegrift, this city, whose bid, $81,466, was the lowest of the five submitted. Secretary George O. Young indicated that work would probably begin at once.

Eighty-nine cases are now being treated at the new hospital, which opened last week, with nineteen chronic cases remaining at Western Maryland Hospital, which is soon to be abandoned. The hospital has a capacity of 180.

Boy at Harpers Ferry Killed in Auto Crash

Special to The Washington Post.

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., Aug. 26.—James Robinson, 17, colored, was instantly killed near the Blue Ridge Gun and Rod Club grounds here Sunday night when the car in which he was riding lost a wheel, turning the car over and pinning him beneath. Two other negro boys, riding with him, were uninjured. All were attached to the gun club staff. The car belonged to Clifton Gray, one of the occupants.

The dead boy leaves no identified parents, having been placed at the club by the Board of Children's Welfare, Washington. He was hurt in an automobile accident last fall when the car of Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood, Baltimore, went over the wall at the Maryland Bridge and into the Potomac River, knocking the boy from the fence where he was sitting.

Pendleton, rector of Grace Memorial Episcopal Church, officiating. After a bridal trip to Virginia Beach they will make their home at 174 Norfolk avenue.

Your Cheapest Necessity— Fire Insurance

Your fire insurance dollar pays for indemnity—for immunity against financial loss when calamity overtakes you. But that dollar buys so much more than the indemnity it pays for that it ranks as one of the most effective dollars you spend. Its purchasing power is away above the average.

Fire insurance, from the indemnity standpoint alone, is one of the cheapest of present-day necessities. Its cost has consistently declined—even during the period of war inflation—practically every year for the last twenty.

And this in spite of the fact that insurance service—as rendered by the 239 Stock companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters—has multiplied its activities for the public welfare and greatly enlarged their scope.

Research and Engineering

Your fire insurance dollar may pay for indemnity only, but for good measure the Stock Fire Insurance companies provide engineering and research services to make life and property safer—laboratories in which to test materials and devices—scientific measurement of fire hazards—building construction codes—arson detection and investigation—organized fire prevention—and many other voluntary measures designed to lower the fire waste and thereby reduce the cost of fire insurance.

A thorough understanding of what Stock Fire Insurance really means and does—and a greater public use of its facilities—should result in a still further reduction of the fire waste and a consequently greater service to the insuring public.

UNDER BRITISH PROTECTION.

The country is shocked at the news that 12 American Jewish boys have been killed and 30 wounded in the attacks which the Arabs have suddenly unloosed against the Jews in Palestine in a fanatical outbreak of holy-war fervor originating in incidents at the century-old Wailing Wall.

How deep-rooted the trouble will prove to be or how far the Moslem religious uprising will spread are questions of grave concern. The British government's administration of the mandated territory and the future of the Zionist movement for a Palestine homeland are necessarily involved. New burdens of great weight are automatically imposed upon Premier MacDonald, whose duty it is to check the Moslem movement with military and naval force, no matter how extensively or dangerously it spreads. Meanwhile, the immediate duty of the government of the United States is to secure the maximum protection for its nationals.

President Hoover has already made the first move to this end, though the means at his disposal are woefully inadequate. Secretary Stimson has announced that no American warships will be sent to Near Eastern waters, despite appeals from various quarters. America has no warships within striking distance. The United States Navy formerly maintained a squadron of swift destroyers on the Mediterranean station for emergency protection of American life and property, but at present no vessels are available. The U. S. S. Raleigh, which might have been near at hand, is en route to America bearing the body of Admiral Niblack.

Secretary Stimson has therefore found it necessary to appeal to the British government to protect American lives. He has cabled Ambassador Dawes to ask the British government to take immediate and effective steps to protect American lives and property. Premier MacDonald had already put British naval and military forces in motion. The fact that the Labor government criticized its predecessor for sending naval forces to the Far East did not deter Mr. McDonald from acting with dispatch in the present emergency. The British policy of force, backed by troops, airplanes and cruisers, is to be invoked to whatever extent proves necessary.

The repercussions of the Palestine outbreak will be felt in disarmament discussions. Britain is warned of the need of cruisers and still more cruisers to protect her far-flung interests, at the very time when Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Dawes are negotiating over a curtailment of cruisers in order to save expense. Mr. Dawes has wisely said that public opinion will really determine the measure of naval reduction, and British public opinion is certain to take note of this latest demonstration of unexpected need of British ships of war.

Secretary Stimson yesterday commented upon the "satisfactory news" that British troops had arrived at the scene of disturbance and that British war vessels were expected. It is gratifying to be assured that the union jack will protect Americans, in the absence of vessels flying the Stars and Stripes. Nevertheless, the dispatch of an American warship to Jaffa, prepared to send bluejackets and marines to Jerusalem in case of need, might have a beneficial moral effect. No part of the world is so remote that the protecting arm of the United States can not reach out to its own people, if ships are available for the purpose.

MAIL CONTRACTS.

Latest developments in the controversy of the Postoffice Department and shipping interests over mail contracts indicate that Congress will take a hand in the matter. A movement is on foot to amend the Jones-White act so that there can be no possibility of misunderstanding the intent of Congress. The prevailing sentiment is that the action of the Interdepartmental Board in withholding mail contracts is a violation of the spirit, if not the letter, of the act. But it may be necessary to amend the law to make effective the support which Congress intended to give the merchant marine.

In passing the Jones-White act Congress recognized that a subvention is essential to construction and maintenance of a permanent merchant marine. But it failed to provide specifically that mail contracts must be awarded to private concerns which purchase shipping lines from the Government. The Mississippi Shipping Co. recently purchased the service between the Gulf of Mexico and the east coast of South America. The company was underbid for the mail contract and if the lowest bid is accepted, it will no doubt have to turn back its ships to the Government.

It is suggested that the Jones-White act be amended so that it will be mandatory for a mail contract to accompany all sales of Shipping Board services. Nearly all purchasers of Government ships have received contracts for periods of ten years. With this assurance of an income they have been able to make definite plans for new vessels. All companies that have taken over services from the Shipping Board have done so with the understanding that a mail contract would be forthcoming. Now that the United States Lines has been refused a contract and the bid of the Mississippi company has not been accepted, it will be difficult for the Shipping Board to dispose of any more vessels until assurance of Government cooperation is given. Congress should not hesitate to enforce its policy.

A MAGNIFICENT ACHIEVEMENT.

Dr. Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, expects to complete his round-the-world cruise by returning to Lakehurst, N. J., Wednesday night. With the arrival of the dirigible at Los Angeles a number of records have been broken, and the first globe-circling flight by lighter-than-air craft has proved far more successful than was anticipated. Neither the Arctic climate of Siberia nor the storms of the Pacific proved a barrier to the giant craft.

There will be nothing spectacular about the 2,500-mile flight from Los Angeles to Lakehurst. The most hazardous parts of the voyage have been completed. The 6,600-mile hop from Friedrichshafen to Tokyo, which was considered the most difficult, brought the Graf a new record for nonstop flights. Two new records were hung up by the 5,400-mile dash from Tokyo to Los Angeles. This is the first time that a nonstop flight across the Pacific has been made and the only time that the distance between the coasts of Japan and America has been covered in 68 hours. This is less than one-third the time required by the fastest steamer, and is four hours less than the minimum time set for the trip by Dr. Eckener.

The flight across the continent is expected to take less than 48 hours. This will bring the Zeppelin to the completion of its round-the-world course in three weeks. This record offers a rather sharp contrast with that of the United States Army expedition, which took 25 weeks to circle the globe by airplane. The actual flying time of the Army planes was 15 days and 6 hours. Allowing ample time for completion of the Zeppelin's trip, it appears that the actual flying time will be less than 12 days. The distance covered will be approximately 18,700 miles and the average speed nearly 70 miles per hour. The dirigible has made excellent time without taking chances on adverse weather.

The achievement of Dr. Eckener is certain to stimulate interest in lighter-than-air craft, and commercial developments in the near future may be expected. The airship has been given a severe test and has magnificently proved its value. The flight will become one of the memorable events in the history of aircraft, the influence of which can only be measured years hence.

A FARM TALK.

In an address at the Iowa State Fair in Des Moines yesterday afternoon C. B. Denham, a member of the Federal Farm Board, stressed the necessity of cooperation among the farmers and pointed out that only through a policy of pulling together can the farmers hope for aid from the Government. The board was created too late to accomplish much in aid of the grain growers this season, because it was found that while more than 40% of the crop was already controlled by individual cooperative marketing groups in their local communities, effective control was lost when the commodity left the local pool or elevator for the central markets. To overcome this loss of control the board called these various groups together, with the result that, through a committee appointed by these individual organizations, a great central organization is in process of formation which will ultimately enable the producers, with the aid of the Farm Board, to control the marketing of the bulk of all grain produced.

Mr. Denham, addressing himself to conditions which confront the Iowa farmer, particularly because Iowa is more deeply interested in hog raising than any other State, pointed out one of the causes of the depression from which those farmers have suffered most severely. That cause, paradoxical as it may seem, is the overabundant weight of the individual porker. The Iowa hogs average too much fat. In 1926 41,060,000 hogs fetched more than 49,000,000 sold in 1928. In the former year 11,000,000 of the animals inspected and slaughtered at the packing houses averaged 255 pounds each, as against a general average of 230 pounds, which means that these hogs produced approximately 275,000,000 pounds of fat meat and lard more than the like number produced in the former year. The Iowa farmers "swapped corn for lard," when the corn was worth more than the pork produced from it.

"The surplus problem and its cumbersome load, carried by the farmers individually," said Mr. Denham, "can be solved only by its control through organized marketing. Unless the farmer in the local cooperative takes advantage of the opportunity now afforded him by placing the different agricultural commodities into national marketing associations to help himself, he will continue to be like the weary traveler with a heavy burden on his back who asked a passing truckman for a ride, and after having climbed aboard, continued to carry his burden on his back."

The Federal Farm Board is out to help the farmer, but wants him to show a disposition to help himself when the way is pointed out.

NEW YORK'S GREAT PLAN.

Gov. Roosevelt has outlined a comprehensive regional planning scheme for the entire State of New York. This is perhaps the first time that an American State has undertaken to investigate its resources with a view to scientific exploitation. The purpose behind the survey is to discover the possibilities of every section so that the entire area may be utilized to the best advantage. If Gov. Roosevelt can secure the support of the Republican legislature his plan will attract interest from all parts of the country.

It is only within recent years that city planning has been extensively practiced. Yet no city of any considerable size tolerates haphazard growth today. Well organized communities offer more attractive homes, more convenient business centers, and better industrial quarters. The advantages of city planning are innumerable. Why would not similar benefits result from application of these principles to larger areas?

The New York plan includes a soil survey which will cover every farm in the State. This information will be supplemented by complete weather data, so that the agricultural possibilities of each locality may be ascertained. The third step will be a survey of forest resources and classification of land for agricultural, forest, recreational and residential purposes. Data as to the adaptation of land to orchards, gardens, pastures, etc., will be gathered. The final project will be a study of milk production under the existing systems of dairying.

The United States has a wealth of natural resources which are the inheritance of all the American people. Some of these resources are exploited wisely, and others are being wasted. Millions of acres of land are cultivated unprofitably, because the crops planted are not adapted to the soil or climate. If all agriculture, lumbering, mining, &c., could be placed on an efficiency basis the increased profits would be enormous. If States were in a position to formulate a policy on the development of such limited resources as petroleum fields and on such diminishing resources as forests the resulting economy would be incalculable. The regional planning idea should hasten the time when each natural resource will be conserved and developed to the best advantage of the people.

DUAL NATIONALITY.

It is difficult for a person to give allegiance to more than one country, yet he may be claimed by two nations at the same time. Laws regulating citizenship are made within each country, and the statutes of one nation may differ radically from another. It is not unusual for an American citizen who was born in a foreign country or of foreign parents in this country to find that the old country retains a claim upon him.

A case of this kind has been brought to the attention of the State Department by Joseph C. Fehr, Washington attorney. Mr. Fehr emigrated from Switzerland at the age of 10 years and became an American citizen by reason of his father's naturalization. He served in the United States Army in France during the World War, but now he has found that he owes military taxes to Switzerland for failure to render military service to that country since his eligibility in 1915. Under the law of Switzerland he is still a citizen of that republic. Thousands of persons in the United States are in the same status of dual nationality.

Mr. Fehr called at the State Department to see what could be done about it. He was informed that should he go to Switzerland as the legal right of that country to his allegiance could not be denied by the United States. He was advised to file with the Swiss Legation a declaration renouncing his Swiss citizenship and a request to be relieved from payment of the military tax. It was indicated that the State Department would make "appropriate representations" in his behalf, but since the United States has no naturalization treaty with Switzerland the matter must be left entirely to the discretion of the authorities at Berne.

The case illustrates the need for naturalization treaties. Such treaties have been negotiated with Germany, Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Denmark, Hungary, Norway, Portugal and Sweden. Natives of these countries who are now American citizens may revisit the land of their birth without fear of annoyance. But natives of France, Italy, Jugoslavia, Spain, Turkey, Poland, Roumania and other nations besides Switzerland are liable for military taxes or possible arrest if they revisit their old homes. It would seem the part of wisdom for the State Department to negotiate naturalization treaties with every country that sends immigrants to America.

Cleveland has just voted for the third time in two years on abandonment of its city-manager form of government. If they can't elect their mayor they insist on re-electing the plan which does away with the mayor.

A self-extinguishing cigarette and a fireproof match are reported to have been perfected. Now if some one would just invent a substitute for lightning many a tree in American forests would be saved.

A New York man suggests that useless automobiles be dismembered and shipped West to be built into the flood-control levies of the Mississippi. Why not add the countless tons of unread speeches of congressmen?

Women in London are demanding a law which would entitle them to housekeepers' wages from their husbands. In America husbands would be glad to get such a bargain.

Saxophones are suggested to end prison rioting and maybe they would if a cordon of saxophonists were stationed around prison walls.

THE BOY HAS TROUBLE WITH HIS FRENCH.

"We're having the time of our lives," he writes,
"We're riding round Paris and seeing the sights,
But the French my school teachers taught to me
Doesn't sound like the language in gay Paree,
For there's never a waiter or chamber wench
Who can make any sense of my high school French.

"I've tried it with various taxi men,
Asked clerks for paper and ink and pen;
I've inquired of gendarmes the way to go
But I've found no native who seemed to know
The speech I was using, or understood,
Though in school they told me my French was good.

"I'm laughing my way around France," says he,
"And the Frenchmen are merrily laughing at me,
But I'm wondering now that I'm over here
What it was I learned in that school last year.
They called it the language of pure romance,
But it isn't the French which they speak in France."

Getting Rich Today by Drawing Next Year's Wages.
By ROBERT QUILLEN

SING the song of American prosperity.

Streets and highways alive with automobiles—all of them "used cars" worth 25 per cent less than the purchase price the day after they left the showroom—most of the new models mortgaged for more than their present worth.

New cars leaving the factory as water pours from a faucet; dealers required to accept ten more each month under threat of losing their agency; car owners cajoled and shamed into buying new models before they have finished paying for old ones.

Electric refrigerators, phonographs, vacuum cleaners and radios in every home—and a vast army of collectors waiting to get their share of the weekly pay check.

Machines producing luxuries at greater and greater speed; warehouses overflowing; magazines filled with advertisements that plead, threaten and arouse the fears of the gullible in a frenzied effort to force purchase of ever-increasing surpluses.

High-pressure salesmanship; a dollar down; everybody living on next year's income.

Keep up with the Joneses.

The doctor, the merchant, the preacher, the shoeblack—all buying stocks on margin in the hope of getting rich without effort. Corporations sending their surplus to Wall Street to be loaned to gamblers at 12 or 15 per cent. The price of stocks bid higher and higher, each purchaser hoping to unload on another, until the paper value of shares is so high the legitimate investor can't hope to get 2 per cent dividends.

Statisticians telling us the country is a billion dollars richer because the paper value of stocks has increased a billion dollars.

Farmers making bumper crops and dumping them on the market because they must have money to meet their notes; farm products selling for less than the cost of production; farm mortgages reluctantly renewed by the banks because the land wouldn't sell for enough to pay the loans.

Garment makers, miners and textile workers in the South earning just enough to provide food and clothing.

Rich cream at the top; thin milk at the bottom.

And a middle class reveling in luxury that will be paid for next month.

"A little service, please." Paying 50 cents for a 10-cent article and 40 cents' worth of service.

Sing the song of American prosperity.

WHY PULLMAN TOURISTS GO MAD.

(Scene—A parlor car. A highly inquisitive youngster of about 7 years has been placed in one of the chairs by a mother who has gone into another car for some peace. A gentleman who boards the train finds his chair in back of the child.)

Child (on knees in chair facing the stranger)—Has this train got one engine?

Man (a little surprised)—Yes, I think so.

Child—Has it got one engine or two engines?

Man (opening a newspaper)—One engine is all on a train of this kind, my boy.

Child—I was on a train once that had two engines.

Man (attempting to read)—Were you?

Child—What kind of trains have two engines?

Man (a little annoyed, but trying to be tolerant)—Heavy trains, I guess.

Child—Heavier than this one?

Man—Heavier than this train, yes.

* * * *

Child—How heavy is this train?

Man (rattling his paper)—Quite heavy.

Child—Is it heavier than a freight train?

Man (frowning)—I dunno, son.

Child—I know what runs this train.

Man—Do you?

Child—Yes. Electricity. It runs halfway by electricity and then they change to steam engines. Why do they change to steam engines?

Man (trying to hide behind paper)—I haven't any idea.

Child—I know what it says on those signs out there. It says "Danger. Live wires." My mother told me if anybody touched the wires they would get killed. If you touched 'em would you get killed?

Man (irritably)—Yep.

Child—I betcher I could touch one and not get killed.

Man (now quite hot and bothered)—I'm afraid so.

(The man changes his seat to one across the aisle. The child pursues him.)

Child—Ooh, we're going over a trestle now. Can two trains go over this trestle at once?

Man (sharply)—No.

Child—Why not?

Man—They just can't. Here, take this paper and see the funny pictures.

Child—I don't like funny pictures. Can a train like this go off a trestle into the water?

Man—Yeah.

Child—Was you ever in a wreck?

Man—Never.

Child—My father was in a wreck.

Man (under his breath)—I suspected as much.

Child—And my mother was in a wreck.

Man (sliding down in seat quite dejectedly)—I'm glad of that.

Child—I was never in a wreck, though.

Man—No such luck.

Child (standing in seat so he can look down into the passenger's face over the top of his newspaper)—What does it mean when the man blows the engine whistle like that? Are there cows on the track?

Man (desperately resolving to get rid of the infant)—Now, look here, I don't want you to ask——

Mother (sweeping into the car suddenly)—Oh, has little Roscoe been annoying you? He makes friends with everybody and asks so many questions. Has he bothered you?

Man (trying to be nice)—Not at all, not at all.

Mother (leading the boy away)—You come right over with mommer and be quiet.

Man (behind his paper)—Idiot!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Virginia Dry Disputes Henry Ford's Statements Regarding Prohibition.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Henry Ford, in Pictorial Review, says that "if booze ever comes back to the United States I am through with manufacturing." What kind of glasses does Mr. Ford use when he surveys the present deplorable conditions? Since booze has never left the United States it is presumed that Mr. Ford intended to say, "If the old-time unpoisoned liquors ever come back I am through manufacturing, but so long as we have a substitute of poisonous booze supplied by bootleggers I will continue to do business at the same old stand."

Mr. Ford then makes the further astounding statement that "prohibition is effective with 99 per cent of our population." Perhaps he unintentionally omitted the little word "not" because had he used this word immediately preceding the word "effective" his statement would more nearly have represented conditions as they actually exist.

Mr. Ford further states he would not "be bothered with the problem of handling over 200,000 men and trying to pay them wages which the saloons would take away from them." Here Mr. Ford makes the same mistake that is made, apparently purposely, by practically every one of the ardent drys when writing or speaking on this subject. Mr. Ford knows or should know that not a single person in the United States desires or would vote for or countenance the return of the saloon. It is gone to stay, and the most ardent wet advocates are as bitterly opposed to the saloon as is Mr. Ford.

However, no one will take seriously Mr. Ford's utterances because, in the first place, his statement as to the present situation is overdrawn. In the second place, his whole statement will fall because of its inconsistency. How could Mr. Ford expect any intelligent person to believe his assertion that he'd quit manufacturing if booze returned, when he himself has only recently extended his manufacturing operations to European countries where the saloons flourish and probably always will?

The writer of this letter is a dry and believes in temperance in all things, but he is not blind to the present deplorable conditions that exist and which he believes have been bred by the enactment of prohibition.

A VIRGINIAN.

Shocking Conditions at Gallinger Hospital Call for Immediate Radical Action.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Humanitarian societies of this age are endeavoring to see that all dumb animals are given decent consideration. Cases of a driver being fined for maltreating his horse have not been uncommon.

Convicts, men who have displayed themselves as unfit and a menace to American civilization, when sentenced to die, are accorded the privilege of dying in the most humane way. The electric chair has displaced the hangman's noose, because the latter is considered a cause of unnecessary suffering.

When a person is sick he is cared for. His illness is considered as a natural misfortune, and he is not held especially undersirable because of it.

When a person is mentally sick, his illness is quite as natural as typhoid fever, but he is an undesirable outcast. He must suffer without proper care and help unless he is fortunate to have friends who will see that he is properly cared for.

In the heart of the Capital of the largest, most advanced, most highly civilized nation of the world is a situation so atrocious, so base, so cowardly and so unjust that it is difficult to believe that which we hear about it, even though it is known to come from an authentic source.

Can it really be true that while we are caring for dumb animals and seeing that our enemies are receiving humane treatment, we are allowing unfortunate invalids of our own race to suffer, to waste away in filth and sometimes be confined to life imprisonment, or worse, because of no real fault of their own?

Let immediate action and investigation take place, to expose all who are found responsible for this deplorable situation in Gallinger Hospital.

NEWMAN BUMSTEAD.

Provide Cheap and Plentiful Liquor and the People Will Not Want It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see by The Post that Henry Ford threatens to quit if booze is voted back. Perhaps, it would be a good thing if he did, for automobiles killed over 27,000 persons in the United States last year and I venture to say that whisky did not kill anywhere near that number. I would hate to feel that I was instrumental in killing such a large number of persons, directly or indirectly.

The prohibition law has not only caused disrespect for all laws, but also disrespect for long established conventions, whereby, for instance, the word modesty has been rendered obselete and morals are becoming looser as a natural result.

I am not in favor of whisky, but I am in favor of amending the law so as to make some form of intoxicating beverage cheap and plentiful. Then people will not want it or anything else that is cheap and plentiful.

Recondite Defender of Pedestrianism Adumbrates Views on the Levorotatory Rule.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Reboant obtestators against Washington's levorotatory regulation at controlled intersections have obumbrated the situation by pernicious recidivation in spite of the quassation administered to them by Assistant Director Eldridge in his ignivomous report. Pedentous individuals who must kangaroo the highways beset by migratory monsters and facing the instantaneity of annihilation can not but jubilate over the retention of this unique levorotatory rule, notwithstanding the obtrectations of osteocephalic vehicularians.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Annapolis Gay With Visitors From Capital

Scores of Diplomats and Friends Frolic at Nearby Resorts.

ANNAPOLIS—the sleepy, historic little town that is Maryland's capital—retains its historic background, but is becoming much less sleepy these late August days. Down the quaintly narrow streets of the old township resound the blare of the modern klaxon, peals of gay laughter, and the flutter and excitement which always accompany the arrival of visitors. Dozing cats are startled from the security of white colonial doorways, and flee silently into somber alleys. Dogs bark frenziedly. Midshipmen, spruce and alert-looking in their glistening uniforms, smile, wave greetings or call out to passing acquaintances.

Such is Annapolis on these afternoons when scores of young Washington diplomats and their friends motor through the town en route to nearby beaches. Chesapeake Bay and the Severn River become alive with tiny dancing sails. Motorboating and canoeing (for the more adventurous spirits) rival the popularity of swimming parties and picnics. Private yachts skim gracefully across the blue expanse of the Annapolis Harbor, carrying visitors to various points along the Maryland shore. The roads in and out of the town are thronged with the clang and bustle of motorists from Washington, and the aforementioned Annapolis felines are fortunate to escape with nothing worse than a bruised tail or a singed whisker.

The environs of Annapolis afford relaxation and real comfort to Washingtonians over the week-ends at the present time. To a casual observer, it would appear that the mosquitoes are not as large and fierce as the Gibson Island variety. The Annapolis mosquito buzzes mildly and bites with a certain amount of discrimination. He is a lazy, impudent sort of insect with a sense of humor. Along the Jersey coast, the mosquitoes bare their fangs with grim relentlessness and go for any one at all. Not so the Annapolis brand. He will pick a bald head or the ankle of a pretty girl, but not the eye or the exposed shoulder of seme poor devil suffering terribly from sun-burn. The Annapolis insect uses discretion.

Then, the waters of Annapolis Bay are cool and refreshing. The dreaded sea-nettles have appeared only in small quantity so far. Autumn has not dyed the leaves of the Maryland countryside, but the entire panorama from one of the Annapolis beaches presents a scene of restful charm. Above the bay, dotted with sails and motor cruisers, rises the dark luxuriance of green vegetation. If the sand is less soft than that of Atlantic City or Cape May, it is at any rate cleaner. The waves do not beat wildly on a storm-bound coast or dash their white spray on ancient rocks, but there is nevertheless a pleasant ripple that soothes a city-weary mind.

Some Washingtonians think so, anyhow, and they are going down to these beaches in increasing numbers. Over last week-end at Annapolis beaches one counted a score of Capital residents including:

Mr. Waverly Taylor, Capt. Gust van Lennep, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Langlais, Miss Katherine Sutherland, Waggaman, Mr. and Mrs. George Pulver, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rennert, Mrs. George Summerlin, jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Strong, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Haworth, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Condon, Mr. John Childress, Mr. Frank Smoot, and Mrs. Colbert Hight.

Ambassador of Spain And Daughter Return.

The Ambassador of Spain, Senor Don Alejandro Padilla, and his daughter, Senorita Rosa Padilla, returned yesterday to the Embassy after passing several days out of town. After visiting Mrs. Thomas Birch in Atlantic City over the week-end, they went to Philadelphia, where they were the guests of the Spanish aviator, Senor Juan La Cierva. The Ambassador and his daughter went flying with Senor La Cierva and Mr. Harold Pit-Cairn, who are now attending the air races in Cleveland.

The Secretary of Labor, Mr. James J. Davis, is returning to town today after a fortnight's vacation, passed mostly in Detroit.

Mr. George Boncesco, Financial Counselor of the Roumanian Legation, went to New York yesterday, where he will be at the Ritz-Carlton for several days.

The Commissioner General for Australia, Mr. Herbert Brookes, with Mrs. Brookes, their daughter, Miss Jessie Brookes and their son, Alfred Brookes, will arrive in Washington on September 5 and will be at the Carlton Hotel. Dr. D. M. Dow, the official secretary to the commissioner, will arrive September 4 and will also be at the hotel.

Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of Senator Borah, who has been visiting in Portland, Oreg., with her mother, Mrs. W. J. McConnell, of Moscow, Idaho, has returned to Boise where she will remain several weeks before returning to Washington.

The First Secretary of the Legation of Portugal, Mr. Augusto de Mendes Leal, has taken an apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. James Fechet, wife of Maj. Gen. Fechet, was among those lunching at the Carlton Hotel yesterday. Others were Mrs. Ridley McLean, wife of Rear Admiral McLean; Mrs. Mable Walker Willebrandt, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Ormie Exnicios and Mr. George Marshall.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Now in Nanking.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who is on a trip around the world, is now in Nanking and will later go to Peiping and Japan. Last week Mrs. Wilson was in Shanghai, where she was entertained at luncheon by the President and Mrs. Chiang Kai-Shek and at a dinner by the foreign minister, Mr. I. C. Wang.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, who returned a few days ago from Europe, have gone to their summer home at Gloucester, Mass., to spend some time.

Mrs. Sidney Taliaferro, wife of the Commissioner of the District, has returned to Washington after passing several weeks visiting in Virginia.

Mr. Elihu Root, jr., of New York, is spending several days at the Mayflower.

Mr. William Bowie Clark is the guest of Mrs. J. Wilmer Biddle at Kenmore Manor, Va., this week, when he will attend the Warrenton Horse Show. Mrs. Biddle will sail early in September for Paris with her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Biddle. Mr. Clark will go to Newport next week for a short visit.

Lieut. Comdr. John W. Morse entertained a party of eight at dinner last evening at the Terrace Sans Souci at the Carlton Hotel.

Lieut. and Mrs. Elliott B. Strauss, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips Allen Clark at Saratoga, have motored to Lenox, Mass., for a visit before returning to Newport, where they have been spending the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buchanan Sparks, of Charlottesville, Va., yesterday announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lucille Conway, to Mr. Charles Morris Cook, of Washington. Miss Fox is attending American University and will continue her studies looking to a bachelor of arts degree in the class of 1930.

The wedding ceremony will be performed at the Francis Asbury Methodist Church Saturday, September 7, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Dunlop, have returned from New York, where they spent several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Wile, who have been in Nantucket for some time, are in New York for a few days before returning to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Purchase New Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bradley have purchased a small house at 3048 P street, which they are remodeling. They are making their home at 2100 Nineteenth street, though Mrs. Bradley and her young daughter are still at Narragansett, where they have passed the summer with her parents, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John L. Chamberlain.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gans have returned from their trip to Asheville, Lake Lure, Lake Junelaska and the mountains of North Carolina, where they spent the summer and were widely entertained.

Mrs. Anna M. Baden, of 3932 Illinois avenue, has returned to her home, where she is recuperating after a serious illness.

Misses Drew Return After Pennsylvania Visit.

Miss Elizabeth Drew and Miss Helen Drew, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Drew, have returned to their home on Crittenden street after a vacation at Eagles Mere, Pa.

Lieut. E. W. Diehman and his mother, Mrs. E. G. Dichman, have come from their home in Dayton and are passing a short time at the Carlton Hotel.

Miss Brooks' Wedding Will Occur Tonight

Massachusetts Woman to Become Bride of Maj. Brooking.

Widespread interest attends the wedding of Maj. Walter DeBois Brookings, manager of the department of natural resources production of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in Washington, and Miss Martha Nutting Brooks, a member of the House of Representatives at the State House, Boston. The affair is to bring together an important and representative group this evening at Gloucester, Mass.

The wedding ceremony, to be attended only by the immediate families, will be solemnized at 7 o'clock at the bride's home, 141 Essex avenue, the double ring service to be used. The services will be read by the Rev. Charles H. Williams, of Jamaica Plain and Gloucester, and the Rev. Albert A. Radsen, pastor of Trinity Congregational Church, at Gloucester, of which the bride has long been a member.

Miss Brooks, a graduate of Wellesley College with the class of 1904, will be gowned in eggshell crepe satin with side draping caught with an antique pearl cluster. The soft fichu of appliqued lace will be carried out in the bridal veil, cut with train, which will be arranged in banded cap effect held in place with a circlet of orange blossoms.

The only attendant will be little Mary Brookings, 6-year-old daughter of the bridegroom. She will be the ring bearer and will wear a simple French frock of white georgette crepe, accordion plaited.

Distinguished Company On List of Ushers.

In the usher list will be Lieut. Gov. William S. Youngman, of Boston; Mr. Frederick E. Draper, of Troy, N. Y.; Mr. Elliott H. Goodwin, of Cambridge, Mass.; Mr. David D. Cassidy, of Amsterdam, N. Y., and Mr. George Hoague, of Boston, Mass., classmates of the groom at Harvard College and Harvard Law School, also Maj. Richard Park, U. S. Army, of Washington; Mr. William J. MacInnis, of Gloucester, Mass., a former colleague of the bride in municipal government, and Mr. Robert S. Brookings 2d, of Washington, oldest son of the bridegroom.

The ceremony will be follwed by a reception at 8 o'clock, when Maj. and Mrs. Brookings will receive their guests in the living room, standing under a bower of gladioli and palms, with overhead drapings of dotted chiffon. The house decorations will be of baskets of gladioli and plumosus. They will be assisted in receiving by Miss Mary Brooks, of Gloucester; Prof. and Mrs. Edward M. Bragg (Helen E. Brooks), of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Addison Gott Brooks, sisters and brother of the bride, and by Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Brookings, of Washington and Eastern Point, Gloucester; Mrs. Selina M. Kinney, of Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y., and Bass Rocks, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Strong, of Croton-on-Hudson and Bass Rocks, relatives of the bridegroom.

Bride Is Member Of State Legislature.

The bride, who is prominent in religious and political organizations of Massachusetts, was in 1923 the first woman to become alderman in any Massachusetts city, and she is now serving her second term as a member of the State Legislature. She is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Brooke.

Maj. Brookings is the son of Mrs. Emma (DuBois) and the late Mr. John Emory Brookings, of Hollywood, Calif. He was graduated from Harvard College with the class of 1895, and from Harvard Law School in 1898, later becoming a partner in his father's timber and lumber business at Brookings, Ore. During the World War, he served with the Twentieth Engineers, and after the armistice he became a food director in the American Relief Association, President Hoover's organization, in Poland and Latvia. He is now associated with the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington.

Maj. and Mrs. Brookings will make their wedding trip by motor in the Blue Ridge and Shenandoah Mountains of Virginia and in October will go to California, where they will visit the bridegroom's mother at Hollywood. They will be at their Gloucester home with their four children for the Christmas holidays and Mrs. Brookings will complete her term of service in the Legislature, beginning in January, 1930.

MINORITIES TO OPEN RECOGNITION DRIVE

Groups to Launch Campaign Before League in Try for Rights.

MANY DELEGATES SENT

Geneva, Aug. 26 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—A determined drive to secure through the League of Nations recognition of the rights of racial minorities will be launched here next month. Representatives of 30,000,000 minority residents of fourteen different countries are now holding their sixth annual conference in Geneva to prepare a united program of action to be taken by them during the September assembly of the league.

There are indications that the new procedure of the league council for dealing with minority complaints, which was formulated at Lugano, Geneva and Madrid meetings of the council, will not be considered sufficiently effective by the spokesmen for the minorities. Changes in this procedure suggested by Gustave Stresemann, German foreign minister, and Raoul Dandurand, Canadian minister without portfolio, will be accepted as steps in the right direction.

The reply of the Catalonians to Premier Primo de Rivera's outburst against Stresemann for the latter's so-called "indiscretion" at Madrid, when the German foreign minister intimated that perhaps Spain has its own minorities problem, has been to send to the present minorities congress the largest delegation that has ever come here from Catalonia. Seven prominent Catalonians, representing all sections of Catalonian life, are present.

German minorities form the largest racial group represented here. There are delegations representing them from Czechoslovakia, Italy, Esthonia, Latvia, Roumania, Jugoslavia, Poland and Hungary.

Jewish delegations come from Poland, Czechoslovakia, Roumania, Bulgaria Latvia and Lithuania.

Despite Czechoslovakian claims that there are no minorities difficulties in that country delegates representing recognized groups of Russians, Jews, Germans and Hungarians have brought their troubles to the conference.

The league is closely following developments in Palestine, since the terms of the Palestine mandate obligate Great Britain to preserve order, no action will be taken here unless the situation indicates that safeguards have been neglected. The situation will remain completely in the hands of the mandatory power unless complaints are raised in the permanent mandates commission, which does not reassemble until after the league assembly has adjourned.

SWINDLED BUCKET SHOP VICTIMS RARELY FIGHT FOR REDRESS

naturally asks himself the question, "Why can't I also play the market, make a big, quick profit, or probably double my money, and then get out?"

The bucket shop and the shady investment house leaped at the opportunity to capitalize in this rising tide of public confidence in stock market operations, ignorant for the most part in the whys and wherefores of the highly complex machinery that embraces even a single transaction.

Small Towns Worked.

Big game ever is alluring, but the shysters have learned that the aggregate of the small investments, especially from the men and the women in the distant little towns who have neither the extra money nor time to make trips to check upon their investments, prove far superior in every way. Thus the telephones in the "boiler houses" of these crooks provide the logical medium to present and close a steady deal.

Most of the duped ones may well kiss their money a fond adieu. Even if the more stubborn suckers go to the trouble to make a journey to the fake companies they are met with delays, obstacles and an endless chain of procrastinations that in the bulk of instances have the desired effect of sending the discontents back home with nothing to show for their added expense.

Or the financial sharpsters may veer off on another tack and lure the trimmed investor into another guadily portrayed fraud that can have only the customary finale of failure. There is always the open road to litigation.

Not infrequently, more often with Washingtonians rather than the victims from the contiguous countryside, lawyers are sought as a last resort, but the average sucker hesitates to go to such lengths where a further expenditure will be necessary. It often happens that while the victim can give a mass of facts and figures indicating beyond the shadow of a doubt that a swindle has been perpetrated, the statements that have been made to him and the representations of the bogus firm, made to him without a witness, will not stand up in a legal suit.

Extra-Legal Action.

Pressure has been brought to bear in a number of instances in the past two or three years in Washington by reputable civic agencies and others to force the speakeasy brokers to make at least some restitution.

A typical case of this kind is that of a moderately well to do farmer living near Staunton, Va., who one day a little more than three years ago received a telephone call. A pleasant voice informed him that the speaker was a representative of such-and-such a brokerage company in Washington with an attractive plan to make some money for him. In a subtle manner the "boiler house" operative eased into the conversation the name of the proffered stock, told the Virginian of the corporation's earnings and potentialities, and assured him that he expected an early rise in the market.

The farmer, promptly convinced by the plausible sales talk, was influenced to make a substantial investment which totaled about $35,000, a sum considerably more than usually finds its way at one time in the strongboxes of these crooks.

Recently the farmer, after exceptional success in his market operations with the Washington company from his home, showed an amount approximating $60,000. For reasons best known to him, the farmer by letter requested a statement from the brokerage house of his account, expressing his desire to get out of the market. Failure to receive any reply prompted further correspondence, which also went unanswered.

Alarmed, the Virginian finally came here personally to press his claims, but he was blocked at every turn in his attempts to get any action from the organization with whom he had been dealing. At last he determined to force a settlement at any cost. He obtained a Washington attorney, who threatened to take the case into court. Apparently fearful that the publicity would prove damaging, regardless of the outcome, the bucket shop began paying the money back to the farmer in driblets.

Slightly more distance than the bulk of victims, who live mainly in Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia, an employe of a tobacco factory in Winston-Salem, N. C., was importuned to take his hard-earned savings of a lifetime and make an investment with a Washington bucket shop after a similar canvass by the "boiler house" method. After an original investment in the neighborhood of $2,500 and a profit which swelled the entire amount to about $3,000 during the course of several months, the man wrote to his brokers for a statement. Weeks brought no reply to another letter or two and he sought to obtain satisfaction by telephone. Unable to pierce the barrier of continued delays, he finally made an expensive trip here and, fortunately for him, he succeeded by threats of exposure in forcing the company to begin the payment of his claim.

There is monotonous recurrence to cases of this nature. The path of the bogus operator is not all easy sledding, yet the average man in the average town continues to supply him with almost illimitable grist for his swindle mill.

The fourth article in the series being written by Mr. Mitchell will be published tomorrow.

FOUR ARE ARRESTED IN HUTCHINSON THEFT

elry broadcast at the time of the robbery, August 10. The missing pieces, not found in the possession of the Negroes, but which detectives hope to trace through admissions of the pair, are two diamond rings, diamond earrings, a black pearl, a large diamond and pearl pin, and a gold bag.

Upon communication with chief of Police John S. Welch, of Beverly Farms, police were informed that Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson sailed last Thursday for Europe. Their daughter, Mrs. John S. Tyson, from whose bedroom the burglar stole a diamond studded watch and a diamond clasp pin, will come to New York tomorrow with Chief Welsh to identify the jewelry.

According to detectives, both Negroes denied that they had stolen the jewelry from the Hutchinson summer home. They were given the jewelry by a man named Young, they said, whom they met in Boston, and who instructed them to bring the jewels to New York and to see that no one got the pieces away from them.

At the time of the robbery, police strongly suspected Arthur Barry, of Worcester, former member of the "Boston Billy" Williams gang who escaped two weeks before from Auburn Prison, where he was doing time for an $86,000 jewel robbery at the Long Island home of Jesse L. Livermore.

Today when pictures of Barry were shown to Beaucaire and Salley, they told police they bore a strong resemblance to the man in Boston who entrusted them with the valuable loot. Detectives, however, are inclined to doubt this story.

Mrs. Hutchinson was formerly Edith Stotesbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia.

SOCIETY

New York, are passing a short time at the Wardman Park Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens motored from their home to Baltimore last week, where they met their son upon his return from a trip to San Pedro by way of the Panama Canal.

Miss Edith Finney, of 3536 Edmunds street, is at Virginia Beach for a stay of several weeks.

Mrs. George Bennett Ashby has again taken up her residence in Washington after an absence of several years. With her son, Mr. Otand Ashby, who has attended school here, she is established at 1406 Massachusetts avenue for the winter. Of late Mrs. Ashby has passed much time with her mother, Mrs. C. W. Smith, at her home near Scarsdale.

Mr. H. C. C. Stiles entertained a party of ten at dinner last evening at the Terrace Sans Souci at the Carlton Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz have taken an apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Kappa Phi Fraternity Entertains at Dance.

The Kappa Phi fraternity entertained at a tea dance yesterday afternoon at the Wardman Park Hotel, where they are holding their convention. There were about 100 guests. Last evening they had a stag smoker at the hotel, and this evening will entertain at a stag supper.

Señor Gonzalo de Arango, of Cuba, has returned from New York and Atlantic City, where he was for some time this summer.

Miss Darnall Is Wed To Mr. R. J. Etter.

The marriage of Miss Catherine Elizabeth Darnall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Darnall, to Mr. Robert James Etter, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Etter, of Vienna, Va., took place August 21 at St. Jerome's Catholic Church in Hyattsville. The church was decorated with palms, ferns and flowers and candles.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe de chine with a white picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

The bride's cousin, Miss Frances Hall, was maid of honor. She was in a frock of rose taffeta with a hat of the same shade and carried pink roses.

Mr. Russell Etter, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride in Hyattsville Hills, at which Mrs. Darnall and Mrs. Etter, mothers of the couple, received with the wedding party. Mrs. Darnall wore a gown of lavender crepe de chine with a mauve hat and Mrs. Etter was in brown satin with a matching hat.

Among the guests were Miss Katherine Gibbs, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. John Adams and Capt. and Mrs. Donovan, of Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Elvery Berg, of Silver Spring, Md.; Mrs. Ballor, of Bethesda, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Langstream, Miss Anna Shubert, Miss Ida Shubert, Mr. and Mrs. John Crown, Miss Susie McDermott, all of Washington.

PROGRAM IS READY FOR LABOR DAY FETE

Brandywine Fire Company to Send 125 Men and Band for Parade.

MARDI GRAS PLANS MADE

The Brandywine Fire Company No. 2, of Coatesville, Pa., is the latest addition to the ranks of paraders who will participate in the annual firemen's demonstration here on Labor Day, it was reported last night by Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, in charge of parade arrangements.

The Coatesville organization will bring 125 men and a band to take part in the parade and band contest which will be a feature of the festivities. This swells the ranks of the parade to more than 3,000 persons, members of almost 100 organizations having already accepted invitations from the District Fire Department.

New entries are being received daily for the baby carriage contest, and Sergt. Bargagni is confident that by the time entries are closed at noon on Labor Day, considerably more than a hundred mothers will have prepared elaborately decorated vehicles in which to wheel their offspring in competition for the $50 award which is to be made for the carriage adjudged best.

Elaborate plans are being made to make the Mardi Gras at night take its place as the most colorful event of its kind ever seen in this vicinity. Preparations under way should make this affair resemble strongly that held in New Orleans. Tons of confetti, miles of colored streamers, and thousands of paper hats will be used in this celebration, Sergt. Bargagni declared.

Injunction in Kentucky Auto Tag Suit Is Denied

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—An injunction to prevent use of the slogan, "Kentucky for Progress" on the 1930 automobile license tags was refused by Circuit Judge Ben G. Williams here today in the suit of the Louisville Automobile Club. Judge Williams indicated that he does not agree with the State Tax Commission on the "good taste or expediency" of the lettering, but said that the statute appeared to give the commission the right to decide what is to go on the tags.

Eugene Stuart, manager of the automobile club, testified today that the slogan in the 1929 has subjected Kentuckians to ridicule. The suit will be appealed.

Gil Denies Rumors Of Mexican Upheaval

Mexico City, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Recent rumors of an impending political, and possibly military, upheaval were called illogical by President Emilio Portes Gil today. He said they had been spread by "enemies of the government who wish to provoke unjustified alarm."

"The government, in my opinion," he said, "has never been so strong as it is now nor has the revolution ever been so unified as it is now."

He declared that no cabinet changes are in view except the possible temporary retirement of Secretary of Agriculture Gomez, who will take his seat in the chamber of deputies on September 1 to speak in behalf of the national labor law to be introduced at the regular session then. The president will deliver his annual message to congress on that day.

King Alfonso of Spain Takes First Plane Ride

Santander, Spain, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—King Alfonso today had his first ride in an airplane and spent 15 minutes over this city, where the royal family is summering. He was a passenger in the same plane used by Commander Cranco in his Azores flight, which was recovered after floating on the sea for a week.

The king has long been known as a daring automobile driver.

Oil Merger Plans Denied by Sinclair

Union With Prairie, Says Magnate, in Jail, Faces Many Obstacles.

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the board of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, stated today that negotiations for a merger of his company with the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. were in a state of preliminary discussion. He added, however, that "there are many obstacles to be overcome before any merger or purchase can take place."

Mr. Sinclair made a statement through a friend from the District of Columbia Jail, where he is completing his sentence for contempt of the Senate, and the statement was subsequently issued at the offices of Sinclair Consolidated in New York. The statement was in response to persistent rumors of a merger involving Sinclair. Mr. Sinclair made it clear that he has no intention of retiring from the oil business, and intimated that he intends to head the Consolidated company, if the merger plans materialize.

The merger would bring together two companies with total assets of about $600,000,000.

Canadian Senator Dies.

Prescott, Ont., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Senator John Dowsley Reid died at his home here today in his seventieth year. He served the Conservative party from 1891 until 1921, when he retired from the cabinet and was summoned to the Senate.

Farmer, Prisoner in Well Two Days, Finally Rescued

Derrick Pulls George Peet, Caught by Cave-In, to Top After Anesthetic Is Administered; Four Slides Delay Workers' Efforts.

Allegan, Mich., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—After 51 hours of imprisonment in a vise of rocks and earth, George Peet, 26, Allegan County farmer, was lifted with derrick by rescue workers late today from the 30-foot well, where he was caught Saturday afternoon by a cave-in as he was digging the well deeper.

Physicians said no bones were broken and that Peet would recover. After the rescue doctors decided that it was unnecessary to send him to a hospital.

Peet was under the influence of an anesthetic during the actual rescue. The anesthetic, a gas, was pumped into the well after L. G. Reynolds, a neighbor had fastened a harness arrangement of ropes around the farmer. Reynolds hung head downward in the well for 15-minute intervals over a period of 3 hours before the ropes were securely placed.

At the first attempt to pull the prisoner from the well, a pulley on the derrick broke and Peet revived from the first administering of the anesthetic before it could be repaired. A second quantity of the gas was pumped into the well and Peet was lifted out.

Four times before his release it appeared that rescue workers under the direction of Alfred Ackele, Kalamazoo, a mining engineer, would be successful. Each time a new cave in balked the progress.

Food and stimulants were lowered into the well to Peet, who was able to assist the rescuers by digging the dirt from around his body with spoons sent down to him, until the fourth cave-in. It pinioned his arms to his sides.

All of his body except his right foot was free when the plan to pull him out of the well was evolved. The foot was caught between the rocks.

Workers said that the later caveins came from the weight of thousands of spectators who gathered at the well to watch the proceedings. The shuffling of their feet, it was said, loosened the earth at the sides of the well.

Red Cross Man Leaps Four Stories to Death

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Dr. Nesic, general secretary of the Jugoslavian branch of the International Red Cross, jumped from the fourth floor of the police station tonight and was killed.

He previously had been discovered, it was alleged, participating in Communistic activities, and had been taken to the station for questioning.

$26,000,000 SOUGHT TO ERADICATE PEST

Department of Agriculture Ready to Ask That Sum to Fight Fruit Fly.

MERE CONTROL NOT AIM

(Associated Press.)

The Department of Agriculture has completed its plans to ask the special session of Congress for an emergency appropriation of $26,000,000 to carry on eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly in Florida, where the pest has menaced the entire fruit and vegetable industry.

Secretary Hyde said yesterday it would take that amount to finance the intensive campaign which will be necessary before the fly is completely stamped out. He said the department had no desire to control the fruit fly, as that "would mean living with it, and we want it completely wiped off the continent."

Present eradication measures and the inspection and certification of fruit and vegetables placed in interstate shipment will be continued and intensified. The border inspection designed to prevent the carrying of the fly into other States will be increased.

Agriculture Department officials, particularly those in the plant quarantine and control administration, have been apprehensive of the spread of the fly from Florida into neighboring States during the last summer and stringent measures have been taken to prevent such spread. With the coming of winter it is felt that greater attention can be given to eradication as colder weather to the northward will act as a deterrent to spread.

Dr. C. L. Marlatt, chief of the quarantine administration, held two long conferences with Secretary Hyde yesterday. He would not comment on what occurred, but it was understood at the Secretary's office that he and Hyde had put the finishing touches on the request for more funds.

If the $26,000,000 is made available it will bring the sum appropriated for fighting the pest to $30,500,000, as $4,500,000 was made available soon after infestation was found near Orlando last winter.

Youths Held in Store Robbery Slash Wrists

Lawrence, Kans., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Two youths, giving their names as Ernest Lavernge, Akron, Ohio, and Elmer Batchelder, Bristol, Conn., were found in serious condition in the county jail here today after slashing their wrists.

They were being held with William O'Neill, Madison, Wis., and Charles Myers, Denver, in connection with a drug store robbery in Denver.

Woman Faces Court 71 Times in 24 Years

For the seventy-first time since 1905, Mary Brown, colored, of 2610 Bowen street northwest, faced a Police Court judge yesterday and was sentenced to serve 180 days on each of two counts of assault.

She was charged with assault on Elizabeth Simms and Charles Simms, both colored. Testimony was to the effect that the prisoner lives with the Simmses and went home Saturday night in an inebriated condition. She resented efforts to put her to bed, and picking up a knife cut both, it was testified.

Judge R. E. Mattingly read the woman's record from the bench and at the conclusion said: "Well, add another year to the record." This shows that most of the woman's appearances in Police Court are traceable to whisky, and that she had been out of jail only a few days.

Canadian Police Seize Rum Plane

Pilot Arrested as 33 Cases of Liquor Are Being Put in Ship.

Windsor, Ontario, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Royal Canadian mounted police and officers of the Canadian customs preventive service captured a rum-running airplane today and arrested its pilot, also taking into custody a truck from which 33 cases of liquor were being transferred to the plane.

Ray Baumgartener, 37 years old, of Plymouth, Mich., acknowledged he had made three trips before he was caught, merely offering the explanation that "I needed the money so I took a chance." He pleaded guilty to landing the plane, which he said he did not own, in a place not designated by customs authorities and was given an option of paying a fine of $150 or spending two months in jail. The plane was held for a possible claimant, who can regain it by paying $400.

Infantile Paralysis Prevalent in Ottawa

Ottawa, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Health authorities today stood in need of more serum to combat an outbreak of infantile paralysis, which began July 26. Four new cases were reported over the week-end, bringing the total to 27. Two deaths have occurred.

Civic health department officials said that while many donations of serum had been received, more was needed. Authorities said the outbreak was not serious enough to postpone the opening of the schools next Tuesday.

FARM GROUP SPLIT ON RELIEF MEASURE

Initial Session Is Marred by Wrangling of Units Over Procedure.

QUICK SOLUTION URGED

Chicago, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Members of the committee detailed to organize the Farmers' National Grain Corporation at the behest of the Federal Farm Loan Board struggled today between two plans and were reported, after several hours of discussion, to be far from an agreement.

Cooperatives, it was understood, strenuously opposed a tentative plan proposed by the United States Department of Agriculture because it would result in loss of identity to the standing farm marketing groups, which would be merged into the gigantic new corporation.

The Department of Agriculture plan calls for the issuance of $20,000,000 worth of stock in the new organization to the farmers and the various representative organizations, with the proposed corporation acting as the clearing house for the entire field.

Another plan, designed by the Farmers Union Terminal Association, and favored by the cooperatives, would make the grain corporation a holding company with the already organized marketing groups buying the stock in their own names. It was said this plan, however, has received no encouragement from members of the Farm Board.

M. W. Thatcher, one of the leaders in the movement to retain identity for marketing groups, announced he was authorized by the Union Terminal Association to purchase $1,000,000 worth of stock in the proposed corporation if the organization set up should meet with his approval.

Many members of the committee, fearing the farmer will be caught in a market slump this year, expressed desire for speedy organization and functioning of the corporation. There were predictions, however, that the committee would not effect an organization before tomorrow night as was hoped.

W. H. Settle, of Indianapolis, is presiding at the meetings, and Chairman Alexander Legge, Carl Williams, James Stone and W. F. Schilling are attending. C. B. Denman, of the Federal Farm Loan Board, was not present today, but will arrive tomorrow.

Chicago Refuel Plane Ends Third Day in Air

Chicago, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Out for a new world endurance record, the Chicago-We Will plane, piloted by C. E. Steele and Russell Mossman, completed its third day in the air tonight.

Refueling contacts were made with ease throughout the day. The plane has been circling Sky Harbor, north of the city, since 11:31 a. m. last Friday.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE: This autumn will show many changes along Connecticut avenue. Every block is at the moment busy with carpenters and bricklayers and great goings-on all over the place. Elizabeth Arden is putting up a lovely new building, all pink marble front and everything. Artcraft is opening a large salon cornerways from Dulin & Martin's new store. Robert, of Paris, moves a few doors from his present location into a salon done in Art Moderne.

Valiant's, of Baltimore, are opening the most luxurious establishment in that building on the corner of Connecticut avenue and Que. Rauscher's will have greatly enlarged space in the new set of apartments Mrs. John R. Williams is adding to her group in the same neighborhood. So it goes! It will be a tremendously active season, and mark my word, will open earlier than usual.

Good News From Underwood & Underwood

—has come to be taken as a matter of course. They are having a sale of frames to wind up the last few days of August. While the sale includes for the most part styles which were run through the spring and summer, there are in the group some which were especially designed for this sale. There are frames of metal, leather and carved wood, at prices which you will agree are most reasonable. The discounts range from twenty-five per cent to fifty per cent, and many are way below cost.

You have perhaps seen some of this collection of frames, and have wished to have several, but have not felt you could afford them. This then is your opportunity, and one which you, of course, will not let go by. Think how later on, you will be so glad you had the good sense to buy some of these lovely frames when you can secure them at such a small price.

You know, of course, that Underwood & Underwood buy nearly all of their frames direct from Italy and other places in Europe, where this sort of thing is done so well.

Less Than Cost At Juliette Allen's —is the sale in progress this week.

Coming just now, when you thought all the sales might be over, is fine news. If you have returned from your vacation with your clothes all worn out, and need one or two little frocks to finish out the long Washington summer, this is a rare opportunity. If you are perhaps just going away, you will be so lucky to add to your wardrobe from this exceptional end of the season collection.

Frocks that were $39.50 are $18.50. Models up to $85 have been reduced to $42.50. A lovely flesh sponge is $24.75 from $49.50. A sleeveless green frock with its own coat is below cost. Juliette Allen, 1617 Connecticut avenue.

It Was Once Supposed

—that apartment-hunting did not begin in earnest until September 1. Do not delude yourself with that idea this year. I am told by people who are expecting to make a change, that the choicest apartments in town are being snapped up so fast that you can not afford to delay a day. The Cavalier, 3500 Fourteenth street, has a variety in apartments difficult to find. For instance, they have four, five and six room apartments unfurnished and one, two and three room apartments furnished. The Cavalier is especially desirable because you can have cafe service and the location is perfect.

I Always Say The Powhatan

—is after all the place to be really cool and really happy on a warm August night. This roof has been all summer the most popular place in Washington. It is the highest roof in the city, and has the most entrancing view of the surrounding country, with searchlights playing on the memorials and monuments.

Johnny Slaughter's Orchestra plays better every time you hear them. This is the favorite dance orchestra of scores of Washingtonians and visitors to the Capital. There is no cover charge until 9 o'clock.

Mr. Martin Has Returned From Europe

—and some of the beautiful things he purchased over there are just beginning to arrive. Martin's, 1317 Conn. Ave., has a reputation for finest crystal and china and objects of art. The collections exhibited are always unsurpassed for rare beauty and exquisite selection. We have every reason to expect a marvelous showing this season, for during his trip abroad Mr. Martin visited all the centers where the most wonderful china and crystal in the world are designed and made.

During two months Mr. Martin was able to visit Paris, Venice, Florence, Milan and Vienna, Dresden, Berlin, Haida, Prague and other important cities. On this sort of a trip he could search out the designs which never reach the eyes of the professional importers and, in many cases, had special things made up to suit his own needs.

To watch the arrival of this personally selected collection will be the next best thing to having a trip abroad ourselves. Martin's, 1317 Conn. Ave.

Sailing for Europe In September

—is better than not going at all. In fact, many travelers consider it the ideal time to go to the other side. One reason why so many people are going this year, is on account of the exposition in Seville. Now that the weather is so much cooler, it will be pleasant to visit Spain, and enjoy the brilliance and fascination of Seville.

The C. C. Drake Travel Bureau in the Willard Hotel is booking passages as fast as they can be handled. Go in and ask Miss Moorhead about it. She will arrange your itineray and all that.

Sincerely,

Bab

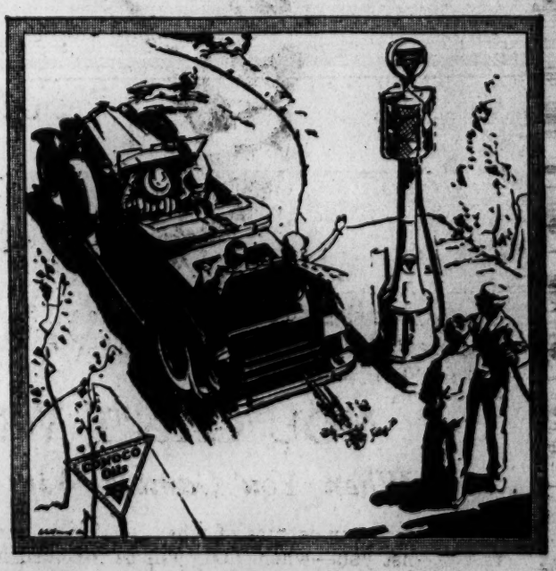
A FRIEND YOU'RE GLAD TO MEET the CONOCO RED TRIANGLE

"They might burn up the roads, but they never burn out a bearing . . because they know oils!" . . .



YOUNG America! Why shouldn't they be motor wise? Most of them cut their teeth on a steering wheel! They were driving almost as soon as they could walk—and with usual youthful curiosity they looked under the hood! They learned motors—they learned oils—they learned gasolines. And, it's surprising how many of these motor-wise young people have turned to Conoco products.

They have learned to depend on Conoco Motor Oil—and most of them know why it's lubricating quality is so outstanding. Once sure of their oil, they always seek the Sign of the Conoco Red Triangle, knowing that this sign marks the oil they trust!

Conoco Gasoline and Conoco Motor Oil are made by the Greater Continental Oil Company (the Marland Oil Company combined with the Continental Oil Company) and sold at stations formerly handling Marland products and Continental products. Look for the new Conoco sign.

Today's True Detective Story

By VANCE WYNN

Story of the Buried Treasure

THE Denver mint was being robbed of gold bullion, and when the losses touched the $100,000 mark the officials began to get worried and to wonder how such things could take place under their very noses.

The chief of the local branch of the Federal Secret Service was called into the case and began a systematic investigation. He started upon the assumption that every one in the establishment was likely to be guilty. In a word, all were placed under suspicion. It was the process of elimination. In two weeks the robberies were traced to the refining department and a close watch was placed over all of the men in that part of the mint.

Eventually the list of suspects narrowed down to three, and a particular watch was placed on the homes of these men. Two of the suspects lived rather well, and the third man was noted for his economy. Yet, strange as it may seem, he excited the interest of the investigators more than the others. He lived in the suburbs and had a little garden and orchard which he cultivated morning and night. Chief Goddard discovered that he did most of his digging at night, and so he made it his business to go down there and watch the enterprising employe.

One night he was the witness of a strange performance. Refiner Haring was lame, and the officer noticed that he was preparing for a curious rite. The man came limping out of his house and going to a far corner of the orchard dug a deep hole. Then he went back to the kitchen and presently returned, carrying some dark object in his arms. It was covered with a cloth. From his place of hiding the detective could not tell what it was, but it might have been a dog or cat or a dead animal of any kind. In any event, it was placed in the grave and then covered with dirt.

The first assumption was that the tender-hearted man had been giving decent burial to some household pet.

But the secret service operative was sophisticated and not in the habit of being oversentimental. Very quickly he planned his campaign. He waited until the following day, when Haring was at work in the refining room of the mint and the members of his family were away from the place in the suburbs. Then he appeared in the orchard, with a couple of assistants, carrying spades. Ruthlessly they dug up the grave that had been so carefully and reverently made by the suspect. Presently they struck the cloth-covered object, and it was brought to the surface and opened.

It was a shining bar of gold—afterward valued at $1,400.

They were in the midst of buried treasure, and the heroes of Stevenson's celebrated story were not more feverish or excited than these prosaic detectives. Under the guidance of Chief Goddard they looked for other rich places in the orchard. They located three spots where it seemed that the dirt had been disturbed. They were dug up and each of them disclosed a rich ingot of gold. Then they broke into the house and searched it from top to bottom. The place had a dirt cellar and this was dug with the handy spades. When they had concluded their day's work they had found exactly nineteen bars of gold—a fortune large enough to keep a man comfortably for life.

After this had been dispatched to a safe-keeping vault Chief Goddard and his assistants sat on the porch and waited for Haring. He came swinging along the lane at the usual hour, and was very much surprised to see his visitors. He explained that he had worked hard at the mint that day.

"I'm afraid," grinned one of the operatives, "that you have been working a little too hard for the good of the United States Government."

He was taken into custody and in the course of time given the usual trial with the usual results. And the most dramatic feature of it all lies in the fact that he had been systematically stealing the gold by carrying it from the Mint concealed in the hollow part of his artificial limb.

Two Dead, Several Hurt As Bus Crashes Auto

Vincennes, Ind., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Leo Henderson, of Vincennes, and Landis Martin, 15, of Bridgeport, Ill., were killed and several other persons were injured in an accident involving a bus and two automobiles near here today.

Henderson's car, in which Young Martin was a passenger, was struck head on by a bus owned by the Midland Trail Bus Co., of Vincennes, after the latter was alleged to have sideswiped another automobile. Henderson was dead when picked up and the Martin boy died in a hospital here a short time after the accident. The bus was en route to St. Louis.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

ON last Saturday afternoon a young man slipped quietly into Washington and hied himself from the station directly to the Fox Theater where he viewed the first public presentation he had ever witnessed of "Why Leave Home?" the feature talking and singing picture for the current week. His attention, it might have been noted, was centered upon the audience and its reaction to the entertainment unfolded before it, instead of upon the musicalized version of "The Cradle Snatchers," an hilarious stage farce of a few seasons back. With that he was fairly familiar.

The young man was Raymond Cannon, the director who made the picture, bent on determining from the demeanor of the cash customers whether or not he really "had something."

As I feebly attempted to intimate in Monday's review, it is my unimportant opinion that he has. After an interesting and profitable conversation of some hour-and-a-half or two hours with Mr. Cannon, I am beginning to suspect why.

HERE is a young innovator who, in making his first dialogue and singing picture—"Why Leave Home?" is it—violated all the rules. The only thing he heard from the "sound experts" and accoustical engineers as his work progressed was, "You can't do that." So he went ahead and did it. Occasionally he was compelled to do it their way, in addition to his own, just to save their faces in case his ideas turned out to be not so good—which they never did.

It is my conviction that Mr. Cannon is wholly correct in his contention that a screen production, whether is be audible or mute, should first of all be a motion picture. He operated on this thoroughly sane theory in making the laughing hit now on view. His primary purpose was to score his "story points" and preserve that prime essential of all camera drama, naturalness of both player and action.

The microphones he placed where he thought they ought to be to do the most good and then forgot them, letting sound reproduction take care of itself. That is the first thing they told him he couldn't do. And because he did it, "Why Leave Home?" is the first picture I have ever seen in which volume of sound diminishes as its source recedes, in natural proportion to the degrees of movement, and increases in direct ratio with the nearness of a close-up. Mr. Cannon calls it sound perspective. A better name for it is common sense.

There are several unusual shots in the picture in which Mr. Cannon takes a deal of pride, not on account of the angles for their own sakes, but because to secure them he was impelled to devise new mechanical methods that stand as valuable contributions to the art of picture making.

One is a noiseless, traveling camera crane, which he invented and had made at trivial expense, so silent in operation that it makes no impression upon even the nearest and most sensitive microphone and requires only one man for successful operation.

YOU haven't heard much about Raymond Cannon, despite the fact that he has lived in and around Hollywood for some fifteen years or so. You will hear more, I dare say, from now on. With nothing beyond his present accomplishment, his career still is interesting.

Born in Long Hollow, Tenn., just over the line from Virginia, Ray Cannon grew to boyhood as a typical Cumberland Mountain hill-billy. His father was a Baptist circuit rider, so Ray's first occupation was that of Baptist preacher and exhorter. He confesses that he was an evangelist of the emotonal type and put on "quite a show" when he once got warmed to his theme.

Craving a more comprehensive education than the hill country promised to afford, the junior Cannon crashed the outside world and was in turn newspaper reporter, actor and finally, drifting to the West Coast, screen writer for various producing organizations. Picture direction was the inevitable eventuation.

On the side, he is a gentleman farmer. His avocation, the natural outgrowth of the instinct implanted in his nature by the early farm life in the mountain country, is agricultural experimentation, which he pursues on the large acreage property he owns in one of the fertile California valleys. The first thing he wanted to do, after having assured himself that his picture was no dud, was to take a drive outside the city "where there are trees."

But with all this, strang things have happened to that early Baptist faith. Among his other hobbies has been the reasonably close study of the religious and philosophies of the world, from which he has, in his own words, evolved a stanch and profound paganism.

Mr. Cannon is a Buddhist.

Child Thrown From Auto Seat.

Jack Taylor, 4 years old, of Dunn Loring, Va., received a lacerated forehead yesterday morning, when he was thrown off the seat of an automobile driven by his mother, Mrs. Florence Taylor, 31 years old, at Seventh and F streets northwest, when she was forced to halt her car suddenly. The child was treated at Emergency Hospital.

Legion May Oust Drys Who Misused Its Cards

Milwaukee, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Dry agents who used American Legion credentials in attempting to buy liquor during the recent State convention at Kenosha may be recommended for expulsion from the organization, Attorney Cornelius Hanley, of Post 172, West Milwaukee, anounced today.

Charges that Edward L. Evans, an under cover agent, presented his legion card to Carl Wallig as evidence that he was O. K. were made before United States Commissioner H. A. Kellogg today when Wallig was arraigned on liquor charges growing out of a raid Saturday. Hanley said that if it is established that Evans and other dry agents wrongfully used their cards he would ask they be expelled.

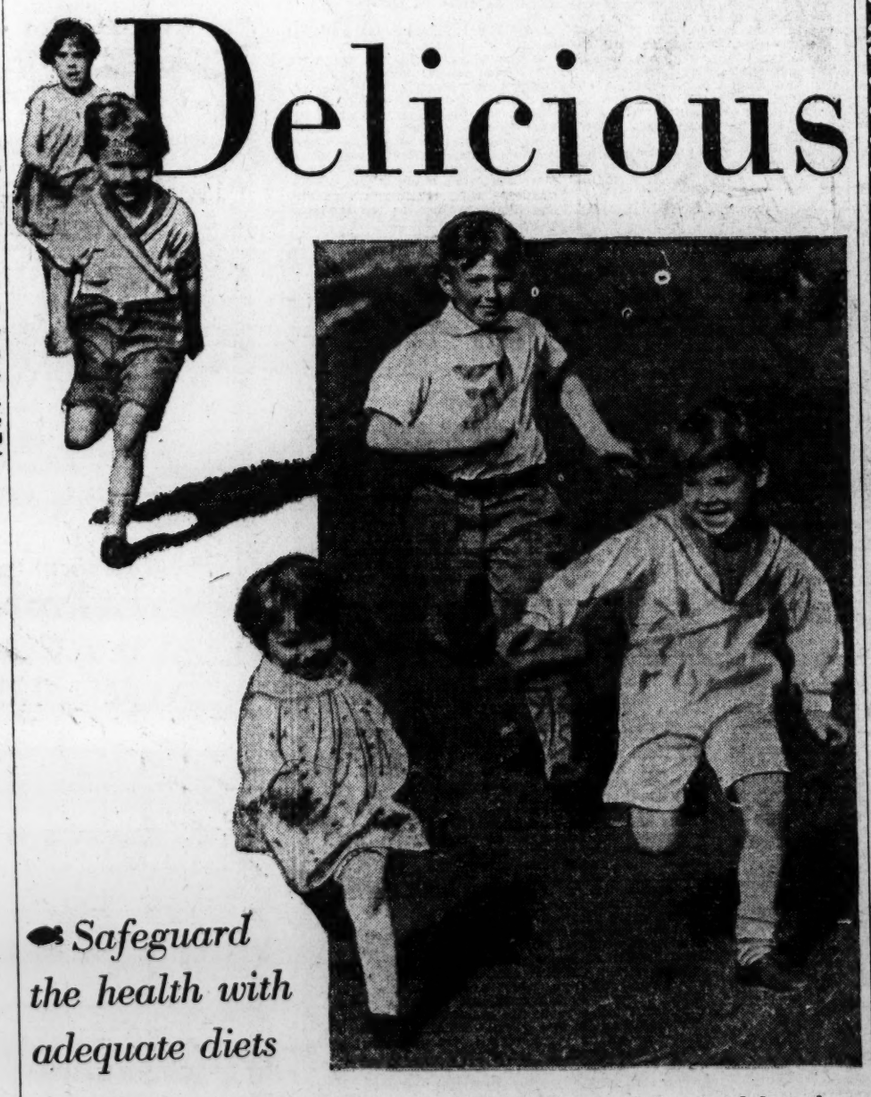
LET SUGAR MAKE YOUR FOODS



Delicious

Safeguard the health with adequate diets

AN EXAMINATION by health authorities of a million New York school children—not limited to the poorer families—disclosed that a little more than 17% were up to normal. More than 60% were on the border line of malnutrition, and 20% were in immediate need of a doctor's care. What a warning of tuberculosis and other diseases there is in this survey, if the children of the rest of the United States are comparable to those of New York City—and they doubtless are.

Let mothers guard the health of the children of the land by regular meals of milk, fruits, vegetables and other nourishing foods. Encourage young people to eat by making the diet appetizing and attractive. Sprinkle a little sugar on the cereal. Make milk-shakes and milk desserts to encourage the taking of enough milk. Serve stewed fruits daily, mellowed and flavored with a little sugar.

If the children in your family do not relish cooked vegetables, this old secret, recently rediscovered, may help you. Four well-known women cooking experts came upon it during a series of experiments. Add a dash of sugar to each vegetable while it is cooking (preferably in little water). This does not make the vegetables taste sweet. It awakens the delicate vegetable flavors that are so delicious. It makes the vegetables fresher and more colorful.

For resistance to disease, for protection against feeble adulthood, feed growing children and young people regular, varied, enjoyable diets.

Chocolate and cocoanut cookies and candy are recommended for dessert. The Sugar Institute.

Kellogg to Broadcast Peace Talk

Peace Pact Anniversary Is Set for Minneapolis Tonight; Soucek on Flying, Over WRC; Special WOL Day.

Frank B. Kellogg, former Ambassador at the Court of St. James and Secretary of State under the Coolidge administration, is to celebrate the first anniversary of the signing of the Kellogg-Briand peace pact in Paris in a special broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System, originating at Station WCCO, Minneapolis, from 10 to 10:30 o'clock tonight. The program on which he will speak is sponsored by a group of Minnesota and Twin City organizations, including the Federation of Women's Clubs and the League of Women Voters.

Since retiring from the Cabinet, Mr. Kellogg has resumed his law practice in St. Paul. He was born in Potsdam, N. Y., in 1856, and went to Minnesota with his parents in 1865, having lived there ever since.

As Secretary of State, Mr. Kellogg was largely responsible for the pact for the renunciation of war, which was signed in the foreign office at Paris on August 27, 1928, when representatives of the various nations adhering to the pact were finally brought together for a meeting.

Mr. Kellogg will be introduced to the radio audience by H. A. Bellows, manager of WCCO, who directed the broadcasting of the inaugural from Washington over the Columbia Broadcasting System. National airs of the fifteen nations to sign the treaty will be played by the 30-piece staff orchestra under the direction of Clarence Olsen. Station WMAL will furnish the local outlet for this program.

A tuneful combination of the old and new in popular songs, together with a few new choruses, will be heard during the Old Gold-Paul Whiteman Hour broadcast at 8 o'clock via WMAL. "Moonlight Bay," "Sweet Georgia Brown" and "By the Light of the Silvery Moon" are in contrast to modern songs, indexed by "I've Got a Feeling I'm Falling," "Maybe, Who Knows," and "You Wouldn't Fool Me" and "Wedding of the Painted Doll."

A program of Russian music will be presented by the FADA Orchestra during their broadcast at 9 o'clock. A modern conceptoni of Russian melodies opens the program, which includes a Prelude of Rachmaninoff, Tschaikowsky's "March Slav" and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee."

An organ recital will conclude WMAL's broadcast.

How it feels to rise to the highest altitude ever attained in a seaplane will be told to the radio audience by Lieut. Apollo Soucek, holder of the world's seaplane altitude record of 38,560 feet, when he talks from the studios of Station WRC on the subject, "How High Can Man Fly?" in the ninth of the "Roads of the Sky" series at 6 o'clock.

A medley of popular tunes will feature the broadcast of the Eveready Hour at 8 o'clock. Light orchestral selections will be interspersed with the singing of popular numbers by the Alumni Boys, a male quartet, and the Fronne sisters' quartet.

The R-K-O hour will be broadcast from WRC at 9:30 o'clock, followed by Slumber Music and a dance orchestra.

This is a special day at WOL, although the programs will go on pretty much as usual, by reason of the fact that it marks the first anniversary of the connection with that station of Peggy Clarke, studio manager. She is known to thousands of women in the Washington broadcast area for her personally conducted household hour and her program of helpful hints to parents. She is unique among women broadcasters in that her daily household programs are not advertisements for some kind of household utility or provisions.

In addition to conducting her daily program and her twice a week talk to parents, Miss Clarke is studio manager of WOL, conducts auditions, arranges programs and generally superintends studio activities. She is a native of Washington, a graduate of the Immaculate Conception Academy, a member of the Advertising Club and the Soroptimists and is well-known socially.

Estelle Hunt Dean, soprano, with Mary Gearhardt Hagan, pianiste and accompanist, will be heard in joint recital from WOL beginning at 7:10 o'clock.

WJSV will present a new harmony feature, Jack and Jill. This is the first appearance of this team and their real names are not to be revealed. Everett Stevens, 13-year-old pianist, will present a program of classical and semiclassical numbers.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

AUGUST 27.

SOPHIA SMITH, founder of Smith College, first women's college in New England, was born this day, 1796.

The college was established at Northampton, Mass., in 1876—five years after the founder's death—with funds bequeathed by her and on a plan prescribed by her. She provided that the college should offer courses equal in standard to those offered in man's colleges. Smith College now has about 2,500 students. During the World War the college sent a large body of students to France for canteen work. Smith was the first college to recognize music and art as qualifications for a degree.

Miss Smith herself was practically self-taught.

"Parking With Peggy"

"A slight cause can start a big argument—if she's red-headed."

WRC Will Tell of Graf At Lakehurst

McNamee and Lynch to Describe the Arrival at Hangar Tomorrow; Final Details of Event Now Being Arranged.

Following the elaborate description of the arrival and landing of the Graf Zeppelin at Los Angeles and the transmission of speeches by the officers and passengers, another broadcast built around the arrival of the dirigible at the Lakehurst hangar is being planned.

While full details have not yet been worked out, the National Broadcasting Co. expects to eclipse the two previous arrivals at Lakehurst. It is expected that the Graf Zeppelin will reach the Atlantic Coast about dusk tomorrow. Whatever the time of arrival, however, the broadcasting equipment of the National Broadcasting Co. will be set up in the hangar and all programs set aside so that a Nation-wide audience may have a part in the triumphant finish of the flight.

Graham McNamee and William Lynch, "the flying announcer" will probably be assigned to give the graphic description from the hangar.

In the meantime, the radio audience will probably be kept in touch with the movements of the Graf through the usual bulletins interspersing the regular programs.

"In these days when we hear so much about the diction of radio announcers, most people are apt to forget that clarity is equally important in a singer," said Gustave Haenschen, director of the Palmolive Orchestra. "For that reason, I believe that every aspirant for microphone honors should carefully study elocution as well as voice culture.

"To a certain extent," Haenschen continued, "it is true that a singer's voice may be thoroughly enjoyable and possess rare tonal beauty even though his or her audience is unable to understand the lyrics. In the case of many grand opera stars and all too many headliners of current musical revues, such is the case. But with the radio performer it is different.

"The public wants to understand the words as well as hear the music. To my mind the distinctness of his enunciation in the songs he selects is one of the reasons for Paul Oliver's Nation-wide popularity with the audiences. Every word he utters before the microphone goes out over the air, clear as a bell, and is reproduced by fine receiving sets exactly as he sings his verses in the broadcast studio."

As a result, it is said that Paul Oliver's weekly fan mail contains many hundreds of requests to sing songs which have appealed to radio fans because of the sentiment he has expressed in the words.

The Cleveland Police Department has filed with the Radio Commission an application for permission to create a radio crime detection and criminal apprehension service employing short waves. Similar petitions have been filed with the Radio Commission by other cities, including Chicago, which outlined elaborate plans for a radio system to increase the speed and efficiency of police work.

Channels that would enable the Cleveland police headquarters to communicate with cruising automobiles and dispatch them to the scenes of crime are sought in the application. An assignment of 1,712-kilocycle channel with from 50 to 1,000 watts power, so that a radius of 20 miles could be covered, is requested.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SOME CANCERS CURABLE.

IT is generally accepted that skin cancer is curable. If an afflicted person is at all alert minded and even moderately intelligently he can be cured of skin cancer. Most of the deaths that now occur are among people who refuse to face facts for one reason or another. It is not so generally known that cure of lip cancer is the rule in properly run institutions. By cure we mean not only that the disease has been made to disappear, but that at the end of five years it has not returned or, if it has, the returning growth has been speedily cured.

New York State has an old and well established cancer institute at Buffalo. Dr. B. F. Schreiner has recently reported the results of treatment of 173 cases of lip cancer treated between 1914 and 1924. The cases treated in 1924 have been under observation five years since they were cured. Those treated prior to that time have been longer under observation. Most of these cases were treated either with X-rays or radium or both. The method of use has varied as a result of experience.

In 92 out of each 100 cases the cancer was temporarily cured. It disappeared from the lip. However, that figure was too good to be true. Many of the cases were rather advanced and some had been badly neglected. Some day men may be alert minded and so intelligent that 90 per cent of the lip cancers may be cured and stay so, but that day has not yet arrived.

In this experience over 20 per cent of the growths returned. In 63 per cent of the cases, or more than two-thirds of the entire number, the treated patients were well for five to twelve years after the cure. A considerable number who had cancers return were cured by treatment the second time. Some have died from intercurrent diseases in no way related to cancer. These experiences prove the curability of lip cancer. It remains only for the patients and their doctors to apply the known facts.

Only four of these cases were females. None were Jews. Farmers and laborers predominated. Thirty-one remembered some hurt to the lip which they charged with being responsible. Six were burned with cigars, cigarettes or hot glue. Fifteen cases were said to be due to blows on the lip, three to cuts with razor, and seven to cuts by teeth. Of the 173, 128 smoked a pipe or cigars or both, 13 smoked cigarettes, and a few chewed tobacco. In 133 the teeth were jagged and could easily cut the lips. In nearly every case the mouth was poorly kept.

The next field for the development of cancer control is the interior of the mouth and especially the gums and tongue.

FORGET THE HEAD NOISES.

H. W. writes: I am suffering with a roaring sensation in my right ear. It is worse at night after retiring. I never feel it in my left ear. The sound is as if some one were blowing in a jug. What do you think could be the cause of this and what would you suggest doing to be relieved?

REPLY.

The usual cause of head noises is some disease of the middle ear. As a rule, trying to cure this affliction is a waste of time and money. The better plan is to train oneself to disregard it, just as we habitually train ourselves to disregard other noises.

ANTISUNBURN CREAMS.

E. writes: The summer before last I had a terrible sunburn, and this time it blistered. It left dark blotches on my neck and shoulders. They aren't exactly like freckles and yet they resemble them, only are bigger. I still have them but I have succeeded in bleaching them a little.

Isn't there something I could put on before going out in the sun that would prevent this and possibly help in getting rid of them?

REPLY.

Apply any sort of a grease or non-vanishing cream. There is one cream on the market that is said to protect against that part of the sun ray which burns. The manufacturers, at least, have faith in it.

WORK ON BRIDGE

Bridge Brevities, a pamphlet, by Milton C. Work, the world's preeminent authority on Auction and Contract Bridge, free.

This valuable pamphlet, containing concise suggestions for players of both games, will be sent with the compliments of this paper to readers of Mr. Work's articles who request it.

Requests must be addressed to Milton C. Work, care of this paper, and must include a stamped (2c stamp) self-addressed return envelope.

Read Mr. Work's articles on Auction and Contract. Every day exclusively in The Washington Post.

COULD YOU DO BETTER?

PLAYING the above hand with the contract one No Trump, as it would be at Auction Bridge, or three No Trump as it would be at Contract Bridge (South would bid two and North jump to three), the opening lead would be the Five of Clubs. When the hand was played in a game of Auction, the Declarer saw the possibility of taking three Spade tricks (which he could do if East had the Queen), four heart tricks (which he could take if he could catch the Queen by finesse), five Diamond tricks (also dependent upon catching the Queen), and one Club trick. If he succeeded in doing all that he would make a grand slam.

So as to secure his grand slam bonus if possible, South won the first trick with the Ace of Clubs and led his King of Diamonds. He next led a small Diamond, finessing the Jack. East won and led another Club so the adversaries made four Clubs and one Diamond and saved game.

Could you have done better?

The Answer.

Declarer played badly in risking his game to try for a grand slam. Game is the essential; not even grand slam in Auction, nor any unbid slam in Contract, should be considered when game has to be risked to try for it.

South should have held up his Ace of Clubs until the third round and then, as he could finesse either way in both Hearts and Diamonds, should have finessed both suits up to East, so that if a finesse lost the lead would be in the hand that did not have another Club, unless the original division was the comparatively harmless 4-4. Played in that way, the Declarer would have every assurance of game, even if he lost his finesses in both red suits. He should not take the unnecessary chance of a Spade finesse when East won and led a Spade.

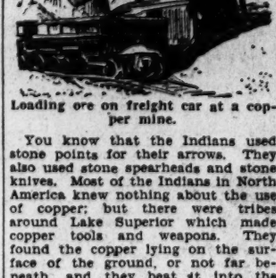
Copper and Its Uses.

SO far as anyone has been able to find out, the first metal man ever used for making tools, was copper. Before the discovery of the use of copper, men made their tools from wood, stone and bone.



Loading ore on freight car at a copper mine.

You know that the Indians used stone points for their arrows. They also used stone spearheads and stone knives. Most of the Indians in North America knew nothing about the use of copper; but there were tribes around Lake Superior which made copper tools and weapons. They found the copper lying on the surface of the ground, or not far beneath, and they beat it into the shapes desired. In Mexico, copper tools were widely employed by the Indians.

The caves of Stone Age men in Europe seem to tell the story that the first metal used—near the end of the Stone Age—was copper. Even after the use of copper was learned, the people did not change their ways "all of a sudden." They still made most of their tools and weapons from stone or bone; but the idea of using copper gained ground.

In ancient Egypt people found a way to melt copper and tin together to make bronze. Bronze tools proved to be much stronger than those formed of pure copper.

Copper is found in many parts of the world, but North America supplies about twice as much as all the other continents put together.

"Pennies" are made almost entirely from copper, but there is an even more important use for the metal. Do you know what it is? How about the electric wires? Copper carries electric currents better than any other metal which is cheap. Copper wires are used for telephone and telegraph lines, as well as to carry electric currents to light our homes, schools and offices.

Brass is a mixture of copper and zinc. It looks like gold when newly made.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

AUGUST 27.
"VIRGO."

If August 27th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 5 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:45 a. m. to 8 a. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m.

Chances may be taken on this date with more than the average degree of safety, both in speculative and more personal risks. Take precautions, however, against sickness, and do not become overfatigued Nurse small ailments!

The child born on this August 27 will be lively, happy and cheerful. It will give much and receive much from life. Its cleverness, rather than an abundance of energy, will carry it forward. It will be a quick, but not a deep student.

You are lacking in many of the major qualifications which we find most successful men and women possess. A frank self-analysis will show you this to be true, and with effort you can overcome your weaker points and stress your stronger ones.

In the first place, you do not know your own mind, and decisions are always difficult for you to make. You lose much valuable time trying to decide small as well as big things. You are never willing to abide by your decisions, but must worry as to whether or not you are right or wrong. Your mind is always wandering down an alternative pathway. Keep your thoughts in focus!

You are easily flustered, owing to your lack of self-confidence. When the waters run smoothly, you are an able and efficient navigator. When they are suddenly ruffled by unexpected obstacles, your mind becomes a blank, and you are not master of the situation.

You lack initiative, and are inclined to shift responsibilities to other shoulders. You dislike being left "on your own." Stop leaning! You have the ability and the willpower to stand on your own feet. You can soon become self-reliant and self-sufficient. Your own ideas are good, why not use them? Be fair to yourself—give yourself a chance!

LATE SELLING WAVE CHECKS BULL DRIVE

Many Stocks' Recent Gains Are Cut Down in Broad Price Reaction.

CALL FUNDS 7 PER CENT

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The rampant bull campaign on the stock market was resumed today, only to run into an increasingly heavy storm of profit taking, to which was added a deluge of bear selling in the last half hour of trading, when about half of the day's previous advance was lost, and many issues were depressed below the last week's closing quotations.

The downturn did not come until after another impressive assortment of premier issues had been sent up to record levels, many gains running from 5 to 9 points, and a few comparatively inactive issues recording gains running to a maximum of 40 points in Hocking Valley. Operations for the advance centered in the rails and communications shares. The Standard Statistics Co.—Associated Press index of 20 rails, based on final quotations, rose about 2 points to a new high record, while the indices of 80 industrials and 20 utilities sagged moderately.

The day's news was largely constructive and contained practically nothing to account for the market's change of front. Several more excellent July railroad earnings statements appeared, stimulating the move in that group. Other earnings and trade reports were generally satisfactory.

Hague Reports Unsettling.

About the only unsettling reports came from the Hague, where a collapse of the negotiations on the Young plan seemed imminent, but Wall street bankers believe such an eventuality would only delay acceptances of the plan, and have no serious repercussions in international trade or finance.

The selling appeared to be largely based on the theory that the advances of last week had been so rapid that a corrective reaction could not be long delayed. Also, the prospect of tight money over the month caused some traders to hasten to take their profits.

Call money was in ample supply at 7 per cent, and time money was unchanged at 8¾ to 9 per cent, but indications of rapidly increasing seasonal credit requirements of business were seen in a firmer undertone in commercial paper, little moving at less than 6¼ per cent, and a slight increase in bankers' acceptance rates for the longer maturities.

Such prominent issues as United States Steel, American Can, Bethlehem Steel, Columbian Carbon, Hershey Chocolate, Johns Manville, Gillette and National Biscuit closed with net loss of 3 to 5 points, while Westinghouse Electric lost 6 and General Electric 7 points. Case Threshing dropped 11 points, and a few stocks reached new low prices for the year, notably Chicago and Eastern Illinois, down 6 points to 25, and Fashion Park, down 5 to 60.

Rails at Record Levels.

Among rails selling at record levels for the year or longer were New Haven, Pennsylvania, Norfolk & Western, Chicago & Northwestern and Soo Line. Atchison, New York Central, and Union Pacific mounted about 5 or 6 points to within a point or so of their best prices, but lost some of their gains in the final dealings.

American Telephone, International Telephone and Western Union rose to new high levels, but also lost some of their advances. A markedly strong spot in the utilities was Stone & Webster, which soared about 9 points to a record price at 177, reflecting appreciation of its treasury holdings and persistent rumors of important developments. Pacific Lighting and Brooklyn Union Gas reached new high ground in wide gains, reflecting merger prospects.

Allied Chemical advanced 12 points to a new peak at 348, but closed at 341½. United States Freight reached new high ground with a similar gain. Other strong spots included Eastman Kodak, National Dairy Products, F. G. Shattuck and Woolworth, all of which reached record levels. Merchandising shares were generally strong in anticipation of fall trade. Sears Roebuck making an extreme gain of about 9 points.

Coppers Heavily Bought.

Coppers were heavily bought on prospects of higher metal prices. Some of the independent steels were strong for a time, Midland preferred jumping 18 points to a new peak at 308. Republic, Crucible, and Inland also reached new peaks, but the last two named more than lost their gains. Oils were heavily traded, but held barely steady. Motors were inclined to sag.

In the commodity markets grains were sharply depressed for a time, but rallied toward the close. Wheat and corn each closed about a cent a bushel lower, influenced, respectively, by an increase in the visible supply and bearish weather. Cotton was irregular, reflecting uneasiness as to the probable showing of the month-end crop reports.

Foreign exchanges were irregular, with sterling again under pressure, the demand rate dropping to $4.84 3-16, the lowest of the year. Sterling cables, however, were fairly steady at $4.84 25-32, giving rise to rumors that it was being pegged to prevent further drain on London's gold supply.

NATS RETURN FOR 2-GAME SERIES WITH RED SOX

Bell-White Win in Net Upset

Beat oCoper-Dericou, 3d Seeded Foreign Team, in 3 Sets.

Van Ryn-Allison and Other Favorites Survive 1st Round.

By WILLIAM R. KING
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 20 (A.P.).—Seeded American and foreign doubles teams striving for titular honors in the forty-eighth national doubles championship tennis tournament today overcame strong opposition in the opening day here on the Longwood courts, with but one exception.

The only dent in the preferred list came when Guy Cooper and Paul Diricou, the Anglo-American combination on the Oxford tennis team, bowed to Berkeley Bell and Lewis N. White, fellow Texans, in straight sets, 7—5, 9—7, 6—1.

There were 32 teams in the starting list but two of them defaulted, a procedure which reduced the first day's play to fourteen matches. Five of these were carried into extra sets, one going on and on for 54 games.

Van Ryn and Allison Score Over College Champs.

Johnny Van Ryn, of Orange, N. J., and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., winners of the Wimbledon and later the Davis Cup doubles in the play with France, drew E. W. Felbleman, of New York, and J. Brooks Fenno, jr., of Boston, the 1921 intercollegiate champions, in their first round match. They held them well subdued and won by scores of 6—3, 6—0, 4—6, 6—1.

Other results were:

David Jones, Syracuse, N. Y., and Richard Murphy, Utica, N. Y., defeated Milton Goggins and H. Tovrea, Southwestern champions, 6—2, 6—4, 9—7; George O'Connell and Fred Royer, Chicago, won by default from Holland McTyre and Donald Cramm, Nashville, Tenn.; H. W. Austin and J. S. Olliff, England, won by default from Maurice Bayon and Gustav Feuer, University of Florida; C. M. Lott, jr., Chicago, and J. H. Does, Santa Monica, Calif., defeated Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., and Philip Neer, Portland, Ore., 6—2, 6—1, 6—4; Bradshaw Harrison, San Bruno, Calif., and Kenneth Appel, Orange, N. J., defeated J. O. Ryall and George Shields, Tacoma, Wash., 6—3, 6—4, 6—3; F. X. Shields, New York, and Donald Strachan, Philadelphia, defeated Edward and William Jacobs, Baltimore, 4—6, 6—4, 7—5, 7—5; E. R. Avery and E. M. Buzard, England, defeated D. K. Murray, jr., and Clifford Sutter, Atlanta, Ga., 4—6, 4—6, 6—3, 6—2, 6—2; W. T. Tilden 2d, Philadelphia, and F. T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., defeated K. S. Sheridan and M. E. Partridge, New York, 6—0, 6—0, 6—3; A. W. Jones and W. W. Ingraham, Providence, R. I., defeated Robert Shay and Dr. W. F. Wilden, St. Paul, Minn., 6—4, 6—1, 6—2.

Fred and Don Dixon, Provo, Utah, defeated Fred Baggs and Dr. William Rosenbaum, New York, 6—4, 6—2, 6—2; Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., and Norman G. Farquharson, South Africa, defeated G. H. Perkins, Cambridge, and H. M. Culley, Santa Barbara, Calif., 6—1, 6—3, 8—10, 6—3; W. F. Coen, jr., Kansas City, and Harris Corkesnall, Des Moines, Iowa, defeated G. E. Abbott and W. Weld, Boston, 6—2, 4—6, 1—6, 6—1, 12—10.

Phils Stage Two Rallies To Defeat Cards, 7-6

Philadelphia, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The Phillies cast cold water on the final Eastern appearance of the St. Louis Cardinals today by rallying in the last two innings to score a 7-to-6 victory.

Trailing by 6 to 2 in the eighth, Davis came up as a pinch hitter and put the Phils back in the running by slamming a home run with two on bases. Three singles in the ninth followed by a wild heave by Orsatti brought two more tallies for a Philadelphia triumph.

Claude Willoughby was hit freely in the early stages of the game and gave way in the ninth to Dailey.

Yanks Must Win 32 of 36 If Macks Play at .500 Clip

Mathecatical Chances Show A's and Cubs Near Pennants.

JUST how safely entrenched the Athletics and Cubs are in the American and National pennant races, respectively, may be gleaned from a few figures compiled on the assumption that each of the leaders will win one-half of their remaining games.

If the Athletics manage to battle through the remainder of the season on even terms, the second-place Yanks would have to win 32 of the 36 games scheduled in order to nose the A's out by a single game. Neither the Browns nor Indians could possibly pass the Athletics. The Browns could win all of their remaining 32 games and still fall three games short of tying the Mackmen. Should the Indians take all of their 33 games ahead they would finish four games short of a tie with the present pacemakers if the latter travel at a .500 clip.

The situation is much the same in the older circuit. By winning half of its remaining 36 games, the Cub team would have a record of 99 wins and 55 losses. In order to beat this record by a single game, the Pirates would have to bag 33 of their remaining 37 contests, and the Giants could just tie by winning their remaining 33 games. The Cards could win 34 straight games and still fall five games short of tying the McCarthy clan.

Mathematically neither the A's or Cubs are "in" although they are virtually assured of meeting in the world series. If their nearest rivals were to sweep through all of the remaining games without a loss or tie, the Mackmen could still survive such an unheard of finish by taking 22 of their remaining 32 contests, and under the same phenomenal circumstances in the National League, the Cubs would still cop the title by bagging 25 of their 36 games on tap.

The figures above show the number of games each of the first division clubs of each league have to play, how they would stand if the two leaders won half of their scheduled games and their rivals won as indicated in the "if win" column.

Wrigley Sees Series Win For Cubs

Owner Confident His Club Can Beat A's If Both Win Flags.

Gives McCarthy the Credit for Building Up Team.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—"If we get through the pennant race and into the world series, we'll win it—I have no doubt about that."

The speaker was William F. Wrigley, jr., owner of the pennant-pointed Chicago Cubs, and he uttered those interesting words as he puffed contentedly on his cigar while seated in Manager Joe McCarthy's hotel rooms.

"Understand now, I'm not claiming the pennant yet," the Bruins' financial boss continued. "We've been close before and lost, but I do say that I think we have the best ball club in the world in ability, spirit and character.

"Our players are all gentlemen, and there is no jealousy. More injuries—and we have had more than our share already—is our biggest hazard," he said, in pointing out the Cubs' biggest fear.

"It takes clever direction, spirit, harmony, and, yes, reasonable breaks to win. We haven't had many what you would call good breaks. The injury of Charley Grimm is the latest bad news. If Hornsby or some of the other men get hurt, it will be pretty bad.

Lost 3 Catchers in 5 Minutes, For Record.

"I watched a game this year in which we lost three catchers by injuries in five minutes. That's a record, but not the sort of record we want to set."

Mr. Wrigley pointed out why he can't lose the world series—granting that the A's and Cubs will clash, and even if his club should be beaten.

"Here are the Cubs, owned by a native Philadelphian and managed by a native Philadelphian, fighting ahead as the likely rivals of the Athletics in the world series—no matter which of them win the world's championship. I can't lose, it must be my adopted city or my native city—if these clubs win! The A's certainly look good.

McCarthy Explains Signing of 13-Year-Older.

Any questions about the management of the club were referred to McCarthy by Mr. Wrigley. "You'll have to ask Joe, I'm only a fan. I have nothing to do with the management or the business office."

Joe explained in answer to questions about Red Solomon, the 13-year-old third baseman recently signed by the Cubs for what constituted a record for youthfulness of the player, that Red is not a professional. He will be eligible to play in high school and college.

"He's about the best junior baseball player in the country," Joe declared. "You see, he is merely signed by proxy to an agreement to play with the Cubs when he reaches the age when he will be big-league material."

Mr. Wrigley was willing to discuss his club, of which he is plainly mighty proud, but he declined to single out individual players for mention. He has the highest praise for McCarthy.

Cub Team No Accident, but Well Built, Says Wrigley.

"You know this club is no accident It has been carefully built by a clear-thinking manager and it has been expensive building, but get this point—you can't just buy a winning ball club, even though ability to outbid opposition may help in an individual case."

Talk drifted to the Wrigley marathon swim, and its sponsor explained that his plan in starting it was to parallel the Davis Cup idea of international competition, but on a professional basis.

Mr. Wrigley used to be a swim devotee in Chicago; and while he insists he was never a star, he has seven large medals to show for races he won.

"I am going up to see the men's swim next Wednesday. Although it is hard to pick out one race, I would say the first event at Catalina Island was the best. Only one man finished, and it was lucky that we had a big boat equipped like a hospital, with doctors, rubbers and trainers."

Lowly Teams Experiencing Success

Nats and Boston Lead East in Last Invasion of West.

Johnson Elated by Work of Cronin and Myer in Infield.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WASHINGTON'S baseball stock has been on the upward trend since the Nationals left home early this month, and a large gathering is looked for at the Griffith Stadium this afternoon when the home team entertains the Boston Red Sox in the first of a two-game series. While a Washington-Boston game has not meant much earlier this season, the abbreviated set to be played here promises plenty of fireworks, for these two teams, despite their lowly positions in the pennant race, were the pace setters in the East's recent invasion of the West.

The Red Sox won 12 of 18 games and did not lose a series, while the Nats' record since they left the Capital City on August 6 is 14 triumphs in 20 starts. They broke even in 2 of the 6 series played and took the odd game in the other 4 sets, outscoring and outhitting their combined opponents by goodly margins. In only one department were they outplayed, being charged with 33 errors, as against 21 by opposing teams.

Far down in the race when they left home, Johnson has his men within striking distance of the Tigers—only 2 games behind Harris' fifth place team—while the players, elated at the progress they made in three short weeks, now have hopes of breaking into the elite first flight by also overhauling the Cleveland Indians, who enjoy an 8½-game margin over them.

Figures Indicate Nats' Superiority.

Burke and MacFayden Likely Opponents.

Manager Bill Carrigan always likes to make a secret of his probable pitcher but is likely to use Danny MacFayden in this afternoon's game, while Johnson last night stated that he plans to call on Bobby Burke. The latter has been troubled with a sore arm and if he is not ready, "Sad Sam" Jones will get the call.

Although Shortstop Joe Cronin made many too many errors on the road trip just ended, Manager Johnson is most enthusiastic over the manner in which the young infielder's hitting has improved. "I know Joe is a good fielder," Johnson stated, "and so am not worried by his occasional fielding slumps. He will have few of them and it also must be remembered that he tries for everything and equalizes his miscues by brilliant plays. He suddenly has developed a batting punch and, if he can continue to bang the ball as he has of late, he'll be one of the most

GOLF MEDAL TO MRS. HILL IN WEST

Kansas City Woman's 76 Card Tops Field in Tourney.

By PAUL R. MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. O. S. Hill, the golfing mother from Kansas City, Mo., whizzed around the historic, rugged Mayfield Country Club links today with record shattering golf to snatch medalist honors in the women's Western championship from her arch rival, Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago by a single stroke margin.

Miss Hill, reigning champion of trans-Mississippi women golfers for the past two years, breezed over the 6,461-yard stretch in 77 strokes, going out in 41, one over par, and returning with an assortment of five birdies and four pars for 36. It was the first time during her seven years of championship winning that she has won a tournament medal, and the score was recognized as a new Mayfield record as Miss Van Wie's 76 last year was shot from front tees.

Perfect Iron Shots Feature Round.

Perfect iron play on the second nine holes netted Mrs. Hill her brilliant round, which equaled men's par on the water spliced, undulating course. Even on the 340-yard second, where she went over par for the only time, she saved herself from a damaging seven by laying a perfect niblick shot 75 yards to within two feet of the pin and getting a five. Four of her five birdies were due to uncanny approaching as she had but one green of the one-putt variety.

Scores were high in today's qualifying round, however. In addition to Mrs. Hill and Miss Van Wie, who had a 78, only one other entrant, Mrs. Larry Nelson, of Dayton, Ohio, shattered women's par. Mrs. Nelson went out with a bad 43 but came back strong with a 37 for an 80 and third place.

Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, Canadian women's champion and runner-up in the women's Western last year, stroked along in even par 82 as did Mrs. Harley Higrie, Detroit champion. Mrs. Harry Pressler, of Los Angeles, who is trying for her third straight championship, tied with Kathleen Wright, Los Angeles star, for next place with an 83.

32 Start Match Play Today.

Other scores ranged upward to far above 100, and as a result 93 was good enough to land among the low 32, who will battle for Mrs. Pressler's title over the 18-hole match play route starting tomorrow. Three tied for thirty-second place with 94s, and were forced to play off for the extra position.

SHOREYS TIE BALTIMORE GOLF DUO

Share M. A. Amateur Pro Lead With Allen, Zeck.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE amateur-professional best-ball golf tournament on the course of the Manor Club yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association, resulted in a tie between Mel Shorey, East Potomac Park professional, and his brother, John C. Shorey, amateur, Bannockburn, and Kenneth Allen and Henry Zeck, both unattached, of Baltimore. These contestants had best-ball cards of 32—36—68 and 36—32—68, respectively. Miller B. Stevinson, amateur, and Fred McLeod, professional, of the Columbia Country Club, were in third place with a best-ball of 34—36—70.

Mel Shorey's outward journey was signalized by an eagle and three birdies. On the first hole, 470 yards, he was within 4 feet of the cup with a drive and an iron and holed out his eagle 3. Birdies on the fourth and seventh holes were secured by running down 2-foot putts on each green, while on the eighth he ran down a 20-footer for a birdie 2. On the fourteenth hole his brother missed a 2-foot putt for a par 4, but compening nine Allen had birdies on the fifteenth. All the other holes of the inward nine were played in par except the seventeenth, when both players were short of the green.

Allen and Zeck Play First Nine In Par Figures.

Allen and Zeck played the first nine in par, winning a stroke with Allen's birdie on the first hole, but both taking three putts from a distance of 15 feet from the cup on the seventh for a stroke over par. On the home-coming nine Allen had birdies on the tenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and six-

Thorpe Suing Pyle For $259 for Labor

Los Angeles, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—A second complaint, charging theft of labor, was ordered filed today by City Prosecutor Lloyd S. Nix against C. C. Pyle, sports promoter, in connection with allegedly unpaid labor bills pending from his transcontinental foot race of a few weeks ago.

The complaint was signed by Jim Thorpe, famous Indian athlete, who charged that $259 due him in connection with the Pyle "Bunion Derby" had not been paid. Saturday a complaint charging Pyle with violation of the State labor laws was issued by Nix following failure of the promoter to satisfy a $483 labor claim filed by Paul Hickman, leader of a troupe of actors.

A suit for $6,000 in prize money has been filed against Pyle in Federal Court by Guisto Umek, Italian runner, who finished third in the foot race.

Nick Cullop, Ex-Nat, Cracks Out 3 Homers

Special to The Washington Post.

Atlanta, Aug. 26.—Outfielder Nick Cullop, former Yankee, National and Indian, whose big bat is making plenty of noise in the Southern Association this season, cracked out three home runs this afternoon to help the Atlanta Crackers turn in a 12-to-1 victory over Little Rock. All of Cullop's blows were real clouts.

COBB KNOCKS GROSSO OUT QUICKLY

Bout Ends in Second Round as Handlers Make Protest.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 26.—Walter Cobb, late of Kansas City, who adopted Baltimore as the base of his fistic operations several weeks ago after hieing himself hither 'neath the flat of the flat cars, "sold" himself to the Monumental City fight fans tonight by knocking out Johnny Grosso, New York heavyweight after 1 minute and 40 seconds of fighting in the second round at Carlin's Park.

Cobb left 6,000 fans, a full house, dazed with the quickness of his victory while the men in Grosso's corner protested vigorously against the knockout. Floored cleanly by a right to the jaw followed by a left to the body, Grosso arose, it appeared, just as Referee Charlie Short tolled off the fateful tenth count and declared him out. To many in the crowd it seemed that Grosso had recovered in time to regain his feet before the last count and it was several minutes before the arena was cleared of spectators who mulled about protesting Short's action.

The two heavyweights, both winners by decisions over Marty Gallagher, of Washington, in bouts here this summer, set a rapid pace in the first round. Cobb, weighing 211 pounds, had a 25-pound advantage over the New Yorker and used his strength to force the fighting from the start.

Joe Proctor Again Gains Decision Over Meyers.

The program had a decidedly Washington flavor with three Capital City fighters participating in the preliminaries. Joe Proctor, light heavyweight, repeated an earlier victory by winning the decision over Speedy Meyers, of Baltimore, in the semi-final, the best fight on the card.

Proctor assumed an early lead and won the third and fourth rounds by decisive margins, dazing the Baltimorean with left jabs but he failed to follow up his advantage to the utmost. In the fifth round, Meyers turned the tables, landing two wild swings to Proctor's chin and sending the latter to the ropes. Proctor maintained his margin of lead in the last round.

Sammy Hogan, of Washington, lost a six-round decision to Angelo Neolla of Baltimore in the latter's professional debut. Joe Smallwood, District light heavyweight, boxed a draw with Nick Bassiano, of Baltimore, holding a lead until the last few seconds of the fight.

John L. Sullivan, Baltimore colored youth, won a decision over Billy Edwards, of Washington, also colored, in four rounds of slugging.

Cards Buy Carmen Hill, Veteran of Pirates

Pittsburgh, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Carmen Hill, veteran right-handed pitcher, was released to the St. Louis Cardinals by the waiver route today by the Pittsburgh Pirates. Hill, who is 34 years old, resides at Corry, Pa.

The bespectacled moundsman broke into the big show with the Pirates in 1915 and later was sent to the minors. In 1922 he went with the New York Giants, who also released him to the minors. Bill came back to the Pirates in the fall of 1926 from Indianapolis, of the American Association, and in 1927 he won 22 and lost 11 games, aiding the Buccaneers to win a pennant.

This year he had been used largely in relief roles.

"Pardon Me," Home Rooters Ask, Although Beaten by Giants, 16-3

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 26 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—The New York Giants took a day off from the National League today and played a ball game with the Mutual Welfare League at Sing Sing Prison.

The home team put on for the occasion the old uniforms that the Giants had sent them, so that the affair looked somewhat like batting practice at the Polo Grounds. The prison keepers, who make their living largely by counting people as they go through gates and by distinguishing prisoners from visitors, figured the score up at 16 to 3. The Giants won.

This victory was achieved against strategic hazards, for by the time the game began most of the Giants were suffering from writer's cramp. The flank attack of the home-town rooters began while the visitors were inspecting the kitchen of the new cell block. A little fellow named Frank Nolan, about 5 feet high, stepped forward with an awe-struck grin and a brand new baseball.

"Will you sign it for me," he asked. "I want to send it to my brother in Brooklyn."

It began to rain baseballs. Dozens of new balls belonging to the Welfare League had somehow circulated to those inmates with local political pull, who all had brothers, sisters, sweethearts and aunts in need of souvenirs from Sing Sing. Paired with a fountain pen each ball went the autographic round.

Cubs Turn on Rixey To Win Over Reds, 9-5

Chicago, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The cubs refused to be stopped by Eppa Rixey today and after trailing for seven innings, they loosed a vicious attack in the eighth that brought seven runs and a 9-to-5 victory. A crowd of 35,000 turned out for the first contest of the two-game home series to see the Cubs lift their margin over the idle Pirates to 13½ games.

Rixey allowed but six hits in the first seven frames, Hornsby's twenty-ninth home run of the year bringing the only runs. In the eighth a walk and two singles drove him from the mound. Rube Ehrhardt replaced him and was touched for five more hits. A freak home run by Normal McMillan which took a bounce into the stands after starting out as an ordinary single finished the Reds' downfall by bringing the last four counters.

*Eliminated.

Special to The Washington Post.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 26.—Emerging from its third contest in the International Typographical Union Baseball Tourney here today with a 7-to-6 triumph over the New York Team, the Washington Printer Nine found itself paired with the only other unbeaten team for the lone contest carded tomorrow. The Capital City entry will clash with the Pittsburgh Team at Fort Harrison, while the four other surviving teams take a rest.

After trailing in the opening rounds today the Washington Typos rallied for three runs in the fourth and were never headed thereafter. Triples by Holbrook, Schneider and Simons featured the winners' attack.

In other contests today Cleveland defeated Boston, 8 to 3; Pittsburgh romped over St. Paul, 16 to 9, and Cincinnati bested Chicago, 6 to 5. Detroit had a bye and idled.

Game Today to Feature Program At Fort Harrison.

The Boston, Chicago and St. Paul Teams suffered their second losses and were eliminated, joining St. Louis and Indianapolis, which were removed the day previous.

The Washington-Pittsburgh battle today will be the feature of a big program at Fort Harrison. American Association Umpires Rudolph, Engelking and Goetz have been secured to officiate the contest. The printer teams will be entertained at an Army

TWO WHITNEY JUVENILES TURN IN SPEEDY TRIALS

Boojum Runs 6 Furlongs In 1:11 4-5

Wichone, Stablemate, Timed in 1:11 2-5 in Hopeful Workout.

Impressive Trials to Cut Field in Stake on Saturday.

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Aug. 26 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Which One and Boojum, Harry Payne Whitney's 2-year-old candidates for the Hopeful Stakes on Saturday, showed amazing speed in private trials at the present meeting, just before the races here this afternoon. Boojum, with Pony McAtee in the saddle, stepped off 6 furlongs in 1:11 4-5, being clocked by furlongs in 0:11 3-5, 0:22 3-5, 0:34 2-5, 0:46 4-5, 0:58 4-5, 1:11 4-5.

A few moments later Which One stepped off at the three-quarter pole with Marshall Lilley, stable foreman and chief exercise boy of the Whitney establishment, in the saddle and he burned up the track for the 6 furlongs in 1:11 2-5, though some timers clocked him in 1:11 flat. Which One, which carried about 10 pounds more than Boojum, turned in the faster and more impressive trial, for after being clocked by furlongs in 0:11 2-5, 0:20 2-5, 0:34 1-5, 0:46 2-5, 0:58 1-5, 1:11 2-5, he worked out the extra furlong being eased up in 1:25.

Impressive Trials to Reduce Field.

As an interesting contrast, the time of the first race, won by Disapproved, was 1:14 3-5.

The amazing trial of the Whitney pair will, in all probability, scare a considerable number of horses out of the Hopeful Stakes. In the course of the afternoon a number of trainers who have eligibles announced frankly that they were not going to run against those two. It is the general opinion that instead of the eighteen to twenty starters the Hopeful has had in other years, not half that number will go to the post, for, barring accident, it looks as though those that do start will be running for third and fourth money.

Maiben Rides Lady Capulet To Victory Over Fillies.

Overnight races for the cheaper class horses made up most of the card today, but there was plenty of snap and contest to the racing. Those who remembered Lady Cupat's last effort, ten days ago, in which she finished fifth far back of Stream Line, were not surprised when she was made a 6-to-5 favorite for the event for 3-year-old fillies, at 7 furlongs. Today she had Maiben in the saddle and she won cleverly by a good length from Mrs. John D. Hertz's Nettie Stone, with Pennant Lass third.

Johnny Maiben hoped to make it a double with Sunvir in the Borgomaster Handicap, at 1 mile, but after he got Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt's thoroughbred away running and opened up a long lead, Coltiletti brought Prince Pat up with a rush on the inside and, taking the track at the half-mile ground, went on to win cleverly. Sweet Verbena, winner of the Coaching Club's Oaks was third, ten lengths behind.

Stupendous Triumphs in Blanket Finish.

One of the closest finishes of the meeting came in the running of the second race, for platers, at 1 mile, in which Stupendous, Drawing Board, Ruby Keller and The Runt finished noses apart in the order named. Drawing Board made the running to the stretch where the winner got to the front under a strong ride by Rose but there was little to choose among the first four at the end.

Joseph Leiter added to his stable in this race claiming Count Palatine for $8,500.

The opening event for 2-year-olds, at 6 furlongs, also furnished a close finish, Disapproved getting up in the closing strides to beat Devil's Due, which had made the running, by a head on the post.

My Dandy Scores at Lincoln Fields.

Lincoln Fields, Ill., Aug. 26 (A.P.). My Dandy, from the Reichert Brothers Stable, carrying top weight of 115 pounds and running in his best form, captured the Olympia Fields Handicap, the feature number of the opening day here. It was a gallop in mile for three-year-olds and up. Martinique, from the D. E. Stewart Stable, was second and Typhoon, from the Kenton Farms, was third. The scratching of Wildale and Barbara left but five starters.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—OLD KICKAPOO, $26.74, $8.52, $5.14; LITTLE GYP, $3.88, $3.26; AGITATOR, $4.98.

OLD KICKAPOO, away fast, showed the most speed throughout and lasted well under energetic handling. LITTLE GYP raced close up all the way and outfinished AGITATOR for the place. The later went well all the way and had no mishaps. BLUSHING MAIDEN closed ground through the stretch. GRAND PRINCE tired. GRAYDALE was off poorly.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:31. Off at 3:32. Winner, Mrs. M. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TORCH, $8.78, $4.42, $3.24; BANSET, $5.66, $4.78; DONN BON, $3.86.

TORCH, well ridden, was rated along in close attendance of the early pace to the stretch, where he took command when DONN BON weakened and outfinished BANSET. The later, reserved back of the leaders, moved up stoutly in the stretch and finished fastest. DONN BON tired suddenly after leading into the final sixteenth. FRANK HAWLEY raced poorly.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,400; allowances. For 2-year-olds. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:00. Off at 4:00. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LAHOR, $13.50, $5.98, $4.46; LIGHTNING JONES, $3.64, $3.06; CAMP BOSS, $4.92.

LAHOR, racing improved, saved ground entering the stretch and outfinished LIGHTNING JONES in a long, hard drive. LIGHTNING JONES followed in close pursuit of the pace until reaching the stretch, where he took a brief lead, but was outfinished. CAMP BOSS tired in the final drive. FAR ALONG, a stable companion entering the stretch. TOMBEREAU tired after leading to the stretch. AIVOS was jumped on and cut down badly.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $2,000. The Olympia Fields Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:34½. Off at 4:40½. Winner, C. Police Beat Navy Yard, 2-1, With Sager as Star

Lefty Sager held the Navy Yard sluggers to three hits yesterday and the Police Nine scored a 2-to-1 victory over Navy Yard. It was Lefty's first start in six weeks for the Policemen and but for an error Mazurski would have scored a shut-out.

The winners did all their scoring in the first on a pass to Mazurski, Hook's sacrifice, Hiser's double and Speece's single. Johnny Bleir and Lefty Kuhnert singled in succession for the losers in the seventh. Bleir scored as Mazurski dropped a throw at first that would have retired the third player.

Swygert hurled well for Navy Yard, fanning nine and giving but seven hits.

The Policemen engage the Diamond Cab Team today at 1:30 o'clock on No. 3 diamond.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

GATHER closer. Yea, bo, I have a story of olio length and variety—which I would warble into thy shell-like ear. None other than JUSTINA, a trick which was bet on in China—over at Hawthorne—last time. She encountered some bad racing luck that day and was weakly ridden thereafter. TAKE OFF is being dropped down a bit and a race to his best form would bring him dangerously close up. THEO ROCHESTER is good, game and consistent and should hold the others safe.

ELIZABETH BOLLA is another beaten favorite over due. She has drawn a favorable post position today—No. 2.

LIGHT AIR, the medium of an old-fashioned killing last time, is taken to repeat in the third. This trick is in. ESSIE and CORINNE STAR for what's left. The latter has changed hands.

BRILLIANTE was taken out of the pickling vat —last time—and he has an outside chance to spill the frijoles.

RED LEATHER, one of the most consistent horses at the track is taken to win another heat. I don't believe they have him too high.

Down at Saratoga, where they have been performing—for us—like a lot of trained pigs, the happy whoopee is GOOSE EGG. This trick has started there three times and returned the winner just as often. Runs equally well in any going. LOST AGNES came out of the West with a "rep," but she has her work cut out here. As a matter of fact, DESERT LIGHT has a chance to take her measure.

SPECTACULAR'S last was even better than cold dope would indicate and I wouldn't be surprised to see him on the Bill Dailey end throughout. HELEN M. and SPECTRE for what's left. All but forgot to tell you the "Suicide Club" is betting on TOURIST to repeat. I know all about JOLLY ROGER. It is my understanding he will need a race—or something like that.

BAPTISTS DEFEAT POTOMAC YARDS IN SERIES

Calvary Nine Triumphs, 8 to 3

Schneider Is Box Star as Losers Drop Out of Series.

Potomacs Start Well But Lose Lead in Eighth.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pullman (Terminal Morning)	2	0	1.000
Cavalry Baptist (Church) ..	2	0	1.000
Naval Hospital (Depart.) ..	1	0	1.000
Union Printers (Government)	0	1	.000
Potomac Yards (Ter. Morn.)	0	2	.000
Wash. Gas Light (Indus.) ..	0	2	.000

TIMELY hitting yesterday behind the effective pitching of Larry Schneider enabled the Calvary Baptist Nine of the Georgetown Church League to register its second victory of the weekday league's play-off series on the Terminal diamond, beating the Potomac Yards Team of the Terminal Morning League, 8 to 3. The loss eliminated the Potomac Yardmen from further competition.

After a slow start, Schneider settled down and was in command through the last eight frames. He fanned fifteen and limited his opponents to four hits. Struder, who started for the Railroaders, was yanked in the seventh with the bases loaded and but one hand retired. Hicks took up the assignment and finished well.

The Potomac Yardmen started well, getting two tallies in the first. Scrivener walked and reached third on two wild pitches by Schneider. J. T. Theimer also strolled and both advanced on Horne's sacrifice, scoring Scrivener. Hicks walked. Fields forced Hicks at second, Theimer scored, while Fields was being run down between first and second after being trapped.

Error Aids Calvary to Score in Fourth.

Not until the fourth was further scoring achieved. Calvary got back one tally in that frame when Buscher reached first on Scrivener's error. The latter also threw wildly on Hilleary's roller, Buscher reached third and scored as Hicks tossed out Berger.

Berger's "boot" and singles by Hicks and Fields gave the Railway crew another marker in the fifth. Calvary came back with a lone marker in the sixth on Buscher's single, stolen base and Peyton's error.

It was the eighth frame that ruined Struder and ended his team's stand against elimination. Demarest, Berger and Stearns singled in succession to fill the bases, with one down. Buscher squeezed Demarest over. Stearns scored when Scrivener messed up Hilleary's grounder, and the latter was safe. Scrivener booted Proctor's bounder and threw over first, allowing both Berger and Hilleary to count.

A single by Schneider, Stearns' double and Field's error on Scrivener's throw accounted for the final pair of Calvary runs in the ninth.

The Naval Hospital Nine will engage the Pullman A. C. today and Calvary Baptist will clash with the Naval Club tomorrow. Pullman will oppose the Churchmen on Thursday. A game will be scheduled Friday but the participants in this contest will not be known until it is learned which team or teams are eliminated before that time.

E. H. Goelz, president of the series, announced last night that the Naval Hospital and Union Printer teams will battle next Tuesday in a play-off of the initial contest of the series which ended in a 4-all deadlock. Since then the Printers dropped a game to the Pullmans. The Typos are expected back from Indianapolis by next Tuesday.

STRONG CONTENDERS FOR WEEK-DAY TITLE

"On this last trip, Cronin hit the ball all over the lot, getting four home runs, and any number of other long drives, and many of his blows were timely, too. I don't mind saying that he has made a big hit with me and I believe that he will be a really great player some of these days."

The Nats' leader also had some comment to make regarding the manner in which Buddy Myer is taking to the second-base job. "He had only one poor game—Sunday—at Detroit," said Johnson, "and I'm sure that the fans will notice a great improvement in his work since we left home. If you look up the records, you'll see that Buddie has taken part in any number of double-plays, while he appears to have gotten the knack of playing the middle sack, has steadied himself down, and really looks at home there now. I think my hunch to try him there was one of the best I've had this season."

Sunday a Blank Date For World Series.

There is a probability that the coming world's series will be played without a Sunday game—something unusual, but not absolutely necessary, for there usually is a sell-out for the championship contests irrespective of the days on which they have been played. The major league races this year will be dragged out until October 6. According to the rotation plan, the title set will open in the National League city, presumably in Chicago. Should Commissioner Landis select Tuesday, October 8, for the opener, two games probably would be played at Wrigley Field, weather permitting, with a railroad jump to the Athletics' stamping ground on Thursday. With games at Shibe Park on Friday and Saturday, it would be impossible for the teams to return to Chicago in time for another battle the following day.

The baseball czar could postpone the opening in Chicago until Saturday, October 12, which would allow a Sunday game there, but the arrangement would make the world's series extend too far into the football season, while unfavorable weather also might take its toll.

Clarksburg Shortstop Bought by Evansville

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 26.—Joseph Morrisey, shortstop of the Clarksburg Club of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League, has been purchased by the Evansville, Ill., club of the Three Eye League for $1,000, it was announced today by Charles Clark, owner of the local club.

Morrisey, whose home is at Providence, R. I., came to the local club two years ago from the Scottdale (Pa.) Club.

TAKOMA TIGERS TRAVEL.

The Takoma Tigers play a strenuous schedule over the coming week-end. In addition to their Montgomery County series double-header Sunday with the Friendships on the Wheaton diamond, the Surburbanites travel to Hamilton, Va., on Labor Day for a pair of games with that team, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

The Tigers will practice Friday in preparation for the games on the Silver Spring diamond at 5 o'clock. As no games will be played Labor Day in the Montgomery County series, the Tigers are able to make their trip to Hamilton, Va.

LAUREL A. C. SCORES.

The Laurel A. C. nosed out the Alco Nine, of Baltimore, in an 8-to-7 game. A two-run rally in the eighth won for Laurel. The winners executed a triple play in the third inning, Zink to Kaiser to Scott to Kaiser.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Alexandria, Va., Aug. 26.—As a result of the interest in the two games already played between the St. Mary's Celtics and the Naval Hospital Baseball Team, Lieut. Comdr. Wright, manager of the Gobs, has agreed to play the Celtics a five-game series. Each team has now won a game, and the one yesterday attracted the greatest crowd that has ever attended a game at Baggett's Stadium. The second game of the series will be played September 8 in Alexandria.

Lawrence Padgett's Police Department Baseball Team will go to Fredericksburg Thursday for a game with Tex Houston's Elks. Padgett has ordered his players to report at police headquarters at 1:30 o'clock Thursday, and they will make the trip by bus.

Capt. Johnny Travers of the Virginia Midgets Football Team, has called an important practice to be held tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock on the Shipyard Grounds. All candidates for the team have been requested to attend.

West. Maryland Golf Semifinals Today

Deer Park, Md., Aug. 26.—First and second rounds of match play were decided in the Western Maryland amateur golf championships here today. The semifinals and consolations are booked for tomorrow.

Today's results:

First round—W. F. Welch beat Hugh Jay Flynn, 3 and 2; C. S. B. Ward beat C. V. Erdman, 3 and 2; P. W. Heinrichs beat L. H. Paulger, 2 and 1; W. W. Erdman defaulted to Dr. W. F. B. Harrington; J. G. Allison defaulted to S. A. Ward; C. A. Young beat A. Preston, 7 and 5; P. D. Allison beat Eugene Cable, 5 and 4; M. W. Crane beat T. E. Welch, 7 and 5.

Second round—C. S. B. Ward, of Pittsburgh, played a very close match with the former champion, W. F. Welch, of Cumberland Country Club. Welch was 2 up and 2 to play, playing the last two holes poorly he lost them to Ward. He played the nineteenth in par 4. Ward holed a 15 foot putt for a birdie 3 and won the match.

GEORGETOWN PROTESTS.

Protesting that the Corinthians used an ineligible player against the Georgetown team in a Capital City League insect game Saturday, in which the Corinthians scored a 3 to 1 victory, the losing team has asked the league officials to declare the game in question forfeited to Georgetown. The protesting club claims that the Corintians used a player named Webb in center field, who it is charged is not under contract.

1,000 GIRLS IN MEET TODAY

55 Playgrounds to Be Represented in Games at Plaza.

GIRL track athletes of the Washington Playgrounds will vie for The Washington Post Cup and medals today in what probably will be the largest meet for girls ever held in the District. Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, supervisor of playgrounds, estimates that slightly more than 1,000 fair tracksters will represent the 55 playgrounds on the Plaza track today. The first event will start at 10:15 o'clock.

Rosedale Playground won the title for the last two years and expects to make another strong bid for the honors, but will have strong opposition from such grounds as Garfield, Virginia Avenue, Iowa Avenue, Barnard, Park View, Columbia Heights and a score or more of others.

16 Events in 4 Classes Make Up Program.

The events in which the lassies will compete are: 70-pound class—40-yard dash, potato race, throw for distance (volley ball), novelty race; 85-pound class—50-yard dash, throw for distance (basket ball), running high jump, novelty race; 100-pound class—60-yard dash, throw for distance (basket ball), runing high jump, 220-yard relay; 115-pound class—60-yard dash, throw for accuracy, quoit throw, novelty event.

The following directors will officiate in the events: Judges at the finish, Jacquiline Whiting, Mary Headley, W. Haight, H. Helme; potato race, Frances Kessler, Ruth Britt and Gwyn Helen; throw for distance (volley ball), Ruth Stone, Virginia Story, Thelma Thomas.

Novelty races—Kathleen Fisher, Marie McAuliffe, Laura Souders; throw for distance (basket ball), Olyve Barbee, Gertrude Boger, Mildred Bailey; assistant to starter, Evelyn Sheridan; clerk, Teresa Breen; press steward, Ross Conklin; custodian of prizes, Bernard McCarty.

Post Medals to Be Presented After Each Final.

Each of the contestants will be weighed just before the respective events and The Post medals will be presented as each final is completed. Mrs. Rhodes will present The Post cup at the completion of the meet.

The entire day will be devoted to the field and track meet, a slight departure from the usual program when a series of games have been played between the various playgrounds in the early afternoon.

Today's meet is the culmination of more than six weeks of preparation on the part of the playground officials and directors. The girls have all engaged in meets on their respective grounds and also competed in dual and triangular events.

Wilson First, Volt Third In Printers' Golf Play

Special to The Washington Post.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 26.—Washington Printers finished first and third in the first 18 holes of the 72-hole golf meet which started here today as an added attraction to the Union Printers' annual international baseball tournament.

Wilson topped the list with a score of 85, Whitney, of Indianapolis, was second with 87, and Volt, of Washington, third with 88. The Capital's other three players finished far down the list their scores were: Stringer, 99; Burris, 104; Higgs, 111.

Eighteen holes will be played during each of the next three days to determine the championship.

Umpires Broadcasts Batteries, Using Microphone in Mask

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Umpiring behind the plate and announcing probably will be one and the same job henceforth at the Polo Grounds, as they always have been in the smaller leagues of the land. The merger of the two posts at the home of the Giants, if accomplished, will be due to the installation of a loud-speaking device, which was tried out yesterday and Saturday.

At the Sabbath game between the Giants and the Pirates, Cy Rigler, the heroically-built arbiter, adjusted his mask at the plate, touched a metal disk with his spikes and sent his announcement of the batteries to even the most remote sections of the vast baseball plant through a series of amplifiers. A wire connects the umpire's spikes with a microphone in his mask. The spike, touching the metal disk in the ground, forms contact with a wiring system which carries the voice of the speaker to amplifiers throughout the park. Balls and strikes are to be called over the network.

The fans thought something rare was in store for them when Jess Petty advanced upon Rigler early in the game to argue about a called fourth ball, but the umpire had the presence of mind to step off the disk before addressing the combative pitcher.

TAKE TENTH STRAIGHT.

In turning back the Sirens yesterday, 16 to 1, the Cronin Insects won their tenth straight victory. The winner are forced to cancel the game scheduled with the Miller Aztec Insects for tomorrow.

BOWLERS TO MEET.

The Mount Rainier Duckpin Association will reorganize for the 1929-30 season at a meeting to be held tomorrow night at the Mount Rainier Alleys at 8 o'clock. All managers of last year's teams and others wishing to enter the teams this year are requested to attend. Several new teams are expected to enter this season. Ten competed last season.

PLAYGROUND HONORS TO BRIGGS

Rose Park Is Second With City Track Title at Stake.

THE Washington Post Trophy and the majority of The Post's individual medals were won by the Briggs Playground track team in winning the colored city championship at the Cardoza Playground yesterday. The meet was staged by the Municipal Playground Department.

When rain forced the suspension of activities last Friday, Briggs and Rose Park were tied at 19 points with the unlimited high jump and the four relays remaining. Brown's victory in the high jump yesterday and a second place and two third places in the relays allowed Briggs to nose out Rose Park 28 to 26.

The Sixth and L grounds took third place with 14 points. Other grounds that scored were: Cardoza, 11; Garnet-Patterson, 9; Logan, 9; Cook, 8; Willow Tree, 6; Bruce, 6; Howard, 6; Shaw, Junior, 5; Lovejoy, 4; Crummell, 3; Barry Farma, 1.

The Sixth and L grounds took third place with 14 points. Other grounds that scored were: Cardoza, 11; Garnet-Patterson, 9; Logan, 9; Cook, 8; Willow Tree, 6; Bruce, 6; Howard, 6; Shaw, Junior, 5; Lovejoy, 4; Crummell, 3; Barry Farma, 1.

85-POUND CLASS.

300-YARD RELAY—Won by Willow Tree (Smallwood, Boyd, J. Harris, A. Harris); second, Cardoza (Montgomery, Chatlin, Henry, Lewis); third, Rose Park (Butler, Veney, Thomas, Harrison). Time, 33s. flat.

100-POUND CLASS.

200-YARD RELAY—Won by Rose Park (Williams, Conway, Neverson, Johnson); second, Briggs (Butler, Gentry, Harris, Wallace); third, Logan (Beasely, Brooks, Jackson, Burwell). Time, 34.1s.

They warned us against the word "SPIT"

But—

we felt that smokers should know the truth about spit-tipped cigars

Within the memory of nearly every smoker is a picture of some old, filthy cigar shop where the man in the window rolled the leaves with dirty fingers . . . and spit on the ends.

Cigars turned out under such conditions may endanger health. Why take chances? Why risk your health when Certified Cremo offers you the finest smoke enjoyment plus the sanitary cleanliness of certified foods . . . a cigar endorsed by Alfred W. McCann?

Over $7,000,000 was spent in perfecting the method of manufacture which puts Certified Cremo miles ahead in sanitary goodness. Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by U. S. Government approved methods. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that fill, wrap and tip Certified Cremo without the menace of spit!

Certified Cremo leaves are the choicest, tenderest that the crop affords, all ripe and mellow. Each leaf goes through a slow, expensive maturing process that develops the fullest flavor and mildness.

There isn't a bit of scrap in Certified Cremo . . . not a trace of floor sweepings. All long filler . . . all fresh, tender leaves . . . and topped off with the finest imported Sumatra wrapper.

Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar that the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly had in mind when he said: "What this country needs most is a good 5-cent cigar."

Certified For Your Protection

by Alfred W. McCann, D. Litt., A. B., LL.D., noted pure food expert, long active in crusades for pure foods and sanitary factories.

"Most diseases enter the body through the mouth . . . but I emphatically say that no smoker of Cremo ever runs this risk. Because the method of manufacture aims to give Cremo the same standard of purity that pasteurization gives to milk."

THE GOOD 5¢ CIGAR . . . THAT AMERICA NEEDED

MARY DELLA

A Serial Story

By JULIE ANNE MOORE.

SYNOPSIS:

MARY DELLA CHUBB: The best looking clocker in the clock shop, if not in Waterbury. Lives with her parents in a flat.

MIRIAM BOBBIN: Limited in U. S., but Mary Della's best girl friend; also a clocker.

JOE SPEAKS: Mary Della's steady, young man about town, good-looking and well-heeled.

ROBERT HENLEY CALKMAN, 3d: Yale senior and football star; one of THE Calkmans, of Detroit.

GEORGE McKRAY: He wanted to go to Harvard but the cards were against him; also a senior at Yale. Happy-go-lucky as George.

MARJORIE MARABEE: Daughter of families living on Cracker Hill. Fiancee of Robert.

TIMMY FITZMOAN: Petting is his specialty. In love with Mary Della.

OLGA SVENSON: Also a clocker and not too popular with any one.

Mary Della and Robert are parked on the piece of old highway off the Cheshire road when a woman is murdered by the Red Mask, notorious slugger, in the dark road just ahead of their car. Mary Della and Robert are afraid they will be implicated in the murder and say nothing about it. But both worry about the woman's body lying on the road about three days undiscovered. Mary Della writes an anonymous note to the police. Robert sends George in Robert's car to see if the body is still there.

George reports that the body was not on the road when he drove through. Says he was seen leaving the road by a couple in another car. The American reports the murder on the strength of Mary Della's note—in glaring headlines. Also that no body was found.

Robert and George are going to a bridge party at the Marabees in Waterbury. Robert decides to have George put a call in for Mary Della on the Chubb's landline.

CHAPTER XIV.

When Mary Della came down the stairs to the sidewalk Tuesday morning, she found Joe Speaks waiting patiently in his car by the curb.

"Well, Joe——eh? Thought I'd give you a lift to the shop. Hop in."

They rode along Bank street through Exchange place and began the ascent of North Main street, Joe drawing on a cigarette, Mary Della curiously silent.

"Been doing any heavy thinking since I saw you last?" Joe asked.

"And how! But you know I told you I couldn't be rushed."

"I'm not rushing you, Mary Della . . . But it sure would do me a lot of good to hear you say 'yes.'" He nudged her with his elbow and laughed. "You're early; care if I pull up to the curb a few minutes?"

He brought the car to a stop on Clock avenue and slid down in the seat until his knees touched the dash, Joe's idea of a comfortable posture.

"You know, I sort of like this idea of being hitched and having a flat to go home to every night and finding you hanging out the door when I get there."

"Heaven save us!" Mary Della protested. "You're actually trying to be sentimental."

"I'm giving you straight dope," Joe insisted. "I guess it does sound a little sloppy coming from me, but that's the way you got me going round, Mary Della."

"Well, don't mind me, Joe. I'm just a hairspring vibrater. But how do I know you'd be coming home so reg'lar every night?"

"I wouldn't kid you, Mary Della. The woman don't live that can tell me what time I've got to get in nights; but with you it'd be different. I'd like to go home."

"And how long would it last, Joe?"

"Don't ask me. I told you I wouldn't kid you and I won't. As long as everyting runs along smooth, why everything would be jake. It might last a long time and again it mightn't. We'd have to try it out."

"I see. It's like a game of craps We might win, and we might lose."

"That's it, Mary Della. It's a gambler's chance. But I'm game."

"If you're game," said Mary Della "that takes a load off my mind. All I have to worry about now is whether I'm game or not."

"That's everything you got to bother about, Mary Della. I'm a man of my word and I wouldn't leave you at the altar. All you got to do is say the word, and we're as good as hitched."

"Is sure a big relief to me to hear you say it, Joe . . . 'Got a job now, Joe?'"

"Well . . . not exactly. But I'm planning on one out at the rolling mill. It's just a question of getting together on how much I'm worth. You I'm not losing any time, Mary Della."

"But you're not?"

"Not so's you'd notice it. I know you don't like gambling much, but there's dough in it and that's all anybody can ask. I knocked off pretty near a hundred bucks last night."

In support of this statement he reached into a trousers pocket and pulled out a roll of bills.

"How'd you like a couple of tens to get yourself a nice piece of jewelry?"

"Joe," said Mary Della, slightly nonplussed, "it's almost 7 o'clock and I've got to go in the Cherry street door and better be going. Put that money up before—before somebody steals it." She opened the door and put one foot on the running board.

"All right, kid," Joe agreed amiably; "but it's yours for the asking." He shoved the bills into his pocket again, and pulled himself erect.

"There's something else I wanted to ask you about, Mary Della——"

Mary Della shut the door and waited.

"Remember when we went to ride out the Cheshire road Saturday night?"

Mary Della summoned every ounce of self-control and nodded.

"Well, there was a big yellow roadster coming out of that piece of road—you been reading about this Red Mask racket?"

"Yes," said Mary Della, wondering if her face was betraying her.

"That fellow in that car was by himself, Mary Della, and I wonder if he was hauling——"

Mary Della's head was spinning, but she held on to the car door and tried to look him steadily in the eye. "Don't talk about it, Joe. It makes me sick to think about it."

Joe grew unexpectedly tender. "It needn't, Mary Della. You know how I figure it? I don't think any woman was murdered out there. I think some crank wrote that note to the coppers."

"That's an idea." Mary Della breathed easily once more.

"But just the same," Joe continued, "it's up to me to tell the cops about that yellow roadster. If there was a murder, it'd be important. You'll back me up in it, won't you?"

Mary Della was walking away now, slowly.

"Afraid I can't, Joe," she called back to him. "I couldn't see a thing; the lights blinded me."

She turned abruptly and walked up Cherry street.

"Child," said Miriam in that peculiar side-mouth monotone, "business is picking up. Guess what's happened now——"

"Can't," Mary Della replied. "Good or bad?"

"Beautiful, honey, 'specially for you. Brett Younger's going to put on a amateur musical comedy and he wants you to be the leadin' lady."

"Why pick on me?"

"Don't be like that, darling. Who else but you? And he's got me lined up for the chorus. Did you ever hear of so much big time in your life. Bowling, policeman's ball and now a musical comedy. Before long I'll have to have a social secretary to keep my dates from getting mixed up. But I love it."

"When's he planning in holding it?"

"Going to start rehearsals tonight, precious. Oh he's got it all ready, songs and all. At least, most of the songs, he said. He's going to have a song fixed up for you as leadin' lady with your name in it."

"Gee," said Mary Della, showing signs of interest, "sounds like hot stuff."

'Sure is, honey. And you know what he's going to call it? . . . "The Clock Shop Clockers." And he says one of the big songs you're going to sing is called "The Clock Shop Clock." It's about a dance and you're going to do the dance, too."

"Seems like he's been doing a lot of planning for me without saying anything about it."

"He just got the idea for it, darling. Says it come to him last week and he got busy right now and put it down on paper. He says to me last night, "Mary Della can sing and she can dance, and what's more she's the best lookin' girl in town, and she'll be a wow." And I says, "Brett, you said a chinfull; she's got everything in Waterbury knocked for a cocked hat" And he——"

"Dry up," said Mary Della. "You're getting hysterical, Miriam."

"And who wouldn't?" But I'll tell you all about it at 12 o'clock. It's sure a scream."

"I wouldn't wonder a . . . Are you going to be in it, too, Olga?"

"Sure," she said. "I'm going to be one of the bridesmaids."

"Gosh!" Mary Della exclaimed, "Who gets married?"

"You do, honey." This from Miriam. "But Brett said he hadn't found a leadin' man for you yet."

While they were eating lunch, Miriam told Mary Della all she knew about Brett Younger's musical comedy. "The Clock Shop Clockers," which was enough.

"The first act opens up in a room like where we work with a lot of girls bent over benches, vibrating hairsprings. I guess of something, and Brett comes in—Brett's going to be the villain that's cuckoo about the leadin' lady but don't get her, of course—and Brett comes in and sings a song—he's got it done but I forget what it's called—and when he comes to the chorus all the girls join in but don't look up from the benches, and——"

"Listen, Miriam," Mary Della interrupted. "You'd live a lot longer if you'd catch your breath every now and then. Use a few periods and let your tonsils rest."

"I'm thrilled to a crisp, Mary Della. I can't help it. But anyhow, Brett goes out, and the girls all look up and begin to gossip and they give the audience the plot of the play.

"It seems there's one girl that works in the shop that's terribly good looking. She hasn't come in yet because she's late, but that's just to get introduced right. Everybody's crazy about this girl and all the men are nutty about her, but she won't have much to do with any of the fellows but the villain, she's just kind of soft on him because there's not much pickin'."

"Does she know he's a villain?"

"Well honey, he's not a villain really. He's just a hard lookin' egg that has to get the small end of the horn in the end. Somebody does, don't they? I forgot to tell you, darling, the villain's the foreman of the shop, and he lets this girl, the leadin' lady do about like she pleases. The other girls don't like it, but they can't help but like the girl, the leadin' lady, remember.

"After the girls have talked a lot and got this much over to the audience, they sing another song and right in the middle of it, in comes the leadin' lady, hangs up her hat and coat—which ain't anything to write home about—and pops down at her bench. All the other girls look at each other and wink, but they just can't help but like her. Mary Della, she's so sweet——"

"She must be," said Mary Della. "What a hit she'd be in our place."

"And then the girls get busy again, and who comes in but the villain with a handsome young fellow that turns out to be the son of a rich manufacturer in the West who's come in to inspect the shop and see how watches are made. And, of course, he flops for the leadin' lady; thinks she's about the nicest thing that ever vibrated a hairspring, and he asks the villain—the foreman, you see—to knock him down to the leadin' lady.

"Then everything gets quiet and the handsome young man asks the villain—the foreman, don't forget—if any of the girls can dance and sing. And the foreman, proud like, says "Sure, and calls on the leadin' lady to do her stuff.

"That's where you get up, Mary Della, and do the "Clock Shop Clock." It's a dance, you know. And you sing the song that goes with it. Child, I'm all goose pimples thinkin' about it. If——"

"And what happens after that?"

"Oh, I don't remember it all. It's a race between the villain and the handsome young man to sit pretty with you and there's a fight and goodness knows what all. And in the end——"

"I marry the handsome young man."

"Right."

"Sure sounds exciting," agreed Mary Della, "but we got to be moving. It's a quarter to one."

Mary Della took a little purse from a pocket of her green jacket, paid her bill and followed Miriam to the sidewalk.

"Don't be hurt because I don't get all worked up over the show, Miriam," she said, "but life's no musical comedy and I'm full of woe right now."

"I know it, honey, but try to get it off your mind. This play'll help you forget it."

"I don't think anything can make me forget about it, Miriam. There's always something else happening to get me going again when I do get sort of easy. Joe took me up to work this morning and told me he was going down to the police station and tell 'em about seeing Bob's car coming out of that road."

"The dirty skunk!"

"No, he's not, Miriam. He thinks he's doing the right thing. Say he doesn't believe anybody was killed out there but if there was the police ought to know about that car. You can't blame him for that. If I had any nerve, I'd tell 'em what I saw—But I won't give Bob away."

Mary Della walked with her hands stuffed into her jacket pockets, her head bent, trying to picture the newspaper headlines after Joe told his story to the police.

"They sure do work overtime to keep you in hot water, honey," Miriam declared. "But if I was you—Mary Della, darling, what wrong now?"

Mary Della was pulling everything out of her pockets frantically. Piece by piece she removed a bit of pencil, a little handkerchief, the purse and a compact. Then she dug eagerly into both pockets, but they were empty.

"Miriam . . ." her eyes were full . . . I've lost . . . Bob's note. It's the other half of the piece I wrote the letter to the police on."

CONVERTIBLE BONDS RISE TO NEW PEAKS

Market Otherwise Continues Depressed—Government List Is Irregular.

FOREIGN ISSUES DULL

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Stock privilege telephone securities soared to record price levels today, contrary to the general trend in the listed bond market. Bonds without speculative features continued to be depressed as time money held at 8¾ and 9 per cent for all maturities. Call money held at 7 per cent.

American Telephone convertible 4½s and International Telephone convertible 4½s both established new peaks at 222½, but the former closed at 219¾, for a net gain of 1¾ points, while the latter finished at 218 for a net advance of 2½ points. The stocks of these two companies both sold at new highs.

Atchison convertible 4½s, in response to the strength in the rail stocks, touched 160, a new top, and closed for a gain of a point at 159. Missouri Pacific 5½s A ran up 2½ points, while Nickel Plate 5½s A fell back 2¾. Chicago & Alton 3½s picked up a point.

Specialties such as Commercial Investment Trust 5½s, which advanced to a record price level last week on announcement of a stock split up, and American International 5½s lost ground, the former slipping off 2¼ points. National Tube 5s lost 1½ points.

The United States Government obligations were irregular on a small volume of sales.

The foreign list continued dull and featureless.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Nervousness over weather conditions in the Northwest and uncertainty as to the showing of the approaching end-month crop reports was reflected by a comparatively quiet and irregular cotton market today. After selling up to 18.90 at the start, December contracts reacted to 18.73, but recovered part of the loss and closed at 18.76. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 2 to 8 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 12 points in response to steady Liverpool cables and reports of continued dry weather in the Southwest. October sold up to 18.61 and March to 19.17 on the initial demand, but these prices attracted considerable realizing, while there was also some Southern selling and local selling on hope of showers in the Southwest. The pressure was sufficient to send prices off to about 18.42 for October and 19.02 for March contracts during the middle of the morning, or about 5 to 9 points below Saturday's closing quotations.

The official weather details showed that the showers reported in Texas over the week-end had been chiefly in east central or coast districts, however, and their failure to indicate any relief for the drouthy sections of Texas and Oklahoma brought in another flurry of buying during the afternoon. This was supplied by further realizing or liquidation and the market was comparatively quiet later with fluctuations narrow.

Closing quotations were within two or three points of the lowest on the most positions. The official forecast failed to encourage the hope of showers in west Texas, and there was evidently considerable nervousness over weather conditions in that section with a feeling in some quarters that the showing of the next Government crop report scheduled for publication on September 9 might depend to some extent upon whether or not drought conditions in the Southwest were relieved before the end of this week.

Cable advices reported that hedging and liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling and covering in the Liverpool market.

Port receipts today, 27,404. United States port stocks, 575,528. Exports, 5,861, making 169,618 so far this season.

REDUCTION IN LOANS REVEALED BY BANKS

Federal Reserve Board Also Reports Decline in Net Demand Deposits.

STOCKS MOVE UPWARD

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in 101 leading cities on August 21, made public yesterday, showed declines for the week of $28,000,000 in loans and investments, $126,000,000 in net demand deposits and $40,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve Banks.

Loans on securities decreased $44,000,000 at reporting banks in the New York District and $62,000,000 at all reporting banks. "All other" loans increased $57,000,000 at all reporting banks. Holdings of United States Government securities declined $7,000,000 in the New York District and $10,000,000 at all reporting banks, while holdings of other securities show a reduction of $13,000,000 for the week.

Net demand deposits, which at all reporting banks were $126,000,000 below the August 14 total, declined in all districts except Cleveland, which showed an increase of $17,000,000. Time deposits exhibited little change for the week.

Electric Output Increases.

Electric output of North American Co. and its subsidiaries, among which are Washington Railway & Electric Co. and Potomac Electric Power Co., for the first half of 1929 was 3,332,800,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of more than 13 per cent over the output of the same companies for the first half of 1928, the quarterly letter of the president states today.

This brings the output for the twelve months ended June 30, 1929, to nearly 6,500,000,000 kilowatt hours. Average weekly output during the first six months of this year exceeded 128,000,000 kilowatt hours. Record weeks were those ended May 23 and June 27, when the output was over 132,000,000 kilowatt hours. The consolidated balance sheet of the company shows assets of $863,671, 243.73, as if June 30, 1929, against those of $811,582,951.44 on June 30, 1928.

Commenting on its local activities, the letter states:

"Construction work is under way on the new substation of Potomac Electric Power Co. designed to feed into the present network supplying the business district of Washington. Additional facilities are necessary to meet the increased demands in this area and to anticipate the electric requirements resulting from the extensive building program recently inaugurated by the Federal Government for the concentration of buildings and the beautification of the area between the White House and the Capitol."

Utilities File Statements.

The Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Light Co. filed their monthly statements of operation with the Public Utilities Commission yesterday. Net income of the former for July was $19,425.78, a gain of $10,708.15 over the month last year. Net income of this company for the year to date is $579,970.29, which is $98,000.99 more than the first seven months a year ago.

Net corporate income of the Georgetown company for July was $6,710.26, an increase of $2,164.62 over the month last year. Its income for the first seven months of the present year, $95,561.41, is an increase of $23,349.26 over the corresponding period last year.

Stock Prices Move Upward.

The Washington Stock Exchange opened the week with a rising market and a marked advance in stock dealings. For the first time in months its usual irregularity was absent, eight of the twelve bonds and stocks in trading selling at advances, two maintaining previous levels and but two exchanging at declines. These were Washington Gas A bonds, $3,100 transferring at fractional recessions from 102 and a small lot of the B bonds at 103¾, a 2¼-point loss.

Stock turnover aggregated 645 shares, a gain of 405 over Friday's. Fireman's Fire Insurance came out at 43¾, fractional advance, and sold down to 43¼. 100 shares passing. Sixty-five shares of Mergenthaler linotype sold at 105, fractional rise at and 160 of National Mortgage & Investment preferred and 320 Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred at 4¾ and 7½, respectively last sale prices.

Twenty shares of Riggs National Bank were sold; 15 at 579, point rise, and five at 580. Anacostia & Potomac 5s bonds sold in a $5,000 lot at 94½ and $1,000 Anacostia Potomac Railroad 5s at 88, both fractional advances. Total bond transactions, $9,200, were $4,800 below those of Friday.

Morris Plan Bankers to Meet.

According to Bertram Chesterman, president of the Morris Plan Bank of Washington, the Morris Plan Bankers Association will celebrate its tenth anniversary at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where its annual convention will be held September 23-25. The convention will also mark the twentieth anniversary of the foundation of the Morris Plan.

The Morris Plan service has been extended to 140 of the larger cities of the United States and since 1909 the aggregate amount loaned by all Morris Plan banks throughout the country exceeds $1,250,000,000.

C. & O. Railway Statement.

The gross revenue, net railway operating income and net income of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co., together with operating ratio are shown in the statement of operations for the month of July, 1929, a report of which was sent to the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday.

Gross revenues for the month were $10,585,803, an increase of $602,918 over July of last year; operating expenses were $7,153,468, an increase of $557,897, as compared with July of last year; net railway operating income is $2,908,307, a decrease of $122,640 over July of last year. The net income after all charges for the month of July, 1929, was $2,522,125, an increase of $123,600 over July of last year. The operating ratio is 67.6 per cent compared with 66.1 per cent for July of last year, or an increase of 1.5 per cent.

For the seven months ended July 31, 1929, the company showed gross revenues of $72,569,534, an increase of $2,934,215. Operating expenses were $49,146,807, an increase of $433,819. Net railway operating income was $19,881,152, an increase of $2,104,728. Net income after all charges is $16,052,784, an increase of $2,711,881, compared with corresponding period of 1928. The operating ratio for the period is 67.7 per cent, a decrease of 2.2 per cent as compared with same period a year ago.

Will Serve on Advisory Council.

President Wade H. Cooper, Continental Trust Co., and Vice President Avon M. Nevius, Riggs National Bank, are to serve on the national advisory council of the Bankers' Industrial Exposition in New York City.

Organized for the purpose of bringing about a better understanding between banking and business, part of the service of the exposition is to be found in a permanent exhibit in the Salmon Tower Building, where already 140 exhibitors have installed, the exhibitors representing industries of a value in excess of $2,000,000,000.

In other words, the Bankers Exposition is "the shop window of the Nation," a permanent exhibit where everything pertaining to the needs of bankers or industrialists is shown and nothing is for sale. The primary function of the national advisory council will be to suggest ways and means by which the exposition may better serve the members of the banking fraternity in every section of the land.

President John Poole of the Federal-American National Bank has returned from a month's vacation.

Secretary E. Percival Wilson, National Savings & Trust Co., will return Saturday from a vacation at Virginia Beach.

J. N. Brewer, vice president of Swartzell Rheem & Hensey Co., has returned from a Northern motor trip.

NINETEEN ACCUSED BY DISTRICT POLICE OF DRY VIOLATIONS

U. S. Attorney Refuses to Issue Papers in Six Other Cases.

FOUR GIVEN SENTENCES; WOMAN GAINS FREEDOM

Raiders Charge Intoxicated Children Came From Home They Invaded.

Although the United States Attorney's office nolle prossed one charge and refused to issue papers against six other person, nineteen individual were arraigned yesterday in Police Court on charges of violating the prohibition law and one on a Jones law charge. Six of the number pleaded guilty, eleven demanded trial by jury in Police Court, three a trial by court and the alleged Jones law violator, a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Needham C. Turnage.

The man charged with violating the Jones law is Cecil Johnson, colored. He is sepcifically charged with sale and possession. Police raider informed Assistant U. S. Attorney Renan F. Camalier that after a policeman had made a purchase from Johnson they raided his establishment and found 12½ gallons of whisky in a davenport. He is at liberty under $2,500 bond.

Four of the six who pleaded guilty were sentenced yesterday while the others will be sentenced later in the week. Those sentenced are: Annie Smith, colored, 326 M street southwest, second offense possession, $200 or 90 days; Zannie Chisley, colored, possession of one quart, $50 or 30 days; Rebecca Edelin, 927½ Desmond court southwest, second offense possession, $100 or 60 days, and Geneva Cole, alias Eva Cole, 1238 Wylie street northeast, $200 or 60 days. The others who pleaded guilty but who were not sentenced are: Lucy Golden, 2 Champlain street northwest, and William H. Goodwin, 2705 Nichols avenue southeast.

Woman's Case Nolle Prossed.

A charge of possession booked against Mary Dittmar, 35, of 2121 New York avenue northwest, by the police, was nolle prossed by Assistant United States Attorney James F. Hughes, who held that the evidence was insufficient. The woman was charged with possession after police had entered her home on a warrant charging disorderly house, according to the record in the case filed with Hughes.

In refusing to issue papers on charges booked by the police against four persons, the United States attorney's office held that evidence was insufficient in two instances and that in the others raids had been made without warrants. Those against whom charges were dropped in this manner were Elizabeth Arch, colored, 1820 Constitution court; Minnie Washington, colored; Albert Dorsey, colored, 734 Boll court northwest; Clarence Swartz, 2512 K street northwest; Addie Howland and Elsie Ross, both colored, 946 Lettie street southwest.

Records in the United States attorney's office show that police forced their way into wartz's home without a warrant because they believed they would find whisky there, and that Minnie Washington was seen to hurriedly sit on a package when police drove by her home in an automobile.

Saw Children Intoxicated, He Says.

Pandora Kelly, 40, of 927 New Jersey avenue northwest, charged with possession of 384 bottles of home brew, pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial. Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman and his squad, who arrested the woman, told Assistant United States Attorney Camalier that they watched the house for a week and noticed that boys, girls, men and women were coming out of the place in an intoxicated condition. A warrant was procured after the watchers saw several persons carry from the house a girl who was too intoxicated to walk, the police said. They reported that they found twelve men drinking beer in the house when they entered.

Arthur P. Bladen, 22, of 620 G street northwest, who was arrested several days ago and charged with driving while intoxicated and with possession of whisky, pleaded not guilty on the liquor charge and, by order of the court, demanded a jury trial. Judge Mattingly instructed the man to demand a jury trial after he had stated he did not know what to do.

Anthony Lee, colored, was fined $40 with the alternative of six months in jail in the District of Columbia branch of Police Court, and when arraigned shortly afterward in the United States branch on a charge of second offense possession, pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial.

Woman Hid Whisky, They Say.

James Peyton, colored, and Mary Lindsey, colored, both of 107 Howard court, pleaded not guilty to charges of possession and demanded a jury trial. Police reported to the U. S. Attorney's office that they chased Peyton and that when the chase became hot he threw a jar of whisky on a shed. While a policeman was on the roof trying to get the jar the woman came out, retrieved it and hid it, they reported. Both were arrested and charged.

Others who demanded a jury trial on possession charges are Clarence Gray, 20, of 820 Twenty-sixth street northwest; William Henry Steward, 632 Morton street northwest; George Brown, alias Lawrence Sims, of 128 Browns court southwest; Martha Digg, 303 Second street southwest; Eddie Nelson, colored, 946 Lettie street southwest, and Savannah Johnson, colored, 522 First street northwest.

Savannah Johnson was arrested on a warrant sworn to by John Wade, colored, former police informer, who is now a special agent in the Prohibition Bureau. Several cases made by Wade recently were thrown out because testimony on which he obtained warrants was not corroborated.

Those who asked for a trial by the court on possession charges are Patrick James Jackson, 1135 Seventeenth street northwest, and John Allen Jenkins, colored, who was arrested at 1120 Union court when police raided a card game.

Injured Boy, 11, Ran Against Auto, Report

While running across the street in front of his home at 638 D street northeast yesterday morning, John F. Newman, 11 years old, ran into the side of a passing automobile driven by Olan McLane, colored, 29 years old, 763 Fairmount street northwest.

The boy was taken to the office of a nearby physician, where he was treated for a fractured right ankle. He was taken home later.

MORE MONEY FOUND IN MAGRUDER HOME

Plans to Transfer Spinster From District Institution Carried Forward.

TREASURE NEARS $4,000

As the hunt for buried treasure in the crumbling ruins fo the old Magruder homestead in Georgetown continues daily to reveal additional hundreds of dollars hidden behind pictures, in the horsehair stuffing of ancient furniture, wrapped in old rags, and in other unexpected places, plans were made yesterday to transfer Miss Blanche Magruder, last surviving member of her clan here, from the District home at Blue Plains to a private institution.

With the addition of a sum as yet untallied but estimated at close to $1,000, the fortune thus far discovered by searchers in the dilipidated building 1304 Fifty-fifth street northwest is now close to the $4,000 mark, and the search is not yet ended, although A. K. Shipe, attorney for Mrs. Marie Clark, a niece of Miss Magruder, and W. B. Wright, relatives who petitioned the court for the search, reported last night that it is expected the combing of the premises will be concluded today.

Miss Magruder, now 90 years old and bed ridden for many months, was admitted to the Home for the Aged and Infirm last September. So far as could be determined at the time, and according to Mrs. Richard Lamb, a niece and the only relative who could then be located, she was indigent, making it incumbent upon the District to provide for her during the brief period of lifetime accorded her by examining physicians.

Police, investigating reports that negroes of the neighborhodo had unearthed a hidden source of wealth in the old Magruder home, discovered some $500 hidden in various places about the premises. Moved by a story of neighborhood gossips that Nathaniel Magruder, the woman's father, in who name the property is still listed, had left her a sum declared to be around $40,000 in cash at the time of his death some years ago, the present search was instituted and has been productive of large sums daily.

Not only are the hiding places in which Miss Magruder stored her wealth ingenious, but there is an utter lack of consistency in the amounts themselves. At tims the searchers devote hours to their quest and are rewarded by finding only a few scattered pennies or small coins, while on other occasions various caches of several hundred dollars each have been discovered within a few minutes of each other. Too, some spots which would seem the logical hiding places for treasure have proven entirely bare, while other places where it would seem that none but an extremely careless person would place anything of value have revealed large sums.

With almost $4,000 already available in cash, in addition to the land which has a market value close to $5,000, relatives and attorneys yesterday considered plans for removing Miss Magruder to a private institution. Although the law provides that persons with means may not receive care at the Blue Plains institution, which is not permitted to house paying inmates, a court order will be necessary before Miss Magruder may be removed.

Hearing Continued On Habeas Corpus

St. Elizabeths Head Says Inmate Opposes Court Hearing.

Asserting that since an attorney recently had been shot, supposedly by a client whom he had had released from St. Elizabeths, it was an inopportune time to consider the release of other inmates of the institution, Justice Alfred A. Wheat yesterday continued until October the hearing on a habeas corpus petition brought by John A. Savage, as next friend of Clarence M. Brummett, an inmate, whose release is sought.

Brummett was not in court when the case was called. Last week Dr. William A. White, superintendent of the hospital, notified the court that he could not bring the man into court without the use of force and violence. Brummett, the physician set out, had declared Savage was not authorized to act for him and that he would not voluntary go into court.

Assistant United States Attorney William A. Gallagher was on hand ready to represent Dr. White in the hearing when Justice Wheat ordered it carried over.

CARS HIT ON BRIDGE; FOUR MEN INJURED

Machines Collide on Narrow Span and Then Burst Into Flames.

RIDERS HASTILY RESCUE

Four men were injured yesterday when their cars collided and then were destroyed by fire on a narrow bridge on the Washington-Fredericksburg pike below Quantico, Va., yesterday afternoon.

C. T. Mangum and L. C. Davis, both of Washington, were riding in a coupe headed for Washington. As they attempted to cross the bride a truck occupied by Abraham Rudy, 35 years old, 631 Irving street northwest, and Clarence Catlett, 20, Woodbridge, Va., also attempted to cross. The two cars collided and caught fire.

Passengers Taken Out.

The four passengers were removed from the blazing automobiles and Mangum and Davis taken to the Naval Hospital at Quantico Marine Camp, while Rudy and Catlett were taken to the Mary Washington Hospital at Fredericksburg, Va.

Mangum and Davis were treated for lacerations from flying glass and bruises and allowed to go home by post physicians. Rudy was treated for scalp wounds and cuts on the body and leg, and Catlett for severe burns on the face, neck, hands and arms by Dr. Lee Cooke, of the Mary Washington Hospital. They will remain at the hospital for several days.

Traffic Is Blocked.

The two cars were wedged so tightly that they could not be moved until after the fires had been extinguished and traffic on the road was tied up for more than an hour. The machines were extricated under the direction of Capt. Samuel Wood, provost marshall at Quantico.

Capt. Wood had been called out for a wreck in which three cars were involved about a mile from the scene of the fire. One machine had cut a left curve, he said, and had collided with another car coming around the curve in the opposite direction, a third car then crashing into the wreck. Three Negroes were cut and bruised in the accident, but their names were not taken by the captain, as he was hurriedly called to the scene of the other accident.

Second Fire in Year Hits Hickey's Mansion

Hickey's Mansion, near Twenty-eighth and U streets northeast, was all but destroyed early yesterday morning by a fire of undetermined origin that swept through the two-story brick building.

The fire left only a portion of the brick walls standing. It is the second time in the past year that the house, which has been vacant for a decade, has caught fire.

Third Battalion Chief Ernest Howard said he believed the fire was started by tramps that were probably stopping overnight in the place. The mansion was once noted for the brilliant parties held there.

Thieves Get 17 Pints Of Drug Store Liquor

The drug store at 1796 Florida avenue northwest was robbed early yesterday morning of seventeen pints of whisky Maurice L. Bernstine, 3520 Thirty-fourth street northwest, manager, reported to police yesterday.

The robbers gained entrance to the store by removing the bars from the rear basement window. Besides the whisky they escaped with a case of safety matches and some wash clothing.

Daughter Identifies Body of Auto Victim

The 70-year-old man who was killed Sunday at Fourteenth and Water streets southwest by an automobile, was identified yesterday morning as John W. Wiltshire, 1367 East Capitol street.

Pearl Wiltshire, daughter of the man, identified him. Lawrence Proctor, colored, 1419 South Capitol street, was said by police to have been driving the auto which struck the man. A coroner's inquest exonerated Proctor from blame in the accident.

Boy Injured by Baseball.

Earl Payne, colored, 6 years old, 4158 Benning road northeast, was treated at Casualty Hospital for a fractured rib, received when he was struck with a baseball while watching a game on Benning road northeast between Forty-second and Forty-fourth streets northeast.

CITY MAY CONFINE CENTER PURCHASES TO SINGLE SQUARE

Order for Cut of Estimates in Budget Brings Revised Land Buying Plan.

NORTHWEST PROPERTY TO BE ACQUIRED FIRST

Management of Structures Now Occupied Will Be Given to Agent.

Adoption of a new policy in purchasing land for the Municipal Center is under consideration by the District Commissioners as a result of the order of the Budget Bureau to the Commissioners to cut the District's 1931 estimates by $2,000,000.

The Budget Bureau edict will mean that purchase of land for the center will not be completed within the time the Commmissioners estimated it would be when they adopted the present policy of buying property at any place in the four center squareys whenever it is offered at advantageous prices.

The present policy being carried out by the purchasing committee, headed by Maj. L. E. Atkins, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, is to buy immediately property offered at low prices, thereby giving the owners the advantage of a quick sale. Purchase of property for which the owners demand prices far in excess of the assessed value is to be deferred, under the plan, until all other property has been bought.

Plan Contingent on Larger Fund.

But this plan was adopted as a means of saving money at a time when Maj. Atkins and the Commissioners thought the District would have $3,500,000 for land and $500,000 for construction work in the 1931 appropriation act, in addition to the $3,000,000 already appropriated. This sum, it was believed, would permit completion of the acquisition of the property and the beginning of construction within the next two years.

In its order to the District Commissioners to cut their estimates the Budget Bureau did not specify any projects to be eliminated or curtailed, but because of the sorely pressing needs of various District services it is known that the Commissioners believe that the Municipal Center development should bear a large part of the reduction.

Because such a reduction will mean inability to complete acquisition of the four center squares within the time contemplated, the Commissioners are considering adoption of a policy calling for concentration of available funds on the purchase of property in the northwest square, in the northwest corner of which is to be built the courts building, the first unit of the Municipal Center development.

Negotiations to Continue.

The center is to lie between Third and Sixth streets, Pennsylvania avenue and Judiciary Square. Some property already has been purchased and negotiations are now being conducted for the acquirement of other properties in the squares. Some of these are in the square where the courts building will be built, but one pending deal involves a large building pending deals can be completed at in one of the other squares. If these advantageous terms the Commissioners do not contemplate abandoning negotiations.

Acquirement of property for the center has brought a new problem to the Commissioners. Almost all of the buildings in the territory are occupied and some of them are large buildings, containing many tenants, requiring janitor, elevator and other services.

The District government has no appropriation for the payment of persons necessary to do the work, nor is it especially equipped to take over the job of collecting rents from occupants of office buildings, and consideration is being given to a proposal to turn the whole task over to a real estate firm with authority to act for the District, the agent to pay the District a specified net rental.

Man Goes to Prison As Reckless Driver

Benjamin Chesivoir Jailed After Attorney Files Appeal Notice.

Despite announcement of his counsel that an appeal would be made to the District Court of Appeals, Benjamin Chesivoir, of Alexandria, Va., went to the District Jail yesterday to serve a 30-day sentence on a charge of reckless driving, Judge John P. McMahon, in Police Court, having refused to fix bond.

Chesivoir was arrested August 13 by Motorcycle Policeman J. A. Voss, of the Traffic Bureau. When arraigned the next day, he demanded a jury trial. Judge McMahon refused to permit such a procedure on a reckless driving charge and after hearing testimony sentenced the man to 30 days in jail. His attorney noted a motion for a new trial and Judge McMahon fixed bond at $500.

Hearing on the motion was held Saturday and overruled by the judge. Chesivoir was not present and his bond was ordered forfeited. Yesterday he appeared in court, the bond forfeiture was set aside and he was ordered committed.

DISTRICT SCHOOLS HAVE NEARLY 2,000 NEW SEATS, CLAIM

Assistant Superintendent Gives Housing Plans for Coming Year.

OFFICIAL OUTLINES BUILDING PROGRAM

Five Openings Planned for October First, Outlook Shows.

Seats for almost 2,000 school children will be available in new schools to be opened for service within a few days after the fall term starts, on September 23, according to information made public yesterday by Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools.

Much of this additional capacity will be required to provide for children previously schooled in portable buildings which have been condemned and taken out of service, or in rented quarters. Some of the children formerly housed in portable schools will be moved into classes already taught in old schools until new buildings now under construction or planned can be completed and put into service.

Five new school buildings are scheduled to be ready for occupancy by October 1. At least one more will be ready by the end of the current year, with several more in various stages of progress to be completed during the early part of 1930. The present building program of the District's educational organization also includes a number of buildings which probably will still be another year in construction.

Bowen School Ready.

Among the schools to be opened on October 1 is an addition to the Bowen School, to replace present rented quarters and to provide accommodations for about 350 children.

The new Francis Junior High School and the Tacoma Assembly gymnasium are both to be opened also on that date, as is an addition to the Raymond School to provide for about 350. There is a possibility, however that the Raymond addition may not be put into service until October 15.

By January 1, the new building of E. A. Paul Junior High School, at Brightwood, is scheduled to be completed, with accommodations for 650. Of these, some 300 are now being taught in temporary quarters, so that the new building will not only provide permanent teaching quarters for these, but will also offer accommodations for 350 new pupils.

Burrville School Planned.

Earlier plans called also for the completion of a new addition to the Burrville School, to accommodate about 350 children, by October 1, as well as of a new elementary school building at Nineteenth street and Columbia road northwest, but unavoidable and unforeseen circumstances have delayed the openings of both of these new institutions. Both will be ready for use by the start of the spring term next February, however, it was stated yesterday by Albert L. Harris, municipal architect.

Other new school buildings now under construction and expected to be ready for occupancy within six months or less include the Ben F. Murch School, the new Langdon School, the Powell School and the Adams School, all of which, Mr. Harris states, will be ready for service before February 1. The Adams School, with 24 rooms, will be the largest elementary school building in the District.

Among the new school buildings now in contemplation and for which plans are now being drawn are the proposed Roosevelt High School, the Alice Deal and Kingsman Junior High Schools, a sixteen-room addition to the Park View School, the proposed eight-room Bell School, a four-room addition to the Buchanan School and a gymnasium and assembly hall addition to the John Eaton School.

Some of these, it is hoped, will be ready within a year, although it will probably be early in 1931 before the Roosevelt, Deal and Kingsman buildings are completed.

More Teachers Needed.

Some increases in the teaching staffs will be required to provide for the additional seating capacity that will be provided in the buildings to be completed next month.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, now has under consideration a list of prospective appointees from which will be drawn such additional teachers as are needed, as well as others for replacement purposes.

Policeman Suspended After He Shoots Man

Leonard J. Thomas, policeman attached to the Eighth Precinct, was suspended from the force yesterday following the shooting of John R. Robinson, colored, 27 years old, 810 Twenty seventh street northwest, at Fourteenth and U streets northwest.

Thomas reported to Inspector Albert J. Headley that he shot Robinson in self defense. The shooting grew out of a quarrel over who had the right of way at the intersection. Thomas said that Robinson advanced on him threateningly. Robinson was taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment. His condition is not considered serious. The bullet struck him in the left hip.

SANDERS IS HELD IN GLASSMAN CASE

Eleven of Alleged Ring Have Now Surrendered to Authorities.

RUM HEARING DATE SET

With the surrender yesterday of Julius Sanders, only one of the dozen men whom the Government charges with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act by using the Herbert Glassman garages as depots and headquarters remains at liberty. He is Robert C. Jones.

Sanders, the eleventh of the men to surrender or be apprehended, gave himself up to Deputy United States Marshal John J. Clarkson and Sergt. George M. Little, of the police vice squad, yesterday morning and was immediately taken before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, Bond of $5,000 was assessed, and was immediately posted with Milton S. Kronheim as surety.

Sanders, who is specifically charged with participation in the alleged activities at the garage at 1319 L street northwest, entered a plea of not guilty. He was ordered to appear for hearing on September 5, but it is unlikely that the hearing will be held as the case already has been presented to the grand jury.

Sanders is the fifth of the men placed under $5,000 bond. The others are Herbert Glassman, his brother, David Glassman, Samuel Goldstein and Harry Behrle. The others who have surrendered or been apprehended are at liberty under $2,500 bonds. They are: Irving Rosenberg, Antonio D'Ambroisio, Harvey O'Connor, Alton Cissel, Francis Joseph Paxton and Jacob Miller.

The Government charges that the dozen men named in the warrants used the two Glassman garages at 2101-2105 Fourteenth street northwest, and 1319 L street northwest, for the purposes of storing large quantities of intoxicants which later were distributed to various places in Washington. The dozen men are now under a temporary injunction restraining them from violating the prohibition law, and efforts are being made to padlock the two garages.

Representative's Auto Is Damaged

A. M. Free Complainant in Hit-and-Run Charge; Hearing Delayed.

Representative Arthur M. Free (Republican), California, was the complaining witness in the trial yesterday in Police Court of Sidney Davis, colored, on a charge of leaving after colliding.

The representative testified that he parked his automobile near the Capitol Saturday morning and when he returned to it he found it upon the sidewalk and out of commission. He stated that from damage done and statements of witnesses he learned an automobile had struck his machine.

Davis was arrested by Policeman C. E. Musselman, of the Thirteenth Precinct, being traced by the license number of the alleged hit-and-run car, which was noted by several persons and reported to the representative. Davis told the court that he was not driving his automobile Saturday morning, having loaned it to a friend, and Judge John P. McMahon continued the hearing until an investigation of his story can be completed.

Boy Skating in Street Is Hurt by Automobile

Albert Pondexter, colored, 14 years old, 221 O street northwest, was knocked down and seriously injured yesterday afternoon by an automobile while he was skating in the street at O near Fourth northwest.

The boy was treated at Freedmen's Hospital for a compound fracture of the leg. Arthur W. French, 1121 Montello avenue northeast, was driving the automobile said to have struck the boy.

$150 Fine Imposed On Race Bet Charge

Browning George Clayton, 38 years old, of 1904 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, pleaded guilty in Police Court yesterday to accepting bets on race horses and was sentenced by Judge R. E. Mattingly to pay a fine of $150.

Clayton, according to records in the office of the United States Attorney, was trapped by members of Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman's vice squad. These state that Private Walter R. Ostrum, of the squad, made three bets with Clayton, placing $1 on horses August 8, August 12 and August 13.

NOTARY ANSWERS SUIT OVER NOTE

Leo V. Glorius Says Signer of Deed Was Properly Identified to Him.

CITES ALLEGED DEAL

Leo V. Glorious, a notary public, of 1420 K street northwest, through his attorney, Milton Strasburger, yesterday filed an answer and a demurrer to the suit recently brought against him and the Independence Indemnity Co. in the District Supreme Court by William A. Proctor, of 913 L street northwest.

Proctor seeks to recover $2,000 damages which he claims he suffered when he purchased a note secured by an alleged forged deed of trust, which was certified by Glorius. Jerry Maiatico, of 805 Fifth street northwest, whose name is alleged to have been forged to the deed of trust, also is suing Glorius for $2,000 as a result of the same transaction, but the answer and demurrer filed yesterday do no include that suit.

Glorious tells the court that the man whose name he acknowledged on the deed of trust was introduced to him as Maiatico by Harry Bramow, a local builder, whom he knew as a man of honesty and integrity. He denies that Proctor purchased for value the alleged promissory note secured by the deed of trust. He explains that Bramow owned a parcel of land worth $22,500, which was encumbered by a first deed of trust to that amount.

He asserts that Proctor entered into an agreement with Bramow to advance him a loan of approximately $10,000 to be secured by a second deed of trust against the same parcel of land. He alleges that Proctor desired to charge Bramow with an excessive bonus for the loan, and arranged with Bramow to convey the real estate to a third party in order that Proctor might be placed in the position of a purchaser of the note rather than a lender.

Glorius asserts that at all times he has faithfully discharged the duties of hisoffice as notary, and declares that his bond never went into effect because it never was approved by a justice of the District Supreme Court.

Police Badge Stolen From Apollo Theater

Paul A. Hurney, manager of the Apollo Theater, 624 Eighth street northeast, reported to police yesterday morning that robbers had entered the theater during the night and ransacked the office, taking a special police badge and two flashlights.

The robbers gained entrance by cutting a hole in the door on the east side of the building. Three men were said to have been seen to leave the building during the early morning hours and are believed to be the robbers.

Rider's Injuries Dressed.

Frank William, 32 years old, 308 Tenth street southeast, received treatment yesterday morning at Casualty Hospital for a lacerated scalp, which he told police he received while riding with friends in Maryland. After treatment the man left the hospital as his condition was reported to be not serious. He gave no further explanation of how he met with his injuries.

ATTEMPT TO SLAY GREEK ENVOY SEEN IN MAN'S THREATS

New York Decorator Pushes Way Into Legation With Pistol in Hand.

POLICE RUSH TO HELP AT SECRETARY'S CALL

Minister's Absence Because of Vacation May Have Saved His Life.

The absence of the Greek Minister, Charalambos Simopoulos, from the legation at 2139 R street northwest, yesterday morning may have saved him from being assassinated by Dionissios Catawatis, 43-year-old decorator of New York City, who forced his way into the legation and with a pistol in his hand demanded to see the minister.

Catawatis, who also goes under the alias of Dennis Williams, was disarmed and arrested by Detective Sergt. Dennis J. Cullinane, of police headquarters, in the kitchen of the legation, where he had gone to await the return of the minister, whom he had been informed was away on his vacation.

The prisoner was booked at headquarters on a charge of threatening Emile Vrisakis, first secretary of the legation, and with carrying concealed weapons. He was placed afterward in a cell at the First Precinct. When taken into custody, Catawatis is said to have had a fully loaded pistol in his pocket and a 6-inch bladed knife, which he told police he purchased in Philadelphia on his way to Washington yesterday morning.

Brushes Maid Aside.

Catawatis is said to have arrived at the legation shortly before noon yesterday, demanding that the maid show him to the minister. Brushing her aside when she told him that the minister was out of the city, Catawatis walked into the legation.

Vrisakis, hearing the disturbance in the auteroom, came down the stairs to learn the cause. Catawatis is said to have met him on the step, declaring:

"I feel like blowing your head off, but the minister is the man I want."

Vrisakis is said to have tried to calm Catawatis and to assure him that the minister was away and was not expected back for some time. Catawatis is said to have become more excited and to have charged that the Greek Legation and the Greek consul in New York had been the cause of his losing $150,000 by refusing him aid in a suit as a result of an injury to a brother in New York City.

Secretary Reaches Phone.

Catawatis then told Vrisakis that he intended to wait until the minister returned. The secretary managed to get to a telephone and to call police headquarters for aid. Detective Cullinane, driven in headquarters automobile by H. H. Carper, soon arrived at the legation.

He was told that Catawatis was in the kitchen and that he was fully armed. The prisoner saw the detectives and called out, "Don't come in here!"

Drawing his pistol, Cullinane rushed into the kitchen, as he did so, Catawatis is said to have dropped the knife. Then assisted by Carper, Cullinane overpowered the man and took a .32-caliber pistol from him, he said. Cullinane reported that Catawatis offered resistence when he was being taken from the legation.

Minister Simopoulos is at Newport, R. I., where he has been spending the summer. He is expected to return to the legation shortly.

Mother's High Heels Disastrous to Child

Wearing her mother's high heel shoes, Jeanne Gertrude Haight, 5 years old, 5915 Georgia avenue northwest, fell down the steps at her home yesterday and was injured.

The child was treated at Walter Reed Hospital for contusions on her head and body. Her condition is not serious. While her mother, Mrs. Allen C. Haight, was busy about the house, Jeanne decided she wanted to play at being grown up. She then decided that she would visit her aunt, who lives two flights below her and the fall resulted.

Teacher Sues Garage In Automobile Accident

Elizabeth A. Higgins, a school teacher, of 1735 New Hampshire avenue northwest, filed suit in District Supreme Court yesterday against Gish Garage, Inc., and Leslie A. Fendall, an employe of the company, seeking to recover $25,000 damages for personal injuries alleged to have been suffered in an automobile accident.

The woman tells the court that on March 8, last, she was crossing Eighteenth street at U street northwest when an automobile owned by the garage and operated by Fendall knocked her down and ran over her. She asserts that the driver of the automobile violated several traffic regulations. Attorney Lewis H. Barnes represents her.
